SELLER SAYS P-38 DID NOT HAVE CAA CERTIFICATE SO FAR AS HE KNEW

Testifies Two Bolivians Assumed Liability for Any Damage on Test Flight — Crash With Airliner Followed.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 — The war surplus P-38 fighter airplane which flew into an Eastern Air Lines DC-4 Nov. 1, killing 55 persons, was operating without a Civil Aeronautics Administration certificate of air-worthiness so far as he knew, Paul M. Aubin, president of the Universal Air & Marine Supply Co., testified today.

Aubin, who had contracted to sell the airplane to the Bolivian Government for $15,500, told an inquiry panel of the Civil Aeronautics Board the only CAA certificate for the plane—which had been flown in air races—of which he had knowledge was one for the ferry flight of the P-38 from Seymour, Ind., where it had been in storage, to Washington.

"The airplane belonged to Bolivia," said Aubin, explaining his disinterest in its CAA certification. Whether it did or not is one of the questions that probably will have to be settled by litigation.

Representatives of the Bolivian Government say they had not accepted delivery of the plane, pending a test flight by Erick Rios Bridoux, director of civil aviation for Bolivia. Rios Bridoux was on that test flight, over the Washington National airport, when the collision occurred.

Reluctant to Allow Flight.

Aubin testified he had been reluctant to let Rios Bridoux take the airplane up for the test flight, because only a $1000 deposit had been made on the purchase contract. He agreed to the test flight, he said, when Rios Bridoux and Maj. German Pol of the Bolivian air force signed a statement that Bolivia would be responsible for any damages.

Aubin's testimony was at variance with that of Rios Bridoux on the point of whether the National Airport tower controllers had been asked to use signal lights with which the tower was equipped in the event of failure of the P-38 radio during the test flight.

Rios Bridoux, in a deposition given in a hospital at Alexandria, Va., where he is recovering from severe injuries, including a broken back, had said he asked Aubin to telephone that request to the tower. Aubin, he said, went into a building near the airport, and on his return said "all set," which he took to mean that the message had been transmitted.

Aubin's version, however, was merely that Rios Bridoux asked him to telephone to the tower that he was ready to take off. "I do not recall that he said anything about lights," Aubin testified. "If he did, I didn't hear him."

Rios Bridoux had made such a request on a previous occasion when he went to the airport to test the P-38, Aubin said, and he had telephoned that message to the tower. But on that day Rios Bridoux decided not to take the plane into the air.

Bolivia's Stand o Ownership.

Maj. German Pol, air transport chief in the Bolivian air force, had said in a sworn statement previously that "the Bolivian Government has consistently taken the position that the plane is still the property of Universal and never became the property of the Bolivian Government."

Aubin read a statement with permission of presiding officer Robert W. Chrisp, despite vigorous objection by Harold A. Jones, a member of the CAB. Jones contended the details of the purchase

Student Kills Fraternity Brother Trying to Disarm Him After Party

JAMES D. HEER

Columbus (O.) Police Quote Youth: 'Whenever I Get Drunk, I Get Trigger-Happy.'

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—An Ohio State University student was shot to death by a fraternity brother early today after a homecoming party at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house.

The victim was Jack T. McKeown, 21 years old, of Norwood, a senior and managing editor of the Ohio State Lantern, student daily.

James D. Heer, 20, of Euclid, a first-year veterinary student and a fraternity pledge, was taken in custody at a sewage disposal plant, five miles from the fraternity house.

Police said Heer admitted the shooting. They quoted the student: "'Whenever I get drunk, I get trigger-happy.'"

McKeown was shot once with a .45-caliber automatic pistol as he tried to disarm Heer on the fraternity house lawn at 2:30 a.m., fraternity men said.

"Went Berserk" After Party.

Fraternity brothers said Heer "went berserk" after accompanying a young woman home from the party. They said Heer took the pistol from the room of a fraternity brother and ran to the lawn. As other students tried to pacify him, he warned them to leave him alone.

McKeown then tried to quiet the student.

"I shoved him away and told him I'd shoot him if he didn't stay away," Heer related later. One shot was fired and McKeown fell. Heer then fired another shot and fled.

He hailed a taxicab and instructed the driver to take him to police headquarters. But en route he stopped the taxicab and thumbed a ride to the vicinity of the disposal plant.

Heer walked to the plant office, knocked on the door and extended his pistol, butt first, to the caretaker. The caretaker refused to take the gun. Heer then telephoned the state highway patrol. Patrolman Harry Kellerberger said the student announced: "I'm Jim Heer. I just killed a man on Thirteenth avenue. Bring a tommy gun down with you. I'm going to run. I want to get it over with."

The highway patrolman notified police, and 14 patrolmen sped to the scene.

Heer, in a darkened room, was ordered to come out with his hands up. The youth obeyed and was disarmed.

Victim Dies in Hospital.

Meanwhile, McKeown had been taken from the fraternity house to University hospital, where he died within a few minutes.

At police headquarters the tuxedo-attired Heer asserted he was intoxicated when the shooting occurred, police said.

Joyce Crafton, 22, of Cleveland, Heer's companion during the evening, was released on $300 bond as a material witness. She is not a university student.

Eight freternity brothers were ordered into police headquarters, but were not booked. They were instructed to return to the fraternity house and not leave until police obtained statements from them.

McKeown attended the University of Missouri at Columbia for one year, then transferred to Ohio State. His father is an assembler at the Fisher body plant in Norwood. A brother, Frank, 28, an Air Force veteran, is a student at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Heer is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Heer of Euclid. He served three years in the marines. The elder Heer is a warehouse superintendent.

COLD FRONT, DUE TODAY, TO DRIVE OFF BALMY WEATHER

St. Louisans Sleep Under Light Covers—Wild Violets Blossom in County.

The balmy temperatures, which rose to a record high yesterday for that date, probably will be gone by late today when the arrival of a cold front from the northwest is expected, Harry F. Wahlgren, meteorologist, said.

When the thermometer hit 80 at 1 p.m. yesterday, it established the warmest Nov. 11 in the history of the Weather Bureau. The previous record was 78, set in 1911. The Nov. 11 of that year also is the coldest on record. The temperature dropped from 78 to 18 within nine hours.

The mercury remained in the 60s all last night, causing St. Louisans to sleep under light covers. Wild violets have blossomed in some parts of St. Louis county within the last few days.

TRAPS BURGLAR SEEKING LINDBERGH TROPHY DIAMONDS

Louis Egenriether, a watchman at Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park, was slugged by a burglar in the basement of the building after closing hours yesterday but managed to lock his assailant in a room until police arrived.

Egenriether entered the basement showroom of the east wing when he was slugged with what later proved to be a sawed-off piece of billiard cue. He drew his revolver and held the man at bay until he could lock the man in the room. He then went to a telephone and called police.

Police found Glen Louis Patton, who said he has no home or occupation, hiding behind an antique fire engine in the basement room. He admitted secreting himself in the building until after closing hours.

Police quoted Patton as saying he intended to steal diamonds set in the trophies of Charles A. Lindbergh. The trophies, housed on the first floor of the building, were awarded the flyer after his solo flight across the Atlantic ocean in 1927.

Patton was booked suspected of assault with intent to kill and attempted burglary. Egenriether, who lives at 3334 South Compton avenue, was treated for lacerations of the scalp at City Hospital and released.

NUDISM GAINING IN BRITAIN, 50,000 NOW GO NATURAL

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Nudism is booming in Britain. More people are walking around naked than ever before.

Not in public, of course—the law frowns on that—but in flourishing "naturist' camps scattered throughout the country. Leaders of the open-air cult say happily they've never seen anything like it.

Britain's few hundred timid prewar nudists have grown into a lusty movement 50,000 strong. In 1938 there were 20 nudist clubs. Now there are 60. Many non-club "naturists" enjoy life in the raw in the privacy of their own homes and gardens.

The British Sun Bathing Association—biggest nudist group—has just voted to incorporate nudity. It's forming a limited company of 200 shareholders.

Right now the clammy British winter has driven all except the hardiest "naturists" into long underwear. But the B.S.B.A. hopes next summer will be the best ever for the one out of every 1000 Britons it says likes to frolic naked in the sun.

One of its objectives is to win the legal right to bathe in the nude on approved public beaches.

SECOND STORM IN 11 DAYS HITS CENTRAL PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Nov. 12 (AP) — A tropical storm threw 70-mile-an-hour winds and torrential rains at the typhoon-battered central Philippines today. First casualty reports listed five dead or missing.

The Philippines Red Cross feared the new storm would hamper relief operations in the central islands, where 832 persons lost their lives in a typhoon that hit only 11 days ago.

TITO BREAKS OFF ALBANIA TREATY, ACCUSES NEIGHBOR OF HOSTILE ACTS

Yugoslav Note Charges Russia With Pushing Tirana Government Into Policy of Violating Amity Pact.

By ALEX SINGLETON

BELGRADE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Yugoslavia renounced its treaty of friendship with Albania today and charged that country with acts of hostility it said were provoked by Russia.

It marked the first time Premier Josip (Tito) Broz's independent Communist government has taken the initiative in breaking off friendship pacts with Cominform countries. Previously Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria all cast aside those ties with Yugoslavia in steps verging on a break in diplomatic relations.

"Policy of Open Hostility."

The Yugoslav note—more than 3000 words long—was handed to the Albanian legation here at noon. It listed in detail this country's accusations of "hostile" acts on the part of Albania, but emphasized at one point that the Tirana government had been "pushed into its policy of open hostility and violation" of the treaty by Russia and the other Cominform countries.

"The eastern European countries, headed by the U.S.S.R., have sacrificed the interests of Albania solely in order to realize their own dark plan against Yugoslavia," the note said. It concluded:

"The Yugoslav Government, despite the fact that it is not indifferent to the imperilment of the independence and integrity of Albania and despite the fact that the sympathies of the government and the people of Yugoslavia for the Albanian people continue unswervingly and sincerely, states that it considers itself freed of obligations arising from the treaty of friendship and mutual help which was concluded between Yugoslavia and Albania on July 9, 1947."

The formal renunciation followed by eight days a note to Albania demanding that Albania cease hostile acts, live up to the terms of the treaty and reply to that request "within the shortest possible time." That note fell just short of an ultimatum.

Border Provocations Charged.

In its new note, Yugoslavia charged the Albanian Government has "conducted a most furious, hostile campaign against Yugoslavia through its press and radio." It also said:

"Albanian border authorities have made it absolutely impossible for Yugoslavs owning property on both sides of the border to cross the frontier and make use of their properties on Albanian territory. These people were arrested, mistreated and thrown into Albanian prisons."

The note also accused Albania of organizing "a group of traitors and deserters, using them for the provocation of frontier incidents and for subversive activities against the independence and integrity of Yugoslavia."

It also said the Albanian Government "organized a provocative trial aimed at slandering the federal people's republic of Yugoslavia."

People Behind Him, Tito Says.

Tito said yesterday the Yugoslav people are united in supporting his fight against Soviet domination.

He told a group of Yugoslav newspaper men his government didn't know how the people would react when it split with the Cominform more than 16 months ago. Now, he said, the situation had eased because 98 per cent of the people were behind him.

He asserted the Yugoslavs were "ready to hold out to the end" in the bitter feud against Russian attempts to unseat his Communist government, which has demanded "equal rights" with all other Communist states and has refused to follow blindly the Russian orders.

Outwardly, Tito said, Yugoslavia now has "all the world against us." But this, he added, was only partly true, because the "progressive world is learning the truth about us."

He indicated that his ideals were still staunchly Communist and opposed to western capitalism.

Meanwhile, a new incident in the Cominform fight against Tito was reported. Bulgaria renounced its pact with Yugoslavia permitting nationals of both countries

LIFE-TERMER WINS NEW TRIAL, GETS DEATH SENTENCE

HILLSBORO, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—Cecil Yankey—facing death in the electric chair—probably pondered the quirks of fate today.

Yankey was charged with the murder of 71-year-old Leroy Woodland, an old-age pensioner, in a robbery March 20, 1947. He pleaded guilty at his first trial and was sentenced to life in prison.

After serving two and a half years in Ohio penitentiary, he challenged the validity of his sentence because it was handed down by a one-judge court instead of a jury or a three-judge panel.

The courts upheld his counsel's contention the sentence was illegal. However, they overruled the contention Yankey couldn't be made to face trial again on the same charge.

His second trial before a jury of eight men and four women in Highland county ended yesterday.

The verdict: Guilty, without recommendation of mercy. That makes the death penalty mandatory in Ohio.

VISHINSKY DENIES RUSSIA REFUSES TO PERMIT U.N. ATOM INSPECTION

Says What Western Nations Want Is to Run Soviet Plants — Sovereignty Must Be Respected.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 12 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky insisted today the Soviet Union has offered to open up its territory for atomic inspections.

Vishinsky jumped into the closing stages of a United Nations debate on atomic energy with a fiery answer to John D. Hickerson, assistant Secretary of State. Hickerson yesterday told the Special Political Committee that the Soviet Union refused to open its territory.

The Soviet delegate said Hickerson was in error.

"There is no warrant," Vishinsky said, "for his stating we refuse to open up our territory for inspection."

Cites 1947 Soviet Proposal.

Vishinsky said the Soviet proposal of June 11, 1947, for an international atomic control commission showed that the Soviet Union is willing to open its doors to inspection and control.

He said the Western majority really wants to run the plants in the Soviet Union and that the point involved is not inspection. He said the control organ proposed by the Russians would be able to carry out its work on Soviet territory.

Vishinsky said the Americans want to own atomic facilities all over the world just like they have "spangled" the globe with military bases.

"We cannot and will not, and never shall grant to an international commission the ownership of our land," Vishinsky said. "Provided our sovereignty is respected, we are prepared to accept control if there are no abuses."

He said the commission can come "into our house" and "smell, feel and touch" the atomic materials. He said there is no reason for anyone feeling that "we wish to evade control."

Vishinsky's Proposal.

Vishinsky has demanded that the committee accept a Soviet resolution calling on the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission to resume sessions, broke off last July 29. He wants the commission to draw up first a convention barring atomic bombs and then another convention on control.

The second pact would set up an international control commission working under the Security Council, where the Russians have the veto. It calls for inspection of atomic plants declared by each country. The western powers have answered time and again this is not effective control and they cannot accept this plan. The General Assembly rejected it last year. Hickerson repeated this refusal yesterday.

Vishinsky told the committee Thursday that the Soviet Union is using atomic energy for such peaceful purposes as razing mountains, irrigating deserts and clearing jungles and arctic wastes. Hickerson gave the United States's reply yesterday.

Hickerson said the United States is both using and sharing its atomic knowledge throughout the world for medical and research purposes. He called on the Russians to say what they are doing on a share basis.

Then Hickerson said "if nations have devices that can level mountains, they also have devices that can level cities. . . . That is why the United Nations (majority) plan provides for an international co-operative to take over all such dangerous materials and facilities and to make sure that they are used for peaceful purposes only."

Commenting directly on Vishinsky's claim that Russia uses atomic energy only in a vast land-reclamation program, Hickerson said: "Whether or not this is nonsense I will not say."

He told the committee that while the United States had "not attempted anything so spectacular as mountain-moving," his country had not neglected the peaceful side of atomic energy.

"For example," he said, "for some time the United States Atomic Energy Commission has been distributing either free or at very low cost isotopes for medical and research purposes to any and all countries which desire them. To date I believe some 30 countries have received shipments. Soviet scientists are offered the same opportunities that have been given scientists of other countries, providing they comply with the conditions applicable to all. These conditions merely call for a collective and open sharing of scientific results and developments. What is the Soviet Union doing to share the knowledge of the peaceful uses it has developed?"

Sets the Record Right.

Vishinsky was not present when Hickerson spoke yesterday. Today, however, he denied he ever mentioned anything about moving mountains. He said that was said by some German newspaper and this newspaper must bear its own responsibility.

Instead, he said, he talked about blowing up mountains in his speech last Thursday.

The verbatim record of the Vishinsky speech on Thursday records him as saying: "We are razing mountains, we are irrigating deserts, we are cutting through the jungle and the tundra; we are spreading life, happiness, prosperity and welfare in places where the human footstep has not been seen for thousands of years."

STRIKE ENDS AT U.S. STEEL; PENSION-INSURANCE PLAN GRANTED IN TWO-YEAR PACT

Well-Earned Rest for Ching

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

CYRUS CHING, chief of the United States mediation service, settles down for a holiday weekend in Washington with all the comforts of home arranged by MRS. CHING. There are slippers and jacket, his famed pipes on rack at left and the evening paper. But, come Monday, he will have to leave the easy chair to resume tussles on the labor front, where the coal dispute remains problem No. 1.

MURRAY EXPECTS 90 PCT. OF BASIC INDUSTRY TO BE SIGNED BY MONDAY

Company Says It Will Be Back in Operation by Tuesday—Inland Steel Agreement Is Also Reached.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—The most costly steel strike in American history practically ended today after the CIO United Steel Workers signed the mammoth United States Steel Corp. to a pension-and-insurance pact.

Inland Steel Corp. agreed to a similar peace agreement on the Bethlehem pattern 3½ hours after the Big Steel settlement last night. The strike began 42 days ago.

Those settlements left 124,600 strikers idle of about 513,000 steel workers who walked off their jobs last Oct. 1 in support of demands for company-paid pensions.

177,000 Workers Affected.

The end of the strike against Big Steel, largest steel producer in the world, which produces one-third of the steel produced in the nation, gave 177,000 unionists the "go back to work" signal. The agreement covers only 150,000 employes in six major operating subsidiaries but the corporation said the union agreed that all workers should return at once. Formal contracts will be signed later with other subsidiaries.

Union president Philip Murray predicted 90 per cent of basic steel —the plants which produce raw steel—"will be signed to the new Bethlehem-type contract by Monday morning."

Murray said he thought Wheeling Steel Co. of Wheeling, W.Va., would sign up "sometime today." Wheeling employes about 20,000 He said Allegheny-Ludlum, with 12,000 employes, probably would sign Monday. Other holdouts included Crucible Steel, Sharon, American Rolling Mill and Pittsburgh Steel. Numerous small fabricators still were to be signed.

Provisions at Bethlehem.

The Bethlehem settlement, signed Oct. 31, provides $100 minimum monthly pension payments to workers 65 years old who have served 25 years. The workers do not have to pay into the fund but they do contribute to federal social security which is added to company pensions to make up the $100 total. Workers with fewer years of service will receive proportionately smaller pensions.

The agreement provides also for a 5-cent-an-hour social insurance program. That cost is shared equally by workers and company.

Wages are unchanged for steel workers, now earning an average of $1.65 an hour.

The new insurance and pension programs continue in effect for five years, subject to the right of United States Steel to terminate the pension plan at the end of two years if it desires. Labor contracts setting forth rates of pay and the like which would have expired April 30, 1950, now continue until Dec. 31, 1951.

The Bethlehem pact broke the log jam in the long strike. Once the country's second largest steel company pointed the way, Jones & Laughlin, No. 4 producer, and Republic Steel, third biggest steel maker, and other firms signed up on the same formula.

That represented a departure from the past, when United States Steel customarily acted as the industry's bellwether in contract matters. It was United States Steel which granted the union an 18½ cents an hour wage rise in 1946 to end a 26-day strike. That settlement set the course for the entire industry. In 1947 and 1948 the big corporation also nad a major voice in wage agreements.

View on Price Rise.

Asked if the settlements now signed with about 50 large and small companies would bring higher steel prices, Murray said:

YOUNG MAN WITH $17,199 IN CASH IS HELD FOR INQUIRY

Skating Rink Attendant With Criminal Record Says He Found Money in Metal Box.

Police are holding a young man booked as Charles H. Sweigert, alias James Ward, Hollywood (Calif.) skating rink attendant, who had $17,199 cash on his person and in a brief case when arrested yesterday at Hotel Lennox.

Sweigert, arrested in a two-room suite at the Lennox by detectives of the hotel squad, had $7470 in a money belt and $29 in his billfold. The officers learned their prisoner was also registered at Hotel Chase. In his room there they found $9700 in a brief case. He had luggage in the room at Hotel Chase, but checked in at the Lennox without baggage, paying for the suite in advance.

C. H. Sweigert

In reply to detectives' questions, Sweigert said the cash was his, and he refused to reveal its source. To a Post-Dispatch reporter, who saw him in the Central District holdover today, he said he found a metal box containing the money at the Polar Palace, a Hollywood ice rink, three months ago. He said he was working at the rink as an attendant when repairs were being made, and saw the box underneath the bandstand.

'Waited for Somebody to Scream.'

"I took the box home and found it contained $18,900," Sweigert told the reporter. "I didn't try too hard to find the owner, just waited for somebody to scream about it," he observed. "When no one said anything, I packed the cash into the

LUXURY CRUISER CORSAIR AGROUND IN MEXICAN PORT

Former Yacht of J. Pierpont Morgan Beached After Hitting Rocks.

ACAPULCO, Mexico, Nov. 12 (AP)—The luxury cruiser Corsair, once the private yacht of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, went aground early today after striking rocks in Acapulco harbor.

Passengers said there was "no panic" and "no great excitement." The 46 passengers and crew of 82 were taken off in lifeboats and small harbor craft.

Port officials said the accident occurred a few minutes after midnight as the Corsair sailed for Los Angeles. Although it was going slowly, a large hole was torn in the bow. Shipping men said it would have sunk if Capt. H. Nedden, of Vancouver, B.C., had not headed it for a nearby beach.

While the Corsair was being beached, passengers were assembled at their boats. When the boats touched water, they had only a short distance to go.

Among the passengers were Maj. Gen. Frank P. Barrows, former president of the University of California, and his wife. Mrs. Barrows said she never was worried and "not at all frightened."

Passengers went back to their hotels after leaving the vessel.

The Corsair, built at a cost of $3,000,000 in 1930 as a private yacht for Morgan, was in war service before being turned into a cruise ship. It went on the rocks in 1937 in Nassau harbor, Bahamas, with Morgan aboard.

BOYS IN BACK SEAT OF AUTO STEER BY MEANS OF REINS

Detective Chases Machine When He Sees It Roll By With Nobody Behind Wheel.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12 (UP)—Nobody was behind the wheel of the automobile that whizzed past Detective Sgt. Elmer Sokol.

Sokol gave chase. When he overtook the automobile he found three high school boys in the back seat. They were steering by means of reins attached to the wheel.

Sokol gave them a ticket for reckless driving.

GERMAN GIRL HAS 3000 SUITORS, OTHERS SEEK SHARE IN LUCK

OLDENBURG, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP)—Pretty Sigrid von Haessler is the envy of other German girls. She claims to have received 3000 marriage proposals since her photograph appeared in the American magazine True.

Now women are writing to her from this country where war depleted the ranks of men. They say:

"You have 3000 wooers. You can only marry one. How about giving me one of the other 2999?"

The letters of proposal have come from many parts of the world. However, the 23-year-old beauty is exercising a woman's prerogative. She has not made up her mind.

Sigrid, a former doctor's assistant, actress and dancer, was married once before. Her husband was a German naval officer.

She told reporters that two of the leading candidates were a newspaper man (unidentified) in Tokyo and a chap who sent his mother to convince Sigrid that he was the man.

College Debate on Women's Honor Draws Full House, as It Did in 1763

PRINCETON, N.J., Nov. 12 (AP)—Skirts may climb higher and necklines may plunge lower, but — by gadfrey, sir — Princeton men still believe every woman should defend her honor to her dying breath. Longer, if necessary.

The Princeton men's views on the subject of honor were made plain last night when a three-man Nassau debating team took on a team from Yale.

Subject of the debate was: "Resolved, a woman should choose death before dishonor."

Princeton defended the resolution. The Yale men took the negative.

The verbal tussle, which was held in staid old Whig Hall, drew an overflow audience. Watching 300 students fight their way into an auditorium designed to hold 250, one professor expressed amazement over the sudden interest in debating.

He said: "Debates have played to empty houses here since 1763 when teams from Princeton and Harvard debated the same dishonor vs. death resolution. There was standing room only then, too."

Just for the record, Yale won the debate.

Wasp Sting Kills Allergic Man; Fluid Fills Lungs and He Drowns

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALISBURY, Conn., Nov. 12—Howard Sinclair Kerner died from the sting of a wasp.

Kerner, 73 years old, retired commander of a United States submarine chaser in World War I, was stung Thursday night as he sat in the rectory of St. John's Episcopal Church, listening to Maj. Paul Meyer, United States Army (retired), tell of his experiences as a German prisoner of war in World War II.

Kerner turned to a companion and said he had just been stung. A moment later he went into another room, where he lapsed into a coma. He died shortly afterward.

Dr. Clark K. Peterson, medical examiner, said Kerner died of acute anaphylaxis, which caused the lungs to fill with fluid and the result was the same as if he drowned.

Kerner had been stung three times previously this year, and Dr. Peterson said each time Kerner fell unconscious for two or three minutes but was revived with adrenalin. He said Kerner was especially allergic to wasp venom and that such persons were "extremely rare."

CHING AND COAL OPERATORS WARY OF LEWIS FEELER FOR NEW TALKS

Mediator Says He Has No Plan for Meeting, and Is Believed to Be Mapping New Moves for Early Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Both the Government and coal industry leaders looked warily today at John L. Lewis's peace feelers for a new United Mine Workers contract.

Neither showed signs of jumping at Lewis's bid to meet with Federal Mediation Chief Cyrus S. Ching "or anybody else," including the mine operators.

Ching said he had no present plans to call new coal peace meetings and the Government contemplated no new moves until Monday. He added that he wasn't sure he would take any action then.

The coal operators said there seemed to be no use meeting with Lewis again until he tailors down his demands more to their liking. They want an extension of the old coal contract, the one that expired last July 1. Also, they are demanding more assurances against frequent mine shutdowns and closer checks over miners' welfare fund expenditures.

Lewis has said he wants higher pay, shorter hours and a boost in the present 20-cent tonnage royalty toward the welfare fund, from which miners' pensions and other insurance benefits are paid.

Ching Mapping Strategy.

Ching, in close touch with John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman, obviously was mapping some new moves for early next week.

Setting up a fact-finding board to hear both sides of the six-month contract dispute, and make recommendations for a settlement, still was being considered.

The possibility that such a board may be named by President Truman was somewhat diminished, however, by Lewis's comment at his New York press conference yesterday.

Asked about the idea, Lewis said: "I doubt that any non-technical board, without knowledge of the facts and time to familiarize themselves with the problem, could throw any light on it at this time."

From all indications Lewis wants the Government to stay out of the picture and get him alone to work out some deal with operators. But with the operators adamant, the best information was that Administration officials have no intention of letting the situation drift into another strike.

Truce Ends Dec. 1.

Lewis called off a 52-day strike last Wednesday. However, he put it in the form of a truce ending Dec. 1. That's only two and a half weeks away, and Lewis has strongly hinted there will be another strike then if he has no contract.

Government officials handling the situation say they feel Lewis should be given the same opportunity as was given Philip Murray, head of the CIO and leader of the United Steel Workers.

A fact-finding board, named outside the provisions of the Taft-Hartley law, came out with a peace plan in steel that helped pave the way for pension-insurance strike settlements.

But it seems fairly clear officials worried about Lewis will recommend that President Truman invoke Taft-Hartley court injunction procedures, if that's what it will take to avoid a new coal strike. This would call for appointing a different type of fact-finding board, one lacking power to recommend settlement terms.

Since, under the Taft-Hartley law, a report from such a board is necessary before a court injunction barring strikes can be sought, the emergency clauses of the law would have to be invoked probably next week to avoid a strike by Dec. 1.

It would take a week or 10 days for a Taft-Hartley board to hold hearings and prepare a report. So the Administration probably will have to make a decision next week, barring a sudden settlement engineered by Lewis, on what method it will follow to block a new coal strike.

C. & O. Calls Back 1836 of 9000 Furloughed Workers.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway yesterday recalled 1836 of about 9000 employes furloughed because of the coal strike. It is the largest originating soft-coal hauling railroad in the country.

The railway said more of the furloughed men will be recalled as more coal starts for the market.

Steel Town a Happy Place as Strike Ends; 'Now We Can Go Back to Eating Regularly'

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Members of the CIO United Steel Workers Local 1347 at Homestead, Pa., tear up picketing placards after learning of the agreement ending their 42-day strike.

Celebration Quiet for Most Part — Not Many Have Too Much Money to Spend.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP) — This typical steel-making community was a happy place today. On every hand, end of the great steel strike of 1949 was the main topic of conversation.

That was true in the homes, on street corners, in bars, in the groceries—and inside the plant of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., subsidiary of giant United States Steel Corp.

The plant itself was busy as maintenance men hurried to get the mill in operation. Work started right after the word was flashed last night that Big Steel had agreed to the pension and insurance demands of the CIO United Steel Workers.

Little Money to Spend.

Minutes after the agreement was reached, steel workers and their wives embraced. Many families went to the business section to take part in the celebration. For the most part it was quiet—not many steel workers had too much money to spend.

Typical of the comment was that of John Balint, 20 years old. He has worked in the mill 18 months and supports his parents.

He said he was in a celebrating mood but didn't have the funds. He laughed and added: "I'm going to have a heck of a hangover after the first pay."

CIO Officer 'Darned Glad.'

J. F. Bresko, president of Steelworkers' Local 1347, took a grim satisfaction in tearing and burning picket signs.

"I'm darned glad, not only for myself, but for all the workers, that the strike's over," Bresko commented. "The workers will benefit enough by their gains to offset the strike."

Alert Urasek, 33, was carrying groceries home when his wife rushed to the street to tell him the news.

He nearly dropped the groceries, then declared: "Thank God, it's over. I've only been buying enough food to get along on from day to day. Now we can go back to eating regularly."

Private Strike Funds Used Up.

"It sure feels swell," said Jack Murphy, 42, a steel laborer for 20 years. "I had a 'strike fund' of my own for a while, but I went broke about a month after the strike started. I've got four kids and I didn't know where our next meal was coming from."

Jim Lally, an open-hearth worker, predicted "slim pickin's" at Christmas time. "Things are going to be tough for us a month yet," he said. "We'll get paid in time for Christmas but we owe so much money . . ."

Older steel workers were the most pleased at the strike settlement which guarantees them $100 minimum pensions when they are 65 and have completed 25 years' service.

"Now I've got something to look forward to in 10 years," said Joe Sobocinski, 55.

Steel Union's Demands, Board's Proposals, Settlement Terms

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP).

ORIGINAL demands of the CIO United Steel Workers against the steel industry underwent some changes in the 42-day-long strike.

Here is a comparison of (1) original demands, with (2) modified demands and (3) the final settlement:

1. Last May the union announced it was seeking a 30-cent-an-hour package, to be split this way: 12½ cents for an hourly wage increase, 11.23 cents for a company-paid pension, and 6.27 cents for a company-financed insurance program. The industry flatly refused the demands.

2. After President Truman's steel fact-finding board on Sept. 10 made its recommendations, which were not binding on anyone, the union accepted them as its demands. The board's report recommended against any wage increase but urged industry and union adopt a 10-cent-an-hour pension and insurance program which would be paid for entirely by the employers. Six of the 10 cents would be used to pay for a free pension plan and the remaining 4 cents would go for social insurance covering death benefits, accident insurance and the like.

3. Beginning with the Bethlehem Steel Co. agreement on Oct. 31, the union insisted on that pact. It calls for $100 minimum monthly pensions, including social security, to be paid to workers 65 years of age who have 25 years' service. Workers 65 with less service receive proportionately smaller pensions. The program, except for employe contributions to social security, is financed by the company. The pact provides also that a 5-cent-an-hour social insurance program be established. Workers and company each contribute two and one half cents.

U.S. STEEL STRIKE ENDS AS PENSION PLAN IS GRANTED

"I can't answer that, of course. But as far as I am concerned, there is absolutely no justification for a price increase."

The nation is about three quarters of a billion dollars poorer in wages, steel production and profits as a direct result of the strike. Losses in allied industries as an indirect result of the walkout cannot be computed, but they undoubtedly run well into hundreds of millions more.

About 10,000,000 tons of steel would have been turned out by the industry during the period of idleness. Three million tons, however, would be non-salable waste. At the current average price of $65 a ton, this figures out to a total of $455,000,000. The steel workers lost an estimated $270,000,000 in wages.

Some of the laid-off workers will be slow in returning to work. In the automobile manufacturing industry, where 43,000 employes are idle, several weeks will be required to build up steel stockpiles.

Production Figures.

Return of United States Steel to steelmaking will boost the operating rate to a near normal figure. The national rate was 84.6 per cent of theoretical capacity before the strike. It sank to from 9 to 12 per cent during the walkout and increased to about 25 per cent just before United States Steel and the union made their peace. United States Steel accounts for about 33 per cent of all American steelmaking capacity.

President Benjamin F. Fairless of U.S. Steel, who led the industry's fight against the union's demands, said in a statement: "We welcome the conclusion of the strike and resumption of steel operations which will enable us to do our part in meeting the steel needs of the nation."

Vice President John A. Stephens of the corporation, who signed the pact with Murray, said last night the company would be pouring steel by Monday or Tuesday, and added: "I should assume that in the course of four or five days we will be going along at a pretty good clip."

Turning to Murray, he said: "I can think of no more appropriate day than Armistice day to bring this thing to a conclusion." Murray smilingly agreed.

Choice of Plans at Inland.

(An Inland executive at Chicago told the United Press that firm's settlement was unusual in that it provided two pension plans and "preserves for the individual worker his right to choose between them."

(The plans are not competitive, the spokesman said. One is a company-paid plan based on the Bethlehem formula, the other an "optional pension plan" which the company has had for many years. He said both plans offer $100 minimum pensions for 25 years' service.)

Federal officials in Washington said the end of the strike against United States Steel would end the crisis and avert critical shortages of steel.

Statement by Fact-Finder.

Chairman Carroll R. Daugherty of President Truman's steel fact-finding board hailed the strike's end with this statement:

"It is an indication of what real collective bargaining can do when parties want to get together and find a suitable solution of their differences. The terms of the settlement are entirely within the framework of the steel fact-finding board's recommendations." Last Sept. 10, after the union had called a strike and the President had postponed it with the board's appointment, the three-man panel recommended a 10-cent-an-hour pension-insurance package to be paid for by the companies. Six cents would cover pension costs and 4 cents would go for insurance expenses.

The steel industry was willing to bargain on the basis of the report. The union accepted it without reservations.

But industry refusal to be bound in advance to the principle that workers need not contribute to welfare programs prevented resumption of negotiations. That impasse brought on the steel strike Oct. 1.

This year's steel strike was the sixth big one in the industry since 1900. The others were:

1901—Two months, 75,000 workers.

1919—Three and a half months, 367,000.

1937—Two months, 92,000.

1943—Two days, 134,000.

1946—25 days (longer with some firms), 750,000.

UNION SHOP UAW GOAL AT GENERAL MOTORS

Policy Council Decides That Will Be a Major Demand for 1950.

DETROIT Nov. 12 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers will demand a union shop at General Motors Corp. in 1950 contract talks.

This decision was taken yesterday at the final session of the UAW General Motors policy council made up of delegates from all over the country.

A union shop contract for General Motors' 265,000 workers within UAW jurisdiction would require that all be union members. New employes would have to join the UAW within 30 days after being hired.

The UAW now has a union shop contract covering Ford Motor Co.'s 115,000 production workers.

The 250-man council announced it would ask the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a union shop election to be completed at General Motors by Feb. 15, 1950. Membership approval in such an election is required by the Taft-Hartley law before establishment of a union shop.

"The union shop is essential to the life and protection of the union and the job, security and improved standard of living of every G.M. worker and his family," said T. A. Johnstone, UAW General Motors director.

"To win the union shop in 1950 in every plant in the two billion dollar G.M. network, we will fight with all the resources of our international and local unions."

This appeared to be a hint that the union was ready to strike to win its demand.

The General Motors contract expires May 29. The UAW has already opened exploratory discussions with the company on a pension plan.

Child's Kiss Wrecks Auto.

BELDING, Mich., Nov. 12 (UP)—Three-year-old Garrit Van Drie's love for his mother put the family in a hospital today. He kissed her while she was driving, and the car plunged out of control into a ditch. The boy and a daughter as well as their mother were hospitalized.

BRITISH EXPORTS FALL ONLY $10,920,000 FROM PEAK MONTH

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—British exports in October, the first full month since devaluation, totaled £156,100,000 ($437,080,000), Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said last night. This was only £3,900,000 ($10,920,000) below the monthly record in March, when the exchange rate of the pound was $4.03. On Sept. 18 the Labor government devalued the pound to $2.80.

Wilson said October exports showed an increase of £14,100,000 ($39,480,000) over September. October imports totaled £198,200,000 ($554,960,000), an increase over September of £17,100,000 ($47,880,000). This would leave a trade deficit for the month of £42,100,000 ($117,880,000).

October exports to the United States totaled £5,600,000 ($15,680,000), an increase of £1,500,000 ($4,200,000) over September.

2 HOLD UP CROWDED TAVERN, FLEE WITH $500 IN STOLEN CAR

Two men held up a crowded tavern at 3001 Park avenue yesterday, took about $500 from the cash register and fled in an automobile.

One of the robbers had been seated at the bar for 15 minutes, posing as a customer, before the holdup.

Robert Coghill, operator of the tavern, told police there were 14 customers in the tavern when a man entered carrying a pistol. The man at the bar stood up, he said, pulled a revolver from his pocket and then took the money from the register before the two fled in an automobile, which proved to have been stolen a short time earlier.

INCIDENT IMPEDES U.S. RECOGNITION OF CHINESE REDS

British Understood to Be Planning Move, but Case of Consul Ward Angers Washington.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Communist treatment of the American consul general at Mukden has dealt a sharp new setback to Communist China's chance of obtaining American recognition any time in the near future.

Top State Department officials are privately "burned up" at the way in which local authorities at Mukden have handled the case of 56-year-old Angus Ward. They are irked, too, at the cold shouldering which the American Government has received in its attempts to get any information on the matter from national Communist leaders at Peiping.

Officials here have felt for several months that the American Government should not be in any hurry to recognize the Chinese Communists. At the same time they have expected that eventually recognition probably should be granted. Now their attitude is becoming more and more unfavorable.

The feeling is becoming increasingly strong that the Communists are proving themselves unworthy of American recognition.

British Attitude Different.

The British, whose officials have been, in general, more favorably treated by the Chinese Communists, take an entirely different attitude toward recognition. Diplomatic authorities predict that the British Government will establish regular diplomatic relations with Peiping, probably by the end of the year.

British envoys and service chiefs in the Far East who conferred last week at Singapore have recommended recognition.

Britain's commercial interest in China are roughly estimated to be about 10 times those of the United States. Moreover, the British are anxious to preserve their position in the crown colony of Hong Kong, one of the great trading centers of the Far East.

Case of Consul Ward.

Ward has been held in jail at Mukden since Oct. 24. Two American and two European members of his staff have been held with him. All are charged with having beaten a Chinese employe, early in October, as the result of an alleged wage dispute.

The State Department disclosed that the consul general at Peiping, O. Edmund Clubb, had sent a letter to Gen. Chou En-lai, the Communist foreign minister, demanding Ward's release and asking for information about him. No reply has been received.

Officials are now confronted with the problem of what to do next. Two courses appeared open.

One is to address the strongest possible protest to the Communist leaders at Peiping. State Department officials are reported to feel that Ward, an official of the American Government, has been treated in a "barbaric" manner, though they have up to now avoided saying so publicly.

Another move would be to bring the case before the United Nations. The Chinese Communists, with Soviet backing, are expected at some point to make a bid for the U.N. seat now filled by the Chinese Nationalist Government.

FIRST CONVICTION UNDER RECKLESS HOMICIDE ACT

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—A young Rockford man was convicted yesterday in the first court test of the reckless homicide law. A circuit court jury of nine men and three women found Cal A. Leiser, 21 years old, guilty of reckless homicide and gave him the minimum penalty—a $500 fine.

Leiser was the driver of an automobile which collided with an automobile driven by Robert Kindell of Rockford near here several months ago. Kindell was killed. Judge William R. Dusher instructed the jury that it would have to set the penalty in the event of a conviction.

The reckless homicide law, passed at the last session of the State Legislature, provides that a person found responsible for a traffic death may be convicted of a misdemeanor or a felony, depending on the circumstances of the case. The maximum penalty is five years in prison.

SOUTH AFRICAN POLICE FIRE INTO CROWD OF RIOTING NATIVES

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 12 (UP)—Randfontein police last night opened fire on 600 rioting natives, killing one and injuring two.

Police said the trouble started when a detective raiding a liquor party was stripped and stoned by natives.

Police immediately rushed reinforcements into the district, and the natives held a mass demonstration.

FRENCH LAWYER HURT IN DUEL WITH SWORDS AFTER TRIAL

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — Two French lawyers fought a duel with swords today in the suburbs of Paris.

Jean Tixier-Vignancour was the victor, wounding Roger Nordman slightly on the arm. The duel stemmed from a bitter exchange of words between the two lawyers during a recent trial.

Duelling is illegal, but French police usually wink at such affairs.

ACHESON INDORSES M'CLOY AS SPOKESMAN IN REICH

Commissioner 'Has Complete Confidence of President'—German Steel Output Limited to 11,500,000 Tons Annually.

By JAMES DEVLIN

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson met in Heidelberg today with the United States's top military leaders in Europe. What they discussed was a closely guarded secret, but presumably a major topic was relaxation of Western Allied restrictions on the west German government.

Such a change in policy was agreed on in talks among Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman in Paris this week.

Acheson is scheduled to meet tomorrow at Bonn with the heads of the West German republic, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and the President, Theodore Heuss. Allied observers here believe Acheson will give them a general outline of what was decided in Paris.

Comment by Acheson.

Acheson, arriving here yesterday for a four-day visit in Germany, told reporters the results of the Paris conference would not be known immediately, but "will develop over the weeks and months that lie ahead." He said, "It was like other meetings with Mr. Schuman and Mr. Bevin—completely harmonious and entirely successful."

Acheson said that the foreign ministers decided to keep German steel production down to its present ceiling of 11,500,000 tons a year.

Apparently west Germany's Government will learn details of the ministers' decisions from United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy and his British and French colleagues. Acheson told reporters:

"The United States has an official spokesman in Germany (McCloy). He has the complete confidence of the President of the United States and the Secretary of State. When it is necessary for someone to speak for the United States, it will be Mr. McCloy."

Steel Output Below Goal.

The Germans have called on the Western Allies to increase the steel production ceiling to 14,800,000 tons. Many American officials in Germany had agreed that there should be a higher ceiling—perhaps 13,000,000 tons. The French, however, have been steadfastly opposed to the increase, always wary that their traditional foe might again be in a position to threaten French soil.

Despite the talk of raising the ceiling, western officials estimate that the output dipped this year far below the target set by occupation officials. These authorities had set a goal of 9,600,000 tons from the Ruhr this year. Official production will fall almost 1,000,000 tons short of the goal.

German production and possible abandonment of most of the huge program of dismantling of German industries were said to be major issues in the Foreign Ministers' talks. France was said to have balked at an outright decision pending discussion of the whole German problem in the French National Assembly, which meets Nov. 22.

Germans Disappointed.

The Germans, eager to see the dismantling program halted, showed considerable disappointment at the vagueness of the announcements at the end of the Paris meeting.

One German, close to the West German Government at Bonn, said the announcement was "not what had been expected." German Socialist Chairman Kurt Schumacher seized upon the lack of immediate concrete results in the Paris meeting to attack West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, leader of the conservatives.

"Adenauer will appear before the German parliament on Tuesday wretched and with empty hands," Schumacher said.

German newspapers sounded an alarmed note at rumors that the Western Allies may want to build a Western German army as part of defense plans against Soviet power. The rumors, developing since the foreign ministers met in Paris, have attracted more attention in the German press than the hot issue of dismantling of factories which might be adapted to war purposes.

The Stuttgarter Zeitung called on Acheson to set the rumors at rest when he confers with West German leaders. Comment from Acheson would be good "in view of the dreams (of rearmament) which are confusing the heads of some of our German politicians," the Zeitung said editorially.

Soviet East German Move.

In Berlin, meanwhile, Gen. Vassily E. Chuikov, head of the new Russian control commission for Germany, told the Soviet-sponsored east German government it could act "in complete freedom only so far as these activities are not in opposition to the Potsdam agreement and to obligations resulting from other four-power decisions."

Western sources felt that Chuikov's announcement had a propaganda purpose, since the Russians had accused the Western powers of breaking four-power agreements by setting up the west German republic.

In Moscow, the Soviet press accused the western foreign ministers of outlining a policy to turn west Germany into a base for carrying out "aggressive imperialist plans." Speaking of the communique issued by the ministers after their Paris meeting, the Soviet news agency Tass said they also had outlined a policy of "the division of Germany."

GERMAN REPORTER SAID TO HAVE GOT POISON TO GOERING

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP) — The German newspaper Muenchener Allgemeine, quoting a "reliable source," said today an unnamed German journalist supplied the poison capsule which the late Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering swallowed to cheat the hangman.

Goering and 10 other Nazi ringleaders were convicted of war crimes at the Nuernberg trials. His 10 fellow Nazis were hanged on Oct. 16, 1946, but Goering managed to evade the noose by taking poison in his cell three hours before the death sentence was to be read to him.

"Just before the end of the trial," Muenchener Allgemeine said, "the German journalist entered the courtroom, prior to the opening of the session for the day, and pretended to study defense counsel documents.

"While thumbing through a stack of legal papers the newspaper man fastened the poison capsule with a piece of chewing gum under the seat to be occupied by Goering."

Previous reports have said Goering had hidden the vial in the toilet in his cell. He had assured his wife he would never die on the gallows. His wife later denied she had given him the poison vial.

Boom in Twins.

JACKSON, Miss. (UP) — Eight sets of twins were born at St. Dominic's Hospital in a six-week period. Doctors said the usual rate of twin births was one in 86 and that the births at St. Dominic's were eight times more often than is normal.

GERMAN SHIPYARD MEN CONVICTED IN DISMANTLING CASE

HAMBURG, Nov. 12 (AP)—A British court today found the owners of Germany's largest shipyard guilty of illegally attempting to evade dismantling orders.

Rudolf Blohm, senior partner of Blohm & Voss, was ordered to pay a 5000-mark fine ($1250) or serve five months in prison. His brother, Walter, must pay 10,000 marks ($2500) or serve 10 months. Four other defendants were found guilty and were sentenced to prison terms ranging up to a year.

When the court told Rudolf Blohm to stand to hear his sentence, some 40 spectators in court stood also. Most of them were Blohm & Voss employes. Judge L. R. O'Hanlon told them to sit down. They complied.

The judge found that the defendants had removed machines from their shipyard in Hamburg-Steinwaerder without permission of military government. These machines were required by military government and the defendants were aware of this fact, the court said.

The entire Blohm & Voss shipyard was scheduled for dismantling and shipment to other countries as eparations. During the war submarines and flying boats were built there for the German Navy.

CZECH RED RULERS REJECT QUALIFIED OATH BY PRIESTS

Also to Recognize as Valid Only Marriages Which Include Civil Ceremonies.

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

PRAGUE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Roman aCtholic priests were told today they must swear a flat oath of loyalty prescribed by the Communist-controlled government and ignore reservations demanded by the church bishops.

The government also announced that beginning Jan. 1 only marriages which include civil ceremonies will be considered valid. This means a couple may marry in church, but must first go through a civil ceremony. The old system of posting banns in advance and having them read in the churches will be abolished.

Statement by Official.

Interior Minister Vaclav Nosek declared in a speech before a nation-wide conference of officials of the Czechoslovak regional national committees that the Government would not tolerate any church-dictated alteration in the loyalty oath. The bishops had given the priests permission to take the oath "unless it is in contradiction to the laws of God and the church and the rights of man."

The oath is required under the new control law, which makes the clergy of all denominations civil servants paid by the state and gives the Government control over church appointments, finances and administrative affairs.

Nosek asserted that the papal decree of excommunication of militant Communists had been a failure in Czechoslovakia and warned that any Catholic church man who still sought to execute it would be arrested.

"We shall not tolerate any illegal activities in the churches," he said.

Many Catholics Pardoned.

The Government has contended that the defiant bishops coerced priests and laymen into opposing the church control law. It has granted pardons to several hundred priests and laymen arrested under the law, explaining that they had repented and pleaded for amnesty.

Nosek also told the national committee—the executive groups which administer cities and districts—some details about the new marriage and family code being prepared by the Czech Government. He said that it would make divorces more difficult and that parents of children would be able to obtain divorce only for serious reasons.

Czechoslovakia, meanwhile, has sealed its western borders against all traffic by night except international trains. These are the borders with Western Germany and Austria, across which many Czechs have fled into exile.

TORNADO AT ST. JOSEPH, MO.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—A freakish tornado dipped down out of a severe wind and electrical storm here last night and flattened two warehouses, each 120 feet long.

Employes said the force of the wind moved a string of box cars about 100 feet on a siding. Winds of 52 miles per hour were recorded elsewhere in the city. The tornado apparently lifted after striking the warehouses, as there were no other reports of damage.

THOUSANDS HERE VIEW ARMISTICE DAY DOWNTOWN PARADE OF 12,000

Secretary Johnson Heads March to Reviewing Stand on Warmest Nov. 11 on Record—Youngsters Take Part.

Thousands of St. Louisans crowded into the downtown area yesterday on the warmest Nov. 11 on record here to watch 12,000 Armistice day paraders, headed by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, in a massive observance of the thirty-first anniversary of the termination of World War I. Marchers ranged in age from 7 to 70, with veterans of three wars and Army, Navy and Marine units walking with school children in the procession.

Uniformed fighters carried rifles and a Sherman tank rolled along behind them. These, along with an amphibious landing truck and jeeps mounted with machine guns and mortars gave the parade a strong military flavor. This was lightened somewhat by an occasional clown and splashes of color and gaiety as high-stepping youngsters swung into view and bands interrupted martial airs for impromptu jam sessions.

Route of Parade.

The parade started at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue and swung east on Washington to Sixth street, thence south to Olive street and westward past the Soldiers' Memorial reviewing stand. Applauding spectators stood six to eight deep along Washington. Wide-eyed youngsters had choice seats on the curb, munching candy, popcorn and occasional hot-dog in the warm sun.

Windows of office buildings and fire escapes were crowded with spectators. There were occasional bursts of confetti from upper floor windows and considerable craning of necks as formations of National Guard fighter planes droned low over the line of march.

Sixth street and Olive street were less crowded than Washington. But spectators massed on the steps of the Old Post Office Building and in the vicinity of the reviewing stand. Hundreds witnessed the start of the march then walked to the reviewing stand to witness the finish.

Defense Secretary Johnson, who announced at the outset of the parade that he was going to walk at the head of it "until the heat gets me," trudged the entire distance. He arrived at the reviewing stand perspiring. "But I enjoyed every minute of it," he said.

Others who took their places in the stand with Johnson rode in the procession. They included Mayor Joseph M. Darst, Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. and Congressmen John Sullivan and Raymond Karst.

Horsemen of the Saddle and Sirloin Club and the Blue Silver Lancers, brightly uniformed, drew rounds of applause with precision movements along the route and at the reviewing stand. Special receptions were reserved, too, for Tom Powell Legion Post Drum and Bugle Corps (Negro) which thrilled the crowd with frequent singing of "America." Atwell Lincoln Legion Post drum and bugle corps swung snappily past the reviewing stand singing "Tipperary."

A cheer went up when 35 members of the United Spanish-American War Veterans finished the march, dragging a little, but with heads still high. But a hush descended almost immediately as a truck loaded with disabled veterans rolled into view.

The only foreign flag in the parade, the Canadian ensign, was carried by members of St. Louis Post 125, Canadian Legion.

Maj. Gen. John F. McBlain, commanding officer of Scott Air Force Base, and other officers in the reviewing stand, expressed satisfaction with the appearance of the Marine Corps Reserve, Naval Reserve and National Guard units in the procession. The Marines and sailors were in snappy dress blues.

Children Brightly Costumed.

Boy and girl units, brightly costumed, were spaced liberally among the adult marching groups. Many of the children frequently fell out of step as they scanned crowds seeking parents or relatives calling to them.

Aside from the children who appropriated curb seats, most of the spectators stood during the hour-long march. A few lucky ones got chairs thoughtfully provided by bartenders in taverns along the parade route.

A radio-equipped truck in the parade demonstrated air-to-ground communication, loudspeakers enabling the spectators to hear radio men on the truck talking with pilots of National Guard planes overhead. Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV televised the parade with cameras in a mobile unit on Olive near Twelfth.

While the parade was the main event in the Armistice day observance, the day was marked otherwise by reunions, religious services and dedications. Schools, banks, the St. Louis Stock Exchange and state, federal and city offices were closed.

Among individual observances was a reunion of Company E, 138th Infantry at the York Hotel. A 155 millimeter gun was unveiled as part of the observance at South St. Louis Memorial Post 37, American Legion. Today, former members of Company I, 138th Infantry will hold a reunion at 7:30 p.m. at the York Hotel and members of the 314th Engineers Regiment, Eighty-ninth Division, will meet at 3 p.m.

RAT HORDES INVADE SOUTH TEXAS AREA AND DAMAGE CROPS

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Nov. 12 (AP)—Farmers near this south Texas city hope poisoned grain will take the place of a Pied Piper in saving crops from hungry rats.

County agricultural agents said, pack, kangaroo and field rats have devoured tomatoes and green peppers as high as a foot off the ground. There is one reports of rats eating citrus fruits.

The invasion of rats started about three weeks ago near La Grulla, Tex., 15 miles east of here. The hordes of rats have swarmed over between 4000 and 5000 acres of fertile farm lands along the Rio Grande bottoms.

J. B. Talcott, star county farm agent, said yesterday that farmers may or may not be able to check the tide with poisoned grain. More than 1000 pounds of grain poisoned with strychnine have been distributed.

He estimated that an area southeast of Sullivan City to about four or five miles east of Fio Grande City is plagued with rats. He said six farmers had reported to him that their tomato crops were destroyed.

COUNTERFEIT $10 BILLS IN AUTO HUB CAPS, 2 MEN HELD

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—Two Kentuckians were held today for federal authorities after $800 in counterfeit $10 bills was found in the hub caps of their automobile.

Chief of Police Earl Sheppherd Jr., said yesterday the two gave their names as James Shekell, 26 years old, and Raymond Hicks, 27, of Paducah, Ky.

When questioned, the men refused to tell the source of the bogus bills. Sheppherd quoted one man as saying: "Our boss would be angry if we told."

The chief said his force and Paducah police started a search in their territories for the source but that it may be the same source as that for bogus bill passers who have been operating across the country.

He said the men were taken into custody without resistance shortly after complaints were received from at least five Cairo establishments which had accepted bills.

TWO DEER INVADE CIVILIZATION AND COME TO GRIEF

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Robert J. Sherr killed a wild buck deer yesterday in the middle of Kansas City.

A yardmaster clerk, Sherr saw the six-point deer pound down the tracks of the Kansas City Terminal Railroad yards headed for Union Station. The 200-pound deer, believed to have come from Kansas, came to grief as it crossed a viaduct.

A switch engine approached. The deer, frightened, leaped over a four-foot iron railing and plunged 25 feet down to the boulevard. It was a busy traffic period, and the animal just missed an automobile.

Sherr ran to the scene and saw the buck was badly injured with a broken back. He slit its throat.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Mrs. George Jobins sat in her living room yesterday when—crash! A six-point deer shattered her closed plate-glass window and bounded over her head. Helplessly she watched the animal upset tables and lamps and then race out the back door.

A few minutes later Mrs. Daniel Reynolds heard a crash. She ran into her living room and found the deer reposing on the sofa. At the sight of Mrs. Reynolds the animal was off again.

His next target was a candy factory. More shattered windows and nerves before the invader bounded out into the street again. Last word was that police and more than 100 children were searching for the wounded deer.

TRUCK HITS TRAIN, DERAILS 18 CARS; 2 MEN INJURED

WRENS, Ga., Nov. 12 (AP)—The usual train of events was reversed by a truck collision yesterday.

A truck lumbered —it was a lumber truck—into the fourth unit of a moving Savannah and Atlantic Railroad freight train.

Truck Driver Roy Black and his assistant, Henry Brown, were seriously injured. Eighteen cars were derailed in the middle of town and 200 feet of track ripped up. One of the cars grazed a station platform support.

M.-K.-T. Train Derailed.

NEVADA, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—A southbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train was derailed this morning near Eve depot, five miles west of here. A Katy spokesman said no one was injured. He warned persons to stay away from the derailed train because it included a car of explosives.

YOUTH WHO MOLESTED BOY, 4, IS FINED $500

Child Tells of Being Lured From Basement Into Living Room of Home.

Charles Morris, a 17-year-old welder, was fined $500 by Police Judge John L. Waechter today after a four-year-old boy testified that he had been molested by Morris in the living room of the latter's home at 1031 Howard street. Morris was charged with individual peace disturbance.

The boy testified he and another boy were playing in the basement of Morris's home last Thursday, when Morris urged him to come to the living room. He did so, he said, and Morris molested him.

Police Cpl. Thomas Ryan, assigned to juvenile work at the Carr street station, testified that after Morris was arrested he admitted the offense in a statement made in the presence of the boy's mother. The mother testified that this was correct. Morris denied the charge.

Cpl. Ryan told reporters police plan to seek a warrant against Morris charging violation of the recently enacted child molestation law.

ANIMALS LOOSED IN WOMEN'S HOME AT WISCONSIN U.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12 (AP)—About 500 men students let sheep, white mice, guinea pigs, cats and dogs loose in a University of Wisconsin's women's dormitory last night.

While girl students and alumnae stood on chairs and squealed, the men paraded around the dormitory and flung bedclothes off the beds.

Campus Policeman Joe Hammersley pulled up in his squad car, rushed in and, with the help of other officers, herded the menagerie out of Elizabeth Waters Hall.

When Hammersley got back to his car he found the tires flat and a well-greased pig reclining on the seat.

It was, police said, a "normal" homecoming eve.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (UP)—One University of Maryland student has been expelled for his part in a riotous football rally that took police more than two hours to break up. The name of the ousted student was withheld.

President H. C. (Curly) Byrd warned that others would be expelled if they were caught.

The riot broke out Thursday night followin ga pep rally called to give the Maryland football team a rousing sendoff for its game with Boston University today. About 2000 students poured onto the nearby Washington-Baltimore boulevard, barricaded the busy four-lane highway and built a huge bonfire. It took scores of police, armed with tear gas, to disperse the mob. Several automobiles were damaged but no one was hurt.

1500 TRUCK DRIVERS HERE COVERED IN PAY-RISE PACT

Fifteen hundred over-the-road truck drivers operating out of St. Louis are covered by a new wage agreement granting pay increases and health and welfare benefits, announced today at Chicago by eight Midwest trucking company groups for 40,000 drivers in 11 states.

The St. Louis drivers are members of Local 632, AFL Teamsters' Joint Council, and work for members of the Missouri-Kansas Motor Carriers' Conference and Trans-American Freight Lines. The first wage increase, under an agreement for 26 months, becomes effective next Wednesday and provides for an additional 8 cents an hour and one-quarter cent a mile for 14 months. The increase will be 5 cents an hour and one-eighth cent a mile for the final 12 months.

Employers agreed to contribute $1 a week for each driver, toward a health and welfare fund to be administered jointly by the employers and the union.

IRISH HOTELS ACCUSE BRITISH TOURISTS OF PIRATING HELP

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP) — The Irish came up today with a new grievance against England: British tourists are hiring the chambermaids right out of Ireland's hotels.

"Our taffs are like a lot of chickens," complained W. D. Reville, chairman of the Irish Hotel Federation. "You have to count them overnight to see how many are gone in the morning."

"Visitors from all over England come and stay in our hotels," he said. "They offer the girls £3 ($8.40) a week, a bedroom of their own and a gramophone in the bedroom to come to England. I think it is a most scurrilous practice."

MADISON COUNTY SHERIFF IN ONE-MAN RAID ON DICE GAME

Sheriff Dallas T. Harrell of Madison county, who usually ignores large-scale gambling in his county if it occurs in incorporated areas, early today conducted a one-man raid on a small dice game in the back room of Anchor Inn in Wood River township.

The sheriff, who said he had been checking reports of violations at the tavern for some time, told reporters he found four men gathered around a craps table when he walked into the back room at 3 a.m. He arrested the dealer, who described himself as William H. Humphrey, Alton, and had the table, money box and other gambling paraphernalia removed by truck to the county courthouse in Edwardsville.

County court informations which charged keeping a common gaming house were issued against Humphrey and James March, proprietor of the tavern, by State's Attorney Austin Lewis. They were released on $1000 bonds each.

MOTHER CRUSHED TO DEATH AGAINST WALL, SAVES CHILD

BRIDGEPORT, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—A mother was killed instantly in a traffic accident yesterday but she saved the life of the baby daughter she carried in her arms.

Mrs. Dorothy Reichenbach, 30 years old, died when pinned to a stone retaining wall by a runaway pickup truck at nearby Riverview.

Just before the truck hit her, she sheltered her one-year-old daughter, Susie in her arms. The child escaped with a broken left arm.

Officers investigating the accident said Robert Nelson halted his truck on the road to investigate a noise in the back of the truck. His mother was seated in the cab.

Police said when Nelson got out of the truck it started rolling away. It plunged over a series of terraces for about 75 yards before striking Mrs. Reichenbach. Nelson's mother was bruised.

MIDWESTERN CONFERENCE ON WASTE IN INDUSTRY

About 500 representatives of midwest industries participated in discussions of ways of reducing production wastes and inefficiencies at the closing sessions of the two-day fourth annual midwest conference of the American Society for Quality Control at Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

At a luncheon yesterday Charles E. Stines, chief inspector for National Cash Register Co., said his company had been forced to reinstall quality control procedures to combat rising costs. The system had been widespread in wartime by Army ordinance officials.

Quality control, officials at the conference explained, attempts "to control variables in the manufacturing process by applying scientific laws of probability to sample inspections." They said it enables management to eliminate "production errors" at the source, avoiding expensive investigations after a product turns out to be faulty.

DR. CHARLES P. MARTIN DIES; RETIRED NORTH SIDE PHYSICIAN

Dr. Charles P. Martin, who retired from the practice of medicine in 1936 because of ill health, died today of tuberculosis at his home, 3903 Lee avenue. He was 69 years old.

Dr. Martin was graduated from the St. Louis University medical school in 1905 and maintained an office in north St. Louis for 31 years. He was on the staff of the Missouri Baptist and Christian Hospitals.

Surviving are his wife, Edna; a son, Dr. Charles E. Martin, and a daughter, Mrs. Halstead Epperson. The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Selm Methodist Church, 1919 Kingshighway boulevard, with burial in Valhalla Cemetery.

66 JAPS REPORTED LOST WHEN VESSEL CAPSIZES

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (UP)—Sixty-six Japanese passengers and crewmen are believed to have perished Friday when a 138-ton passenger-cargo vessel sank in the Japanese Inland Sea between Shikoku and Honshu.

The Jiji press said only four crewmen and two passengers were rescued, leaving 58 passengers and eight crewmen missing.

The report said the ship developed engine trouble and then capsized and sank immediately.

Baby Weighs 17 Pounds at Birth.

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP)—A baby girl weighing 17 pounds was born to Signora Luciana Zenobi in Fossombrone, central Italy, the news agency Astra reported today. Both the mother and the baby were reported in excellent health.

U.S. COURT ORDERS 2 EX-CAPONE MEN TO FINISH TERMS

Louis Campagna and Charles Gioe Were Paroled in 1947 With Two Other Gangsters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—Louis Campagna and Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, former Capone gangsters, must return to Atlanta federal prison to finish the 10-year prison terms on which they and two companions were paroled in 1947, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Thursday at New Orleans.

Campagna and Gioe, along with Paul (The Waiter) Ricca and Phillip D'Andrea, were paroled two years ago after serving one-third of their sentences for conspiracy to extort more than $1,000,000 from the movie industry. Conviction was at New York in 1943, and the four were paroled in August 1947, through the efforts of Paul Dillon, St. Louis lawyer and friend of President Truman, and others.

The paroles were the subject of investigations by a Chicago grand jury and a congressional committee. Testimony revealed that Dillon received a $10,000 fee for efforts in behalf of the paroles, and that he also was influential in having the prisoners transferred from Atlanta penitentiary to the prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Following the investigations, Ricca, Campagna and Gioe were cited as parole violators, and Gioe and Campagna were returned to the Atlanta prison in July 1948. Ricca successfully resisted the Government's effort to return him to prison, and has remained at liberty under a writ of habeas corpus. D'Andrea was not charged with violating his parole.

Campagna, known as "Little New York," and Gioe were ordered released from Atlanta prison last December by United States District Judge Marvin Underwood, who granted the prisoners' motions for writs of habeas corpus. They were released on $5000 bond each, pending a Government appeal from the district court action. The Court of Appeals, sitting at New Orleans, reversed Judge Underwood in a 2 to 1 ruling. Orders for the return of Campagna and Gioe to the penitentiary are being prepared. Campagna has been living on his Indiana farm, and Gioe lives with his wife and daughter in a hotel here.

BROWN SWEARS OFF LITTLE BROWN JUG AFTER BROWN NIGHT

Robert E. Brown, 21-year-old laborer of Eureka, walked out of St. Louis County Jail today a free man with a resolve to "stop hitting the little brown jug," he told deputy sheriffs.

Things got a little stuffy in the Cottage Inn tavern in Eureka last night and Brown started smashing bottles and glasses on the floor. John Caps, proprietor, called the sheriff's office to eject Brown.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Brown and Deputy Constable William Brown went to the tavern after Robert E. Brown. On the way to jail, Robert became obstreperious and the Officers Brown radioed the Highway Patrol for assistance.

At Clayton, Robert Brown was booked suspected of affray by Deputy Sheriff Tom Brown and placed in a cell. This morning, Deputy Tom Brown clapped Robert Brown on the shoulder as he left the jail, admonishing him: "Now, don't give the law-enforcing Browns any more trouble."

EADS BRIDGE TICKET OFFICE ROBBED OF $172 BY TWO MEN

A cloth sack containing $172 was taken from an Eads Bridge ticket office at 315 West Broadway, East St. Louis, last night by two Negro robbers.

Miss Viola Edsall, Cuba lane, Collinsville, the attendant, told police the men drove up to the platform outside the office and began asking questions about bridge tickets. One stepped out of the car, she said, and followed her into the office.

The robber indicated he was armed by keeping one hand in his coat pocket and took the money sack from a drawer. He then ran back to the car and the two men drove away.

3 PASSERSBY COME UPON HOLDUP AND ROUT ROBBER

Charles Walker, 904 Marshall avenue, Valley Park, told police three passersby routed a Negro who held him up after his automobile stalled in the 400 block of Vandeventer avenue early today. One of the three, Robert Russell, 1512 North Grand boulevard, suffered a minor cut on the face in the scuffle with the robber.

Walker said the Negro entered his machine when he ran out of gasoline, pointed a knife at him and began searching his pockets. Walker called to the youths as they approached.

GEORGE R. THROOP DIES, FORMER HEAD OF WASHINGTON U.

Classicist Joined Faculty in 1907, Strove for High Academic Standards.

George Reeves Throop, former chancellor of Washington University, died last night at St. Luke's Hospital following a lingering illness.

Dr. Throop, 67 years old, retired because of poor health in June 1944 after 35 years' association with the university as professor of Greek and Latin and as chancellor for 16 years. Seriously ill for the last year, he had been a patient at the hospital about eight weeks.

A classicist, Dr. Throop carried into his administration of the university continuous efforts toward the betterment and maintenance of high academic standards. On his retirement, the university board of directors paid tribute to his "many valuable services" to the university, particularly through the depression, in making adjustments necessary for the training of military personnel and in special research for the Government during the early years of World War II.

Joined Faculty in 1907.

Dr. Throop joined the university faculty in 1907 as an instructor in Greek and Latin. He successively became an assistant professor in 1909, associate professor in 1914 and Collier professor of Greek in 1917. He left the university for a three-year period, 1918-21, to serve as assistant librarian of the St. Louis Public Library.

Resuming his professorship in Greek, Dr. Throop was named acting chancellor in 1927 following the death of Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley, a former Governor of Missouri, and the following year was appointed chancellor.

Although most of his activities were confined to the academic field, he participated in movements sponsoring aid to the Allies before the United States entered the war. In 1940 he was a member of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, and was one of 150 prominent Americans who signed a statement urging President Roosevelt to take whatever steps were necessary to bring about defeat of the Axis powers.

Dr. Throop, who regarded himself as a Democrat, opposed the re-election of President Roosevelt in the 1936 and 1940 elections. In the 1946 campaign, following his retirement, he was active in behalf of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Born in Tennessee.

Born in Boydsville, Tenn., he received his bachelor's and master's degrees at DePauw University, and his doctor of philosophy degree at Cornell University in 1905. His first position as an educator was as professor of Greek and Latin at Illinois College, Jacksonville.

Recipient of a number of honorary degrees from universities, he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic, and Phi Delta Theta, social, fraternities. He was a former president of the Tennessee Society of St. Louis and the St. Louis section, Archeology Association of America, and was a member of the American Philological Association and the Modern Language Association of America.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Esther F. Throop; a son, George R. Throop Jr. of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. Northcutt Coil of Kirkwood and Mrs. John Merrill of Washington, D.C. The funeral will be private.

WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND IN CISTERN; SUICIDE VERDICT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VICHY, Mo., Nov. 12—An autopsy was to be performed today on the body of Mrs. Willnora Snodgrass, tavern operator, after a coroner's jury last night returned a verdict of suicide. Her body was found in six feet of water in a cistern in a rear room of her tavern on United States Highway 63, one half mile east of here.

Sheriff W. C. Parker and Missouri State Highway Patrolmen said the woman, who was 42 years old, disappeared shortly before 2 p.m. Thursday. Her body was found in the cistern yesterday and her purse with only one penny in it was floating on top of the water. She left no notes and a preliminary examination of the body showed no marks of violence.

Mrs. Snodgress was separated from her husband, Harry, several years ago. Vichy is 100 miles southwest of St. Louis.

5 AREAS TAKEN OFF JOB DISTRESS LIST AND 3 ARE ADDED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Five areas previously classified as having considerable unemployment have been removed from the list as a result of an October survey.

The survey, by the Department of Labor resulted also in the addition to this list of three new areas. Thus the net change for the better was two, leaving 33 areas where it is figured that 12 per cent or more of the labor force is without work.

Areas taken off the list: Jackson, Port Huron and the upper peninsula copper areas in Michigan; Burlington, Vt., and Manchester, N.H. Those added to the list: Honolulu in Hawaii and Altoona and Johnstown, Pa.

Areas with substantial employment increases included Cairo, Ill., up 4.8 per cent. Severe employment declines included Mount Vernon, Ill., down 7.6 per cent.

The survey showed that unemployment declined in 30 of the 35 areas which had been on the heavy unemployment list in early September.

The October survey's results were announced last night. Areas classified as having 12 per cent or more unemployment receive preferential treatment in the awarding of Government contracts and in other federal programs.

Unemployment caused directly or indirectly from the coal and steel strikes was not considered in determining the listing of the areas, the department said.

BABY SITTER FOR PLANE TRIP TO HAWAII SOUGHT

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP)—There's a swell little guy looking for a nice girl to accompany him to Hawaii by plane—all expenses paid one way.

Eric von Lick, 1½ years old, wants to join his parents, Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Henry F. Lick, in Honolulu. His father is stationed there.

Eric's grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude L. H. Le Febver, has advertised for a "baby sitter" to accompany the child from Boston to Honolulu. Hire of an air stewardess, she explained would entail paying expenses both ways—and that would be too much of a strain on the family budget.

IRELAND TO GRANT AMNESTY TO PRISONERS FOR HOLY YEAR

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 12 (AP)—Ireland's Embassy to the Holy See announced today the Irish Government has decreed an amnesty for the Holy Year of 1950.

By its terms, all prisoners who have only one month of their sentence yet to serve on Jan. 1 will be pardoned in full. Other prisoners will have their sentences reduced up to a maximum of three months.

Ireland's amnesty follows similar action by Brazil and Malta.

SEVERED BODY OF MAN FOUND NEAR RAIL TRACKS

Jennings Contractor Apparently Run Over by Wabash Train — Missing Overnight.

The body of Henry Y. Horstman, 50-year-old contractor, was found on the right-of-way of the Wabash Railroad, 300 feet south of his home at 2630 Hord avenue, Jennings, early this morning. It had been severed, apparently by the wheels of a westbound train, Jennings police reported.

Horstman's body was found by a friend, Vincent Wieck, with whom he had planned to go duck hunting today, and Patrolman Albert Knap, who was summoned by Wieck after he arrived at Horstman's home and was advised by Horstman's wife, Bertha, that her husband left the house last evening and had not returned.

Mrs. Horstman reported her husband left the house by the rear door about 9:45 o'clock last night, telling her he was going to the garage at the rear of the home to get his automobile keys. She said she was not worried when he did not return in a short time because he was in the habit of visiting the Jennings fire station at Jennings road and Hord avenue. He was a member of the fire department's board of directors.

When Wieck, a building contractor, 2465 Shannon avenue, Jennings, telephoned Horstman, by prearrangement, at 4 a.m., Mrs. Horstman told him her husband was missing and a search was instituted.

Police were unable immediately to establish the time of the accident. Horstman is survived besides his wife, by two daughters, Margaret, 10 years old, and Mrs. Eleanor Heffner.

206 UNCANCELED PAID NOTES FOUND IN LOAN FIRM FILES

A total of 206 notes which were paid but not canceled or returned to the persons to whom loans were made have been found in the records of the Martin Loan & Finance Co., 2919 Olive street, which were seized last Tuesday, Prosecuting Attorney William C. Lochmoeller said today.

Lochmoeller said that if the loans "had fallen into improper hands," borrowers might have been forced to pay them off a second time. He said that after a usury charge pending against the assistant manager of the company, Clarence C. Dyer, 8155 Bloom avenue, Overland, is disposed of, the paid notes will be mailed back to persons who signed them.

Lochmoeller estimated that the face value of such notes totaled about $16,500.

BULL CHARGES PLANE ABOUT TO TAKE OFF AT AIRPORT

SAN JOSE, Nov. 12 (AP) — A bull got onto the field at Sarapiqui Airport, in northern Costa Rica, just as a plane was taking off. After a 200-yard run, the bull charged the craft amidships.

Result: One unconscious bull and one slightly damaged plane.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Cardinal Arch Fan

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have never lived in St. Louis, but we in Columbia make so many trips to your city we can not fail to take an interest in your editorial entitled "No Place for a Ball Park."

I am perhaps one of the most rabid Cardinal baseball fans in Columbia. However, I could not help but agree with your editorial supporting the Saarinen arch and its historical village and museum for the long-awaited Jefferson Memorial. While I heartily support a bigger and better baseball park so we can always be sure of a good seat, it would hardly appear appropriate that a monument to Jefferson and to St. Louis as the Gateway to the West should consist of a baseball stadium.

We of outstate Missouri and the other people of the area of the Louisiana Purchase would take a great deal of interest in a true Jeffersonian Memorial and would have a feeling of kinship and appreciation for the people of St. Louis if such a memorial were built. We could feel that we might share in part in such a "Gateway to the West."

We could hardly have that feeling for a city which built a memorial to Jefferson and his interest in the West consisting of baseball park: especially when the project is to be largely financed with federal funds from taxes which we help pay.

We are also heartily in accord with Mr. Saigh building a new stadium for the Cardinals and St. Louis, and would be glad to help in part to pay for it by our attendance at your baseball games. But we do feel that the Jeffersonian Memorial should mean something to the nation and should not just be a project to get customers into your downtown business district.

ROBERT C. SMITH JR.

Heroes and Earnings

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Why overload our already heavily armored "Spirit of St. Louis" with too much steel on our riverfront?

Why not build a memorial stadium to our forgotten heroes and keep their memory alive? This would bring business downtown where we make our living. If we are not watchful, downtown will soon be dead.

INTERESTED.

Peanuts and Rodents

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The wrangling over the riverfront memorial is an example of what is wrong with St. Louis. I have just completed a trip through the East and found that the beautification and housing programs of Eastern cities put St. Louis to shame.

We have made no major improvements since carrying out former Mayor Kiel's $87,000,000 program. When the Memorial and Aloe plazas were planned, it was suggested that underground parking facilities be provided in both areas. Failure to do so is another fine example of our detrimental conservatism and lethargy. We are now paying for it by forcing shoppers to areas outside of the city proper.

Our riverfront is a disgrace. Many cities similarly situated boast beautiful boulevards along miles of their riverfronts.

The proposed "Gateway to the West" arch would bring world fame and a cultural and monetary value to St. Louis. A stadium would result in an area littered with peanut and popcorn bags, and permeated with the odor of onions and hot dogs. It would also attract rodents.

If Mayor Darst has the slightest conception of what is best for the city he will not rest until the Saarinen arch rises majestically on one of the most historic sites along the mighty Mississippi.

Famous for Slums

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

So Paris is famous for its Eiffel Tower, New York is famous for its Statue of Liberty. What is St. Louis famous for? Something every city is famous for—slums.

I think if St. Louis could become famous for its comfortable homes with a hospitable rest room for travelers, our city would be much more appreciated and famous than if it had a needless steel arch.

JAMES PAYNE.

About Parking Lots

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am in complete agreement with your stand on the parking lot situation as expressed in the editorial, "Billion-Dollar Blight." However, I would be a bit more severe in my criticism of St. Louis' parking lot operators.

If local operators believe they are being treated unfairly in the proposed ordinance to control their venal methods, they should discover just how unfairly they are treating the public.

Not only does one, upon parking his car in a local lot pay outrageous prices and suffer from the rudeness of the aloof employes in the lot, but also he chances damage to his car. Automobiles are handled so roughly and so carelessly by the lot workers that, to me, this is as bad a feature as is the outrageous price.

More power to you in fighting for parking lot control in St. Louis.

IRBY COOPER.

To Charles G. Ross

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The St. Louisans heard that Charles G. Ross had a surprise birthday party given by White House officials. The St. Louisans want to wish him a happy birthday too. He is one that St. Louis should be proud of.

R. E. WAHLBRINK.

Chapman for Krug

Officially, there has been no explanation of the resignation of Secretary of the Interior Krug beyond the statement in his letter to President Truman that "it seems to me that we have done a pretty good job of accomplishing our objectives."

Informed speculation in Washington, however, seems to have come fairly close to putting the finger on the real causes veiled by this formality. They are both political and administrative. Mr. Krug hardly strengthened his position in the Cabinet by his limited participation in the last presidential campaign. Still, in fairness to the President, it must be said that other Cabinet members were lukewarm and that Mr. Truman displayed no desire to "punish" them.

But there have been signs of differences between the two on policy matters. With some justification, the President has been disturbed by Mr. Krug's efforts to by-pass the Bureau of the Budget in seeking funds for Interior's reclamation projects. Mr. Truman also vetoed the Indian aid bill though Mr. Krug supported the measure. And the President was right. Had the bill been allowed to become law, it would have undermined some of the basic rights of the Indians in the Southwest.

Mr. Krug also continued the policy of his predecessor, Harold L. Ickes, in defending the Government's title to the tidelands oil. Actually, however, he had little choice in this since the policy, which was already set, had the support of President Truman. This is not to say that Mr. Krug is not favorable to the protection of these oil reserves for emergency use, because he has been. But it would be unfair to Mr. Ickes to say that the Krug zeal measured up to that of Old Curmudgeon. Certainly there is no loss in the advancement to the Interior secretaryship of Under Secretary Chapman.

While Mr. Chapman has the incidental advantage of having been one of the most hard-working of the Truman campaigners, his real qualifications for his new post are to be found in his 16½ years of service in the "little cabinet." He became Assistant Secretary of Interior in May 1933, and Under Secretary in March 1946. He really knows the department, its work and its needs.

That Mr. Chapman comes from Colorado also is a point in favor of his selection. Although most of the federal domain is in the West and perhaps best appreciated by Westerners, the section has often felt that it was without sufficient voice in presidential counsels. Had Mr. Truman followed the hackneyed old rule of the widest possible geographical distribution of appointments to achieve the maximum political effect, he would have passed over Mr. Chapman since his Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Brannan, also comes from Colorado. But the President was guided by higher standards.

Thus, unless more fundamental differences between Mr. Krug and Mr. Truman come to light, any regret over the departure of one public official is offset by the advancement of another.

Horn Instead of Hammer

President Truman has again said that he is in favor of completing the riverfront memorial as soon as possible. That ought to be a clear call to forward-looking folks in St. Louis. It is time, as Big Bill Thompson used to say to knockers, to "throw away your hammer and get a horn."

The eyes of the whole nation will be turned in this direction in 1953, the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase. St. Louis, the chief city of the Louisiana Territory, certainly will be expected to mark that momentous event. And how could that be done better than by completing the development of the site designated for a permanent memorial to the national expansion that came with the opening of the West?

With the President in favor of the project, it certainly is unseemly that obstacles to it should be raised by local selfishness. Instead, St. Louis ought to take full advantage of Mr. Truman's attitude. It makes this the golden time for resuming the war-interrupted project.

Sparring With the Bus Pass

Many bus and streetcar riders want the weekly passes back, and Mayor Darst's rejection of the Public Service Co.'s offer should not blight their hope. The company attached the extravagant condition that the city must lighten its taxes by $1,100,000 a year, but it may have a hard time showing it needs lower taxes or any other form of relief if the pass goes back in force.

To see the situation in perspective, it must be recalled that two members of the Public Service Commission held in the recent fare increase case that the company would make more money with passes than without. The company's reports of continued hardship seem to lend weight to this view. It may be, then, that the company should be asking permission to restore the pass instead of angling for concessions to do it.

The Still Missing Ingredient

Hearings are again being held by the aldermen on the missing ingredient in the plans for a better developed St. Louis, a city-wide zoning ordinance. Not only the League of Women Voters, but also several neighborhood associations—groups which often fight zoning measures—have urged its adoption. And the aldermen should accept this advice.

The 1923 zoning regulations which are still on the books never were much good, and in a quarter century they have been shot full of holes by spot zoning ordinances. Far, far too much of the city is zoned for industrial and commercial purposes. This is no service to industry or trade, but it does constitute a continuing threat to living conditions and property values in many neighborhoods.

Further, it is the headache of headaches to those interested in the elimination of slums. There can hardly be a greater discouragement to the rehabilitation of a blighted area than the knowledge that it continues to be wide open to the same old germs of decay.

While it is virtually impossible to achieve 100 per cent agreement on so wide-ranging a matter as zoning, the pending bill is a good one. It was carefully prepared by the City Plan Commission with the co-operation of public representatives. Then, a considerable number of concessions—perhaps even too many—were made to objectors. And there are adequate provisions for the correction of any sections which, in practice, may prove to be mistakes. The measure should not be further watered down.

Objections to it have been coming primarily from one source: those real estate interests which want no barrier of any kind to their chances to make a speculative profit anywhere at any time. It may be asked whether their attitude really is in their own best interest. But it definitely is not in the best interest of the community. The desirability of zoning has been recognized almost universally.

St. Louis has been without the advantages of such an ordinance all too long. Selfishness should not be allowed to stall off its adoption once more.

Mr. Attlee Calls for Volunteers

Prime Minister Attlee's criticisms of labor and management still leave the British dollar crisis in the hands of volunteers. Mr. Attlee has appealed but has not ordered. Events may force him to stiffen his policy.

As to labor, the Prime Minister urges workers to work more hours to increase production. Production already has risen considerably, but British prices must be brought down to expand exports to America. One way to do this would be to lengthen working time without increasing pay. It is a hard order for a Labor minister to give.

Management, Mr. Attlee says, has shown less interest in selling goods to America for dollars than in selling them at home for pounds. The home sales are profitable but conflict with public policy. What Britain requires is exports in return for dollars. Yet the Prime Minister is reluctant to compel export trade.

Probably the Labor Government does not yet know whether it will have to force employes to work more or manufacturers to sell abroad. But the dollar deficit is slowly growing, and voluntary measures and budget cuts have not stopped it.

If Prime Minister Attlee has to intervene further in industrial management, it will obviously be against his will. And Americans should understand that the crisis is not of his making. J. A. Livingston made it plain in his business column that Socialism cannot easily be blamed for Britain's plight.

While British industry was far ahead of the world in 1850, English business men and their bankers later coasted. Their attitude, as Mr. Livingston described it, was "no rocking the boat." Rather than competing to increase efficiency, they did the opposite with cartel practices.

The result was that the British index of production rose from 1860 to 1913 only half as much as in Germany, and a fourth as much as in America. Then the two world wars added to the financial problem. World War II alone cost Britain one-quarter of her national wealth.

These are the factors which have caused the Labor Government to slacken its Socialist program, and which now threaten reversals. Mr. Attlee's leadership is caught in a tide of events that began a century ago, and nobody can foresee its end.

France Comes to St. Louis

The widespread popular interest in the exhibit of French industries, now in progress at the Chase Hotel, is fully justified. Notwithstanding the great advance made by American manufacturers, there are fields in which European producers enjoy distinct skills and techniques. French distinction in clothing, fine fabrics, artistic objects and many other items has survived two world wars with their long periods of tightest economy. It is a tribute to the talents of the French people that so shortly after their liberation, and in the present unstable world, they should be able to display their exquisite products half way around the world.

There is another reason why St. Louis' interest in the French exhibit is a good sign. The Marshall plan cannot possibly be successful unless the countries which are helped by it sell products abroad. Exhibits such as this one will be a stimulus to American orders for French goods and to American travel in France. Thus will French revival come about. The French industrialists and their diplomatic representatives are to be complimented on this display of initiative and self-reliance. They open a way that others must follow.

A Bang for Bingo

Aside from being known as the Hague machine candidate for Governor of New Jersey, Elmer H. Wene was also regarded as the bingo candidate. This was no joke. Wene made legalization of bingo a major campaign issue. His defeat concerns Missouri, Illinois and other states where bingo is common.

The game is especially favored by some church, veterans', parent-teachers' and civic organizations. They contend that it is an innocent form of gambling. However, it is gambling. Unlike a quiet game in a private home, bingo is employed for profit.

Two months ago the Missouri Attorney General's office ruled that bingo violated the anti-gambling laws. Yet it persists in this state while many law-enforcement officers shut their eyes to its powerful sponsors.

In New Jersey, church groups actively intervened in politics to support Wene, and many women voters were expected to back him for love of bingo. But his defeat was decisive. This was one of the first reasonably clear tests of the issue, and the public showed slight sympathy for commercial bingo.

In Missouri and Illinois, those agencies that use bingo, in the name of religious, patriotic and civic purposes, might take warning. Nothing can hide the fact that bingo winks at law. The very groups that promote it should be the first to oppose it on principle.

Doubtful Charter Restrictions

In writing strict requirements for city executives into the proposed charter, the Board of Freeholders is trying to tailor offices to the men who might eventually be found to fit them.

One freeholders' committee suggests that the city water director have an engineering degree. Another committee rejected a college requirement for the city finance director, but then decided that the director and two of his appointees should have 10 years experience in business or public administration.

This requirement might prevent many excellent men from accepting such posts. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was an exemplary chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, yet if experience in the securities field had been required, he never could have held the job. He had been a professor of law at Yale University.

Both college and business experience would be welcome qualities in almost any city officer. But there is no reason for writing fine details into a city charter, which is supposed to be concerned with fundamental structure. Some discretion in appointments ought to be left to those who make them.

"SOMETIMES I THINK HE'S GETTING TOO INTERESTED"
—From the Washington Post.

Dark Days for the Klan

The Mirror of Public Opinion

The Ku Kluxers are having a rough time of it, survey shows; membership is down, rival factions are striving for power, leaders are falling afoul of the law; Alabama has an anti-masking statute and a variety of Southern agencies have become the Klan's enemies.

Bertram Benedict in Editorial Research Reports

The State of Alabama will bring to trial next month three men, including a Ku Klux Klan Cyclops, of 18 indicted for participating in a flogging while masked. The first of the group tried, who admitted he had been a Klansman, was acquitted by a Birmingham jury Oct. 29. Nevertheless, things are going badly for the Klan throughout the South.

It is significant that an Alabama grand jury chose to indict the 18 men for the masked flogging. And last summer the state Imperial Wizard of the Klan spent 67 days in a Birmingham jail for contempt of court in refusing to give a Klan membership list to the grand jury investigating mob violence.

Lycurgus Spinks

The disintegration of the present-day Klan seemed foreshadowed when it split into a number of groups, the split widening after the death of Grand Dragon Dr. Samuel W. Green of Atlanta on Aug. 18. Five days later, Klansmen from six Southern states met in Montgomery, Ala., and formed what they called a national Klan under one Lycurgus Spinks (believe it or not). But they admitted they didn't represent any Klaverns in Georgia nor very many in Alabama; and claimed a combined membership of only 265,000.

The Alabama Wizard boasted, from jail, that his Federated Ku Klux Klans, Inc., had all of 20,000 members! On Sept. 25 the Spinks outfit decided to amalgamate with the Georgia Klans into the "Associated Klans." The new Wizard, Sam W. Roper, when asked about membership, would answer only: "That's a Klan secret." The post-World War I Klan probably had almost 4,000,000 members at its heyday, many of them outside the South.

The Klan splinter groups today face plenty of financial trouble. In 1944 the Treasury Department hit what was left of the second Klan with a suit for $685,000 in unpaid taxes. The State of Georgia revoked its charter.

When Dr. Green set up the third Klan in 1946, it also ran into a federal tax suit. Alabama enacted an anti-masking law. And now the estate of Dr. Green has a lien against it for non-payment of federal taxes.

Membership in the first and the second Klans might have been profitable for certain small businesses or politicians. Today the third Klan is under attack from the American Legion, from unions strong in certain Southern industrial areas, from preachers and newspapers of wide influence.

Little businessmen and politicians find Klan membership much more of a liability than an asset, and salesmen can do better in these days of prosperity than by going after Klan members on a commission basis. When the Klan promoter declaims: "Make the Klan strong so's to kill off all these civil-rights proposals," he is apt to be told in the South: "Every time the Klan does its stuff, it makes these civil-rights people stronger."

The first Klan spread throughout the South to protect the rights of whites in the Reconstruction era. After a time, many units fell under a low-type leadership and in 1877, when white political control was being re-established in the South, Gen. Nathan B. Forrest, head of the Klan, ordered its disbandment.

The second Klan arose out of the disturbance of old social patterns during and after World War I, and it benefited from efficient organizing methods. It died out as postwar tensions eased off, as Klan leaders were convicted of crime, as depression gave people other causes for anxiety than fellow-Americans who weren't white Protestants, as the automobile and the radio gave the social diversions of the Klan less appeal, and as people like Father Coughlin and Huey Long began to work the same side of the street.

A Big River—and More

From the New York Times

The Mississippi is more than a river. You realize that as you move west across this country. Coming down the long slope from the Alleghenies you follow the flow of water all the way, through the Midlands, across the old prairies now become deep, rich corn country.

The streams flow toward the Mississippi, toward the great river that silts the Gulf with soil from the farmlands of two thirds of the United States. For the Mississippi is a legend come true, a Paul Bunyan among the rivers of the world.

You come to it, and there it lies, a slow-rolling, muddy stream between farmlands, a giant of a stream lined with cornfields. No matter how many times you see it, the setting is somehow unworthy of the river. It should have a gorge, a canyon. Instead, it has a valley as peaceful as any valley in the world.

Yet you are impressed, in spite of yourself. You remember how the French padres explored it from the upper end, and how the Spanish grandees explored it from its mouth. You remember that it was once the far western edge of trade and exploration, how it and its tributaries bounded the vast Louisiana Territory, how all beyond it was once land unknown.

Muddy waters slowly rolling toward the Gulf, with mountains over the horizon to the east and still higher mountains beyond the far horizon to the west. There she rolls, joining, not dividing, East and West.

That is the enduring miracle of the Big River, really, the way it bisects the Heartland of America without dividing it. Watching the waters, you know that one ripple may have come from Pennsylvania, the next from Montana, one swirl of the current may be from Colorado and the next from West Virginia. Any sand bar in the Big River contains silt from at least a dozen states. Here they meet, in the deep, endless flow.

And if you stand by the Big River of an evening when a wind riffles the water, you can see the light of all the stars, out there, and hear the soft whisper of close to 140,000,000 tongues.

It's that kind of river, no matter where you come from.

Between Book Ends

The Strange W. H. Hudson

THE BEST OF W. H. HUDSON, edited by Odell Shepard. (E. P. Dutton & Co., 317 pgs., $4.)

John Kieran in the New York Times.

This is, as the title indicates, a collection of excerpts from the writings of W. H. Hudson, best known to the general reading public as the author of "Green Mansions," a point that grieves those who know Hudson much better, for it is by no means the best book of his past grand master of modern English literature. It is the deep belief of Hudson enthusiasts—including this reviewer—that nobody in a hundred years has turned out finer English prose than this strange and almost mysterious man.

Everything about him was a little strange; his background, his nature, his appearance, his reversal of the ordinary pattern of migration by growing up in the Argentine and settling down in England, the fact that he was "condemned to death" as a youth because of a heart ailment and lived the life of an invalid to a ripe old age, and last and perhaps most extraordinary of all, his becoming a famous figure in English literature while using only the initials of his given names: thus: W. H. Hudson!

W. H. Hudson

Not in the 317 pages of this book will the reader find any hint of the meaning of the initials "W. H." And in the 310 pages, including index, of "W. H. Hudson, a Portrait," by Morley Roberts, a close friend, the only half-revealing note is a single line: "His wife always calls him William."

His father, of English stock, was born in Marblehead, Mass., and his mother was a native of Maine. His parents soon after marriage moved to the Argentine and there the author was born.

He grew up speaking English and Spanish with equal ease and, as a youngster, he was intensely interested in the wildlife of the cattle country around the dooryard. A rheumatic fever left him with the heart ailment that was supposed to cut short his days and did, indeed, make him a semi-invalid through a long life. At the age of 29 he went to England, made it his home and cherished it as the native land of his heart, though in his writings he was often looking backward to wonderful days in South America.

This book provides samples of Hudson's various skills. Mr. Shepard has collected a good variety of pieces on bird life, insects, rivers and forests from Hudson's books—nicely turned pieces that reveal an artistic rather than scientific eye. Several selections from "Far Away and Long Ago" display Hudson as a philosopher, and his story-teller's art is shown in a fascinating bit from "The Purple Land." Hudson was, we see, an all-around writer of lucid style, great depth and incredible versatility.

Odell Shepard, the compiler of this anthology, has chosen well in his selections. The heartrending simplicity of some of these tales is matched by the rollicking spirit of adventure in others. Gay or grim—on man, bird or beast—W. H. Hudson wielded a wonderful pen and Mr. Shepard proves it handsomely in this volume.

Queen Stops a Crime Wave

CAT OF MANY TAILS, by Ellery Queen. (Little, Brown & Co., 311 pgs., $2.75.)

In a crime wave unequaled in New York City, victim followed victim in a series of murders. While these victims lived in different parts of the city, were in different walks of life and seemed to have no connection, they all were murdered with an India silk cord. Contributing to the mass hysteria, caused by the crimes, were cartoons in a daily newspaper showing a cat to which a new tail was added after each murder. When Ellery Queen started on his long search for the Cat, as the murderer was called, he began his most difficult case because clues were nonexistent. The book is Ellery Queen at his best, which should be enough for the most discriminating readers of mystery stories.

Both Britain and United States Will Have to Make Adjustments To Find Solution of Economic Ills

England Should Begin Retrenching and America Has to Increase Obligations to Insure Stable Conditions, Writer Says.

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

Author of the "Business Outlook" Columns Which Usually Appear in the Post-Dispatch on Monday.

LAST OF SIX ARTICLES.

THE cartoon symbols are out of date. That husky, four-square fellow, who looks as if he had gout from living on too high an income, shouldn't be John Bull any longer. He ought to be labeled Uncle Sam. And that lanky Yankee, who looks as if he never stopped working or driving a David Harum bargain, he should be rechristened John Bull.

Two wars, during which the United States gained and Great Britain lost industrial prowess plus more than 50 years of industrial decline in Britain and advance in the United States have made the United States the world's great creditor country. Britain, once the richest nation in the world, barely ekes out a return on dwindling foreign assets.

John Bull's problem is that of a once-wealthy man. He has too many commitments he refuses to cast off. He's trying to hold an empire together. He's trying to pay debts which he can't afford. He's undertaking military obligations which are bigger relatively than those of the United States. And finally, he's trying to manage a social revolution.

Solution Outlined.

To solve his financial and economic crisis, John must start retrenching, as follows:

1. Reduce payments of debts to India, Pakistan, and other sterling area and empire countries. These debts amount to three billion pounds ($8,400,000,000), and payments have been running at the annual rate of 200,000,000 pounds ($560,000,000). These payments constitute shipments of goods and materials, but Britain gets only a scratch of the pen—a reduction in debt—in return. Therefore they're called "unrequited exports."

2. Cut down military undertakings, as in Greece in 1947. Britain, with only one-third of America's population, has half as many persons as the United States in the armed services. Defense expenditures amount to 7.6 per cent of the national income. In the United States, defense equals only 6.4 per cent (excluding international aid).

3. Curb the social revolution. John will argue that. He'll say it has been long overdue. But . . . A third of every dollar of Britain's national income passes through the Government. That's a big tax take. And national services, like pensions, health benefits, unemployment compensation, allowances to families with young children take 16 per cent of the budget, ranking second to defense (23 per cent). A lot of this amounts to taking away from the well-to-do and redistributing to the not-so-well-to-do.

By deferring social benefits, Britain could release manpower and materials now used to build new schools, hospitals, housing, and the like, to rehabilitation of the industrial plant. That would serve, in turn, to increase the country's capacity to export, which would help meet the dollar deficit.

4. Relax controls over production and distribution. This can't be done while scarcity dominates the economy. But if John reduces the nation's overhead, and frees labor for production, then gradually the supply of goods and services will catch up with demand. And the need for rationing, price control, allocations, permits, and other regulations will disappear. This is a several-year project.

5. Go in for further austerity. To this end, prices of goods for domestic consumption — food, clothing and the like—must be permitted to rise. Not only would that cut domestic buying, but also it would bring the British price level back into line with the world price level. That would pave the way, ultimately, for relaxing exchange controls, for freeing the pound.

Thus, before John Bull can become a great power in the world again, he must first become a lesser one.

Also America's Crisis.

John Bull's economic crisis is also America's crisis. The United States, historically, has always been a big export nation. Prosperity in its best years depended on the sale of manufactured goods and agricultural products abroad. But the United States cannot continue to sell unless it steps up what it buys, just as Britain cannot continue to buy unless it learns to sell more.

Britain's role of the nineteenth century is now open to the United States: To act the part of the creditor nation. And America's self-interest in the postwar world suggests a politico-economic program as follows:

1. To increase purchases of foreign commodities and merchandise, eliminate tariffs and simplify customs procedures so as to encourage, not discourage, foreign sellers in the United States market. An industrially advanced nation does not need to protect established industries from competition with less-developed, less-mechanized industries abroad.

2. To stockpile raw materials, like rubber and tin, thus increasing the supply of dollars in foreign hands. At the same time, the United States ought to weigh the world's dollar needs against domestic economic policies. For instance: Should the government operate a large merchant marine and synthetic rubber plants? Such undertakings, by reducing United States purchases of shipping services or natural rubber, deprive our customers, our allies, of dollars. The justification heretofore has been that such operations are required for defense.

3. To shoulder some of John Bull's burdens as he drops them, as we did in Greece. If the British ultimately felt compelled to cut down military expenditures, say, in Germany, or Malta, or Hong Kong, or Singapore, or other strategic outposts, presumably the United States would have to take over. If the British were cease financial aid — unrequited exports—to India and Pakistan, presumably the United States would have to see that the economies of those countries were not undermined.

4. To carry on with President Truman's Point 4 program to extend financial and techincal assistance to underdeveloped countries. That has the double effect of making dollars available and lifting the standards of living of people throughout the world—one of the greatest protections this country has against the spread of Soviet power.

5. Above all, the United States must keep prosperous. An American depression, by cutting off the demand for goods by this country, would send the economies of Great Britain, France, Belgium, and most other nations into a tailspin, and it would substantiate the persistent Soviet indictment of United States capitalism—that it's unstable.

Economic Salvation.

As a corollary, any great upsurge in the American standard of living, of consumption, would prove to be economic salvation of the non-Soviet world. If the United States national income were to expand a third from current levels of 225 billion to 300 billion dollars — in line with President Truman's predictions — American imports would go up. So would American tourist expenditures. And so, presumably, would United States foreign investments.

Such an international program is bound to cost money. But it's inescapable. This country's resources are so great, its industrial skill so enormous that other nations cannot—at present—trade on equal terms. If other nations are unable to get dollars, they'll be forced into trading blocs of their own — Britain, into the sterling area, for instance. And this country would be isolated economically and politically.

In a tense atomic-bomb world, confronted by an aggressive Soviet Russia, that's something the United States cannot risk.

COURSES ON SOIL SAVING IN RURAL SCHOOLS URGED

Speaker Says Geography Could Be Modified to Include Conservation Principles.

Principles of soil conservation should be worked into the curricula of rural public schools, Miss Ellen Hartnett of the Iowa State College of Agriculture said today at one of the closing sessions of the Soil Conservation Society of America's annual meeting.

Miss Hartnett, speaking at Hotel Statler, suggested that soil conservation be taught, not as a new subject, but as a phase of subjects now in the curricula.

"Geography, dealing with man and his environment, should be modified to include conservation materials," she said. "Arithmetic could deal with problems taken from the figures of conservation.

"Material used in teaching children to read could include a soil conservation background. In social studies, a picture of the social consequences of failure to conserve our resources could be presented."

The speaker said "the ideals, knowledge and skills of the 13,000,000 rural school children of our country have very much to do with what happens to our land and its resources now and in the future. Soil conservation is a prime obligation of American citizenship."

Farmers Seek Assistance.

Most farmers now desire assistance in solving their conservation problems, Henry W. Schmitz of the Soil Conservation Service at Ottawa, Kan., declared in another talk today.

"In no place are American farmers forced to practice soil conservation," he said. "So long as democracy prevails, we will have the opportunity to lead well-informed rural people along to a complete conservation system of farming."

Schmitz described the work of the professional conservationist, pointing out that the aim was to "get soil conservation on all the land in the least possible time and at the lowest cost."

The 58,000,000 acres planted with corn in the Midwest in 1949 could be reduced by one-fifth to one-half and still produce the same amount of corn, Warren C. Huff of Columbus, O., said in a talk yesterday.

This reduction, he stated, could be accomplished by good soil and crop-management practices.

Morris E. Fonda of Detroit, also speaking yesterday, said waste of land causes more loss of resources than all the wars in which this country has participated.

Industrial Contribution Panel.

In a panel discussion on industrial contribution to soil conservation, C. A. Kincaid of Champaign, Ill., declared that only 5000 of 18,000 incorporated communities in the United States have sewage treatment facilities.

A cubic foot of soil, taken from the Mississippi river delta after being washed down the river, has been brought here to illustrate soil erosion.

James W. Sargent, assistant conservator of the Federal Soil Conservation Service, gave a green box containing the loam to Lloyd E. Partain of Philadelphia, president of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

Sargent explained the soil had been washed down the river, probably from Missouri or some other midwestern state, as part of the huge volume of eroded soil that continuously flows into the delta.

Display of Proposed Housing Project Among 80 Exhibits for St. Louis Week

More than 80 exhibits depicting operations of various divisions of the municipal government and independent agencies were opened to the public today in the fourth annual observance of St. Louis Week, in the Exposition Hall of Kiel Auditorium.

Among those on the program for the opening ceremonies at noon were Mayor Joseph M. Darst and Miss Carol Moon Gardner, Veiled Prophet Queen. The exhibits will be open from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. daily through next Saturday, without admission charge.

A reception and special preview of one of the chief exhibits, a scale model of the proposed North Side housing project, was given last night by Mayor Darst. About 100 guests, including officials of the St. Louis Housing Authority, city department heads and press and radio representatives, attended.

Furnished Apartment Unit.

The housing project is planned for construction between Seventh and Ninth streets, Cass avenue and O'Fallon street. In addition to the model of it, the display at the exposition includes a furnished sample apartment unit of the type to be built. It has a living room with dinette at one end, a bedroom, kitchenette and bath.

Arthur A. Blumeyer, chairman of the St. Louis Housing Authority, which is to build the $7,500,000 project, said similar apartments will be rented for from $11 to $42 a month, depending on the income of the families occupying them.

There will be a total of 704 apartments of various sizes. There also will be parking and recreation facilities, drives, walks and other necessary installations.

Displays by Other Agencies.

In addition to exhibits sponsored by the major departments of the city government and the Police Department there are displays by the Board of Education, Public Library, Washington and St. Louis universities, City Art Museum, United States Army Engineers, Urban League, City Plan Commission and Humane Society of Missouri.

Two large exhibits are devoted to aeronautics. One, by the Department of Public Utilities, is a model of the control tower at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Photo murals show the view of the field as seen from the tower, and the operators' control board is in the same relative position as at the field. Spectator seats are placed to give the effect of sitting at the back of the control tower as the operators perform their duties.

The other is installed by Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of St. Louis University. In addition to a number of mechanical displays the school has installed a cloud chamber five feet high and five feet long in which cloud formation is demonstrated. A four-foot wind tunnel will be in operation to show the effect of air currents on different types of wings.

Chest X-ray Unit.

As at last year's exhibit, the Tuberculosis and Health Society has a mobile chest X-ray unit in the city health division display. Free chest X-rays will be given to all visitors who wish them. Another part of the division's exhibit deals with the recent infantile paralysis epidemic.

Six divisions and bureaus of the Police Department have exhibits which include a collection of weapons used by the department and a collection of confiscated gambling equipment and machines. Officers on duty explain their use to visitors.

At the north end of the Exposition Hall is one of the largest displays, that of the Division of Hospitals and Institutions of the Department of Public Welfare. Across the south end is a display of paintings sponsored by three artists' groups.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to visit the exhibition in the eight days it is open.

Entertainment of various types will be presented on a stage in the hall throughout the hours it is open to the public. There will be band concerts, stage shows and singing by choral groups. Several radio stations will broadcast programs from the exhibition.

Racist Offer To School Stirs Congressmen

Justice Dept., Internal Revenue Probes Urged.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Copyright, 1949.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.

THE Justice Department and Internal Revenue Bureau are under sharp congressional prodding on Judge George Armstrong's attempted racist educational endowment.

Representative Andrew Biemiller (Dem.), Wisconsin, has written Internal Revenue Commissioner George Schoeneman demanding an investigation of the tax-exempt status of Armstrong's $2,000,000 Foundation. Biemiller contends the trust fund is a lobby for racist views and not a legitimate non-profit educational institution.

Attorney General McGrath has received a Senate complaint against United States Attorney Joseph Brown, of the Central Mississippi District. He was named by Armstrong as one of the new trustees of Jefferson Military College under his proposed $50,000,000 endowment. The Senate letter vigorously challenges Brown's "fitness" to hold his federal job.

McGrath has turned the complaint over to his assistant, Peyton Ford, to determine whether Brown shares Armstrong's racist views.

It was indicated McGrath's action will be based on Ford's report. Also, that Brown may be summoned to Washington for a personal explanation of his views and relations with Armstrong. Federal attorneys hold office "at the pleasure of the President," and can be removed at any time. Brown was appointed in 1947. Justice Department officials admitted receiving a number of complaints about Brown from Southern sources, particularly Texas.

Armstrong's Foundation claims tax exemption under Section 101. This provision has been under heavy fire in the last few years as a loophole that is costing the Government tens of millions of dollars in revenue annually. Tax experts have estimated that as much as 5 billion dollars in income from business sources is escaping taxation under this section.

ROCKET EXPERTS — The Army, apparently unwittingly, made a significant disclosure in the press release announcing transfer of its Research and Development sub-office from Fort Bliss, Tex., to Huntsville, Ala.

The announcement stated that among the personnel who would make the move were 100 German scientists. That figure represents one-fifth of the German scientists now in the United States on government work.

Also, Huntsville is a major rocket research center. That indicates that at least 20 per cent of the 500 German scientists brought to this country are rocket experts and are engaged in that work. This confirms previous statements stressing the importance the military is placing on development of self-propelled and remote-controlled missiles.

Outstanding among these German scientists are:

Dr. Herbert Wagner, former director of German air-to-ground missiles projects; Dr. Wilfred Hell and Dr. Reinhard Lahde, remote-control specialists; Dr. Anselm Franz, Junkers research director; Theodore Knacke and Helmut Heinrich, parachute experts; Dr. Alexander Lippisch, aeronautical engineer; Dr. Wolfgang Finkelburg, former German Air Ministry executive.

The scientists were brought to the United States under "Operation Paperclip," after careful screening. They are paid from $3000 to $9750.

ARMCHAIR STRATEGIST — When retired Air Chief of Staff Carl Spaatz wanders over to the Pentagon in his role as correspondent for a news magazine, he parks his hat in the office of Air press chief Steve Leo. They are old friends dating back from the time when Leo served under Spaatz as an A.A.F. captain.

The other day when Spaatz came in to get his hat, Leo eyed him archly and said, "Mr. Spaatz, when are you journalists going to get around to figuring out the military mind?"

Grinning broadly, Spaatz replied, "That one is beyond me, Steve. Better ask the Navy."

FLEESON

Military Air Service Aid to U.S. Influence

Planes Enter Foreign Ports Barred to Combat Craft.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.

AMERICA'S lifeline to her new world responsibilities is the Military Air Transport Service, which operates a great chain of airbases around the globe.

MATS is father, mother, and subway fare for the hosts of military and government people who, with their wives and children, make up the thickening stream of United States influence abroad. Among them it is a household word like American Express Co., signifying the vital link with "stateside," the land of milk and honey from which all blessings flow.

But MATS is a great deal more than an accommodation to the new Romans, the Americans who are going everywhere and taking their customs with them. As a strictly transport service it has been able to rush in where the combat Air Force would not be allowed to tread. In such respects it is a flying State Department whose officers must be diplomats as well as competent airmen and whose crews are students in a kind of war college of the air.

Dharan, Saudi Arabia, is an outstanding example of how MATS operates to keep United States airpower alive in crucial areas. Because of its strategic location as a world crossroads of the air era, few airports boast more traffic than the compact base fashioned amid the oil-rich sand, sun and stars of King Ibn Saud's domain.

The United States built it as a war necessity in the winter of 1945-46 so that its warplanes would not have to circle Egypt, Iraq or Pakistan in order to reach Japan. The Japanese surrender obviated that use; it did not move the base from its interesting nearness to the Caspian sea and Russia's vital centers.

King Ibn Saud is a nationalistic and independent old party. But his Arabs lack the skill to run airports and fortunately there was the noncombat MATS with a Col. O'Keefe commanding at Dharan whose warm Irish personality suited the King fine. The vital lease has been renewed, Col. O'Keefe is now a general and everybody is happy, especially the Pentagon students of map making.

You can go almost anywhere by MATS provided you are sufficiently durable and flexible to jump from rags to riches in your travel pattern.

One day you may catch Gen. MacArthur's private plane, the Bataan, which he lends to Very Important Persons. This is known as traveling plush and it is very plush; the reclining chairs which are sometimes bolted into the old bucket-seat planes for VIPs are plush too and are called MacArthur seats.

Even so, on an all-night flight a mattress and a blanket on the floor or perhaps a litter bolted to the wall will be the best you can get. And it is not well to expect much waiting on from the plane steward—he will probably be busy helping some mother who is taking her babies to live with their father on Okinawa or Siam. These stewards can teach the baby-sitters some tricks; their patience and good temper are monumental.

MATS schedules were reduced by the airlift and by budget economies. In any case the diversity of the accommodations will hardly recommend them to members of Congress, except on the much-traveled routes to Japan and Germany. Nor is the Defense Department overeager to advertise the defense aspects of the MATS operation.

Mention Dharan's nearness to Russia to Gen. O'Keefe or Hong Kong to Gen. White, who commands the Pacific division. Their eyes get bland and shallow and a rather mulish "who, me?" expression takes over. They are, they say, running MATS bases.

NEW CIVIL RIGHTS PLEA BY TRUMAN MAY REVIVE ROW

President Indicates He Will Again Seek Law—Southerners Expected to Fight.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Truman's new appeal for enactment of civil rights laws appears certain to touch off another hot debate in Congress next year.

The verbal fireworks are expected to start in the Senate soon after the lawmakers return in January. The Democratic leadership has said it will try for a vote then on perhaps the most controversial of all the civil rights measures—a bill to create a fair employment practices commission.

Truman made it clear in an Armistice day speech that he hasn't given up his fight for the program which split the Democratic party in 1948 and most him the electoral votes of four Southern states.

Civil rights laws are needed to overcome "discrimination and injustice" in the United States, the President told the National Conference of Christians and Jews at a meeting here yesterday.

"In view of the fundamental faith of this country and the clear language of the Constitution, I do not see how we can do otherwise than adopt such legislation," Truman said.

Nearly all Southern Congress members have fought the civil rights program. Senators from the South have said bluntly they intend to start another filibuster when the fair employment bill comes up.

At the start of the first session of the Eighty-first Congress last January they kept talking for days when the Democratic leaders tried to push through a change in Senate rules aimed at making it easier to limit debate.

The leaders finally had to abandon the fight for the rule they wanted and accept instead one sponsored by the Southerners and a group of Republicans.

The new rule permits limitation of debate, or cloture, when 64 of the 96 Senators vote for it. The rule never has been put to a test, and civil rights advocates are skeptical whether it will work effectively. They contend it will encourage absenteeism and make it difficult to muster 64 votes.

The principal argument against the proposed civil rights program is that it would be an invasion of states' rights.

Besides a fair employment commission, Truman's program calls for laws to make lynching a federal offense and to bar the poll tax in federal elections.

Virginia and Texas voters both rejected poll tax repeal in state elections last Tuesday. That action is expected to spur the Administration's drive for action by Congress. The House already has passed an anti-poll tax bill.

MRS. JOSEPH SPRUNG SR. DIES; 'ST. LOUIS MOTHER OF 1946'

Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph L. Sprung Sr., who was named "St. Louis Mother of 1946," will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Luke's Catholic Church, Dale and Bellevue avenues, Richmond Heights. She was 54 years old and died Thursday of a heart ailment at her home, 1425 Cutter avenue.

Mrs. Sprung was awarded the "St. Louis Mother of 1946" title by the Emblem of Honor Association, a service men's mothers' and sisters' group, because she had six sons in the service during World War II.

Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Albert Rother, and her sons, Edward, Marion, Joseph Jr., Melvin, John and Richard Sprung. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

22 BUSHELS OF APPLES BAKED IN ONE PIE, SERVED TO 2000

BOONVILLE, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Twenty-two bushels of apples, sweetened with 210 pounds of sugar, were baked in one huge pie and served yesterday to 2000 persons at the Bell Fruit Farm. The pie was topped with ice cream.

The big crowd had gathered to watch a demonstration on how to raise apples and other fruit in the orchard of tomorrow. The spectators saw a 35-acre orchard terraced and planted. A large pond was built. There were demonstrations on pruning trees and applying trunk protectors. Use of new power sprayers and power pruners was shown in a bearing orchard.

The event was sponsored by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Missouri State Horticultural Society and the Boonville Chamber of Commerce.

BYRON B. HARLAN, JUDGE OF U.S. TAX COURT, DIES

COGAN STATION, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Judge Byron B. Harlan of the United States tax court, died yesterday of a heart attack at the home of his son here. He had just arrived to attend a family reunion.

Judge Harlan, 68 years old, was a member of Congress from Dayton, O., from 1931 to 1939. He was named to fill a vacancy in the tax court in 1946 and reappointed last year for a full 12-year term.

In addition to his son, Bruce, the jurist is survived by his widow, and a daughter, Mrs. Frederick E. Batrus, both of Alexandria, Va., and another son, Richard, Navy commander and head of the physics department at the Naval Academy.

MISSIONARY, 84, ADDRESSES SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS

The Rev. W. A. Spicer, 84-year-old missionary leader, was the principal speaker today at religious services sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist autumn council which will close a 10-day session next Wednesday. About 2000 persons including delegates to the council meetings, attended the services at the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Prior to his address reports of overseas missions indicated that offerings averaged about $1,000,000 every three months. The Rev. H. W. Lowe, secretary of the Sunday school department, estimated that contributions from Sabbath schools would reach about $5,000,000 this year.

W. A. BENOIST DIES; OF PIONEER FAMILY

Former Production Engineer at Brewery Succumbs After Heart Attack.

Wilson A. Benoist, member of an old St. Louis family, died last night after suffering a heart attack at his home, 4545 West Pine boulevard. He was pronounced dead at Barnes Hospital.

Mr. Benoist, 50 years old, was formerly a production engineer at the Anheuser-Busch brewery. He retired about a year ago because of poor health.

He was a grandson of Louis Auguste Benoist, pioneer St. Louis banker, and a son of the late Theodore Benoist. He was a grandson also of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lucas Hunt, members of another early St. Louis family.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marie Benoist; two daughters, Mrs. Andrew Shinkle and Miss Barbara Benoist; three brothers, J. Hunt, Francois B. and Theodore Benoist Jr., of Tyler, Tex., and two sisters, Mrs. Patrick N. Lynch Bellinger of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. James Noah Slee of New York.

The funeral will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Louis Cathedral. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

THOMAS E. FRANCIS FUNERAL SERVICES MONDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Thomas E. Francis, former vice president and general counsel for the St. Louis Public Service Co., will be Monday at 10 a.m. in the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard. Interment will be in Lake Charles Cemetery.

Mr. Francis, who was 72 years old, died yesterday of a heart disease at his home at 6326 Waterman avenue, University City. He was in legal service of the transit company for more than 30 years, having served the company under two corporate names and through two receiverships. A native of Macon county, Mr. Francis came to St. Louis in 1906. He was associated with the firm of Boyle & Priest, which represented transit interests. In July, 1947, he retired, but acted as special counsel for the company.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Park Francis; a son, Thomas E. Francis Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Francis X. Burns, Mrs. James O. Eadie and Mrs. Ewing Donnell.

BODY OF SOLDIER RETURNED

The body of First Lt. Alexander B. Dowl of St. Louis is among those of 325 American war dead recently returned to the United States from Europe aboard the United States Army Transport Francis X. McGraw, it was announced today by the Department of the Army.

Lt. Dowl's next of kin was given as Albert Dowl, 4493 Penrose street. Among others listed, with their next of kin and address: Army Sgt. Morris E. Pryor, Mrs. Emma Pryor, Desloge, Mo., and Army Pfc. Dominic Picco, Mrs. Teresa D. Picco, Wilsonville, Macoupin county, Ill.

EARLE J. H. BENNETT FUNERAL

The funeral of Earle J. H. Bennett, insurance broker here for 43 years, was held today at the Alexander and Sons undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Bennett, who was 70 years old, died Thursday at DePaul Hospital of heart disease. He was a partner in the United Insurance Agency, 220 North Fourth street, and lived at 226 Rosemont avenue, Webster Groves. Surviving are his wife, Martha Harnett Bennett, and a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Abel.

Chest Agency Cares for Children Of Man in Prison, Gives Mother Job

The problems that confront a mother when her husband is sent to prison are multiple. But the most trying is how to care for children who are deprived of a father and his support through no fault of their own.

How the St. Elizabeth Day Nursery came to the aid of such a mother and her children is one of the 101 True Stories from the files of the Community Chest.

This woman's husband had worked steadily for many years. Then he started gambling, lost heavily and stole from the company to cover his gambling losses. The result was almost inevitable. His thefts eventually were discovered and he was sent to prison.

His wife borrowed heavily to repay the firm for his thefts. Then she was faced with the problem of paying off the loans and taking care of their two children.

A friend sent her to St. Elizabeth Day Nursery. That agency agreed not only to take care of her two children without charge but also gave her a job so she could avoid the embarrassment of having to answer questions at employment agencies.

The husband still is in prison. But meanwhile, through the nursery's help, his children are being well cared for and his wife has time to work for the money necessary to regain the family's self-respect.

North Carolina Stuns Notre Dame With Score in First Three Minutes

Irish Held To 6-6 Tie In Half

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—North Carolina, a five-touchdown underdog, pushed over a touchdown in the first three minutes to grab an early 6-0 lead over Notre Dame in their game at Yankee Stadium today.

Stunning a crowd of 67,000, Kenny Powell, Tar Heel end, blocked a fourth-down kick by the Irish's Bob Williams, and Tackle Bill Kuhn recovered for North Carolina on the Irish nine-yard line. In two stabs, Dick Bunting, subbing for the injured Charlie Justice, was over for the touchdown.

Justice came out to hold the ball for the extra point try but the kick, attempted by Abie Williams, was wide.

FIRST QUARTER.

North Carolina scored in the first three minutes, holding Notre Dame for three straight downs inside the Irish 20-yard line after the kickoff. Kenny Powell, North Carolina end, blocked Bob Williams's attempted punt and Tackle Bill Kuhn recovered for North Carolina on the Notre Dame 9. Dick Bunting, plunged four yards and then across for the touchdown. Abie Williams's extra point try, with the injured Charles Justice holding, with wide.

Notre Dame took the ensuing kickoff back to the North Carolina 35 but North Carolina held. Bunting of North Carolina, intercepted Williams's pass in midfield as the period ended with North Carolina leading, 6-0.

SECOND QUARTER.

Notre Dame tied the score when Halfback Francis Spaniel broke over guard and sprinted 77 yards to a touchdown. Steve Oracko's attempted placement kick was blocked by Dick Bestwick.

A few minutes previously North Carolina, sparked by Bunting and George Verchick, had driven from the Notre Dame 44 to the Irish one-yard line, where the Tar Heels had four tries to go over.

A backfield-in-motion penalty against North Carolina put the ball back on the six. Three passes and a running play by North Carolina failed and Notre Dame took over on its 10.

Midway of the period, Notre Dame, with Williams and Sitko carrying, moved 44 yards to the North Carolina 10 but was held on downs. Neither team threatened seriously the rest of the way. The period closed with Notre Dame's Williams firing desperation passes from midfield. Half time score: Notre Dame 6; North Carolina 6.

TERRY YOUNG of New York's East Side went down with a bang when hit by CHARLEY FUSARI of Irvington, N. J., and took a count of nine in the eighth round of their bout at Madison Square Garden. A few seconds later in the same round, Young was sprawled by another hard blow from Fusari and Referee Josephs ended the fight without counting. (Story on next page).

Tanforan Purses Back At $2000 After Protest

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Tanforan's horse race meeting will continue with a $2000 minimum purse.

The track owners and spokesmen for the California Thoroughbred owners and the Jockeys' Guild reached that agreement today.

The track wanted to cut the minimum purse to $1700.

Horse owners and jockeys protested. The ockeys pointed out that $2000 is the dividing mark in determining riders' fees on the west coast. Under that amount, the fee for a mount drops from $20 to $15 per horse, and from $50 to $35 for riding a winner.

The track owners wanted to cut purses because of declining parimutuel revenues.

Five Horses Go Today In Pimlico Cup Race

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Pimlico cup, America's longest stakes race on the flat at two and one-half miles, will be contested today by five endurance horses.

Racing for the winner's share of a $15,000 purse will be Brookmeade Stable's Blue Hills and Going Away, Frank A. Bonsal's Pilaster, C. Mahlon Kline's Bayeux and E. E. Voynow's Stud Poker.

The Brookmeade entry looms as the betting favorite. However, the high weights of 120 pounds have been assigned Pilaster and Stud Poker. Pilaster particularly is known as a distance horse.

No. 13 for West Chester.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 12 (UP)—Unbeaten and untied West Chester Teachers College downed St. Francis College, 35-0, here last night for their thirteenth straight victory.

It was the eighth straight win this year for the Rams and their fifth straight shutout. The victory ended three seasons of home games without a defeat.

Defense of Shut-'em-Out Bears In for Real Test at Louisville

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12—The outlook for Washington University's football team in its big game with Louisville University today was like the weather forecast—partly cloudy.

The once-beaten W.U. eleven has shut out four consecutive opponents in a five-game winning streak, and it could take the last large step toward marking the season a success by defeating favored Louisville. The Bears then would need only a victory over Sewanee next week at home to finish with an 8-1 record.

But most of the signs were pointing in the opposite direction. The weather, for instance, was only partly cloudy. Any rain was not likely to be heavy enough to slow the canvas protected field for the speedy Louisville backs who have helped the team to a six victory record in eight games thus far.

Kentucky Now at Peak.

In addition, the Kentucky boys were expected to be stronger in the speed department than they were when they suffered their defeats at the hands of highly-rated Xavier of Cincinnati and Miami of Florida.

Joe Trabue, senior member of the fleet Louisville halfback combination in which Tom Lucia is the other half, contributed nothing to Louisville's cause in Xavier and Miami games, it was said here. But he has since returned to form after recovering from a hip injury.

Trabue will alternate with Lucia at the left halfback spot. That means the Bears will encounter twice as much difficulty from that source as Xavier had to contend with. And Xavier beat Louisville by only 19-7. Xavier has lost only to Kentucky in eight games and has trimmed teams like Miami of Ohio and Dayton, both representing the more rugged kind of football.

John Brewer, Louisville's 200-pound fullback who was an early season help in the Cardinal running game that has averaged nearly 300 yards a contest, is slightly ailing. But his stand-in, Ken Day, has outdone Brewer in the last two games with a line-smacking average of seven yards a play. His six-yard average for the season is second only to that of eight yards per play recorded by the broken-field runner Lucia.

12,000 Crowd Expected.

So the Bear defenses will have to be good to stop Louisville as it sets out to entertain an expected crowd of 12,000 homecoming fans at Manual Field.

"We lost to Xavier and Miami, the biggest teams on our schedule," says Louisville publicity man Bovard Clayton, "but we consider Washington the next most important team we play this year."

The outlook was formidable and the picture grew a bit cloudier when Joe Votava, one of the top W. U. halfbacks, continued to feel the effects of a turned ankle, suffered in the last workout before leaving St. Louis. The injury was not ezpected to bother him much, however.

Gannon College Team Finally Scored on After Five Shutouts

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Gannon College of Erie last night gave up the honor of being the only unscored on college football team in the country.

Loras College of Dubuque, Ia., scored a lone touchdown as it lost to Gannon, 19-7.

It was Gannon's sixth consecutive victory.

The school has never lost a football game. It didn't start playing until this season.

Loras proved to be toughest foe Gannon has met this year. Twice in the first half the Iowans seemed headed for touchdown territory. A 57-yard drive wound up on the 19-yard line while another 65-yard movement was stopped five yards from pay dirt.

Fullback Vince Jenco scored two of Gannon's counters, one on a 84-yard run, the other on a one-yard plunge after a 69-yard sustained march. End Leon Presto took the other over, dashing 20 yards after taking a 29-yard pass from Quarterback Jack Krahe.

Halfback Dick Mares of Racine, Wis., scored Loras' lone tally. After John Velpes intercepted a Gannon pass on the Gannon 40, Mares, on the second play thereafter, slid through left guard for 39 yards and a counter.

Michigan Star Sets Record to Beat Gehrmann

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (UP)—Don McEwen, 21-year-old Michigan sophomore from Ottawa, Ont., has set a new four-mile 19m. 44.5s. for the Thirty-fifth Annual Big Ten Cross Country championship.

McEwen broke the previous record of 20m. 26.4s. set by Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin in 1947. He beat Gehrmann yesterday by 150 yards on the four-mile course at Washington Park.

Up until now, Gehrmann has been conceded to be the outstanding collegiate long-distance runner. But track fans now will center their attention on McEwen for future national track events.

Gehrmann's second-place time was 20m. 7s., the fastest he had ever run the course. McEwen's victory deprived the Wisconsin star from winning the Big Ten Cross Country three times in succession.

Despite McEwen's record, however, Wisconsin took the team championship for the second straight time. The Badgers have placed first 14 times during the history of the meet.

Hale and Beard Star In Indianapolis Win

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Indianapolis Olympians drove from behind in the second half to defeat the Philadelphia Warriors, 91-84, in a National Basketball Association game before 3096 last night.

The speed and shot-making of Ralph Beard and Bruce Hale pulled out victory for the Olympians. Beard, who tallied 20 points, made seven of his field goals in the second half. Hale scored 19 points.

For the Warriors, Joe Fulks and Vern Gardner tallied 23 each. Alex Groza, Indianapolis center who set a season's record of 41 points in New York, tallied 16 points.

South Side Classic.

The Du-Bowls shot team high single, 935, and Andy Burgers registered team high three of 2733 in the South Side Classic Scratch Bowling League at Du-Bowl Lanes. Bob Vien's 225 and Jake Schnell's 592 were the top scores. Team results: Andy Burgers 2, Du-Bowl 1; Commonwealth 2, Sappington 1; Chippewa 2, Griesedieck 1; Shur-Start 2, Hartman 1.

Women's Major Top Bowler.

Ruth Moehlenkamp, member of the 1947 WIBC championship Silver Seal team, ca[illegible]221 high single and 591 seri[illegible] pace the Women's Major S[illegible] Bowling League at Du-Bowl[illegible]nes. The Harts had 901 and 2665 for team honors.

Flyers to Show New Front Lines In Game Tonight

By Harold Flachsbart

The Flyers will show revamped forward combinations when they take the Arena ice tonight against the Indianapolis Caps, a club which has lost four straight, including a meeting with St. Louis last Sunday. Ebbie Goodfellow's club could take a firm hold of second place in the Western Division standings of the American Hockey League with a victory, but an Indianapolis triumph would leave the clubs tied. Game time, 8:15.

In the realignment of centers and wings, Ernie Trigg, who tallied three goals against Providence here Tuesday, will center a line including Paul Gladu and Fern Gauthier as the wings. Billy McComb, the captain who—same as last winter—has been filling in any place and every place in the lineup, will center Hank (Pop) Backor and Johnny Raynak.

That will leave Eddie Olson as the left wing on the Barry Sullivan-Red Doran line. Olson started out the season with Raynak and Backor, then shifted for a while to defense, the department that needed a shot in the arm.

With Cliff Simpson out of action because of a broken fibula and Norm Tustin still limping because of a knee injury suffered Oct. 27 at New Haven, the Flyers will have only 14 men in uniform in addition to Goalie Red Almas. The limit is 15.

Defenseman Vic Grigg missed yesterday's workout because of a bruised hip and Ed Nicholson, another sentry, is favoring a back injury. Both are expected to play against the Caps, however.

In the latest official A.H.L. scoring release, the Caps and Goalie Terry Sawchuk had by far the best defensive average in the circuit, but an 8-1 victory by Providence at Indianapolis Thursday changed that picture.

Two St. Louis Field Hockey Teams Beaten

Two St. Louis teams were defeated and one won in early games of the Midwest Field Hockey tournament at Washington U. field today.

St. Louis No. 1 was the first to taste defeat, bowing to North Shore of Winettka, Ill., 3-2. Dorothy Donovan and Synthia Oakes scored the points for St. Louis; Elizabeth Washburn, Ann Duckett and Josephine Dyson for North Shore.

St. Louis No. 3 won from Chicago No. 2, 3-0, Bonnie Remhardt, Gene Schoeblen and Pete Pollnow making the scores.

In other games, Milwaukee defeated St. Louis No. 2, 1-0, Labon Stock registering the only goal; Chicago No. 1 won from Madison, Wis., 5-0, and North Shore won from Iowa, 1 to 0.

Leaf's Center Injured.

TORONTO, Nov. 12 (UP)—Cal Gardner, fast-skating Toronto Maple Leafs center, suffered a fractured jaw in the game Thursday night against the Montreal Canadiens, Leaf Coach Hap Day said.

Gardner, the Leaf's top point-getter this season, was hurt in a collision with Montreal Defenseman Kenny readon. Day said, he did not know how long Gardner would be sidelined.

Duck Hunters

Skies were partly covered to overcast in the northern sections from the Mississippi Valley to the westward and rain was falling in the upper Mississippi Valley at 7 o'clock today; the rain was light as a rule. No real cold weather was showing in the western Canadian Provinces, and temperatures for the night stayed above the freezing point in the southern sections. The same was true in the northern Rockies, northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley where the lowest shown was 19 above at Bismarck, N.D.

Fair weather will prevail in the northern Rockies and the Dakotas the next 24 hours and temperatures will continue above the seasonal normal. Temperatures tomorrow morning in the Dakotas will range between 20 and 30 degrees, as a rule and in Minnesota from 18 to 25 degrees. Winds will be rather strong over the Dakotas and Minnesota today, but diminish tomorrow.

Shower Before Missouri's Game With Oklahoma

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—A thundershower pelted Columbia today just three hours before the kickoff in the Big Seven football game between the Universities of Missouri and Oklahoma.

The temperature was 60 degrees.

Earlier the sun had shone through yawning gaps in the clouds. The 36,000-plus fans expected in the stadium yearned for more sunshine.

Occasional showers last night did not curb the enthusiasm of the crowd which made merry until the wee hours.

The underdog Missouri team broke tradition and remained here for the night instead of going to the nearby state capital of Jefferson City. Oklahoma slept there.

All roads that led to Columbia were throbbing with traffic. Seven chartered busses brought fans from Kansas City.

For those who couldn't see the game, 44 radio stations in Oklahoma and Missouri were scheduled to broadcast the contest.

Macauley, Groza Renew Rivalry

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 12—The St. Louis Bomber basketball team will be seeking to better its .500 mark tonight when it opposes the Indianapolis Olympians at Butler Field House. The game will mark a renewal of the rivalry between the Bombers' Easy Ed Macauley and the Olympians' Alex Groza.

Macauley and Groza met last year in the Sugar Bowl game, a contest in which Macauley and the St. Louis University Billikens won. Besides Groza, the Olympians also have three other players who participated in the Sugar Bowl tourney in the colors of the Kentucky University Wildcats. The players are Ralph Beard, Wah-Wah Jones and Cliff Barker. The latter is also coach of the Indianapolis five.

Both the Bombers and the Olympians were successful in their last outs. The Bombers made their home debut a successful one by downing the previously undefeated Syracuse Nationals. The Olympians, after spoiling the New York Knickerbockers' home inaugural, Thursday, last night beat Philadelphia, 91-84. Macauley notched 23 points against Syracuse, while Groza came up with an amazing total of 41 at New York and tallied 16 last night.

After tonight's game, the Bombers return home for a meeting tomorrow night with the Chicago Stags, one of the Bombers' most bitter rivals in their three years of professional competition. Sunday night's game will get under way at 8:45 p.m.

Kramer and Parker Win In Pro Matches

HERSHEY, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Jack Kramer continued his supremacy over Pancho Gonzales and Frankie Parker defeated Francisco (Pancho) Segura for the second straight night in their transcontinental pro tennis series last night.

Kramer, reigning pro player, beat Gonzales, 1948-'49 U. S. amateur champion, 8-6, 6-4 for his ninth victory in 12 matches.

Parker, after bowing to Segura 10 straight times, whipped the south American 6-2, 15-13. Parker also defeated Segura in Philadelphia.

Bowling Begins In Team Title Match

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP)—One of bowling's annual classics opened here today.

Chicago's Tavern Pales, headed by Buddy Bomar, began a 24-game series in defense of its national match game championship against Detroit E & B.

The teams faced a weekend schedule calling for three-game blocks this afternoon and tonight and the same tomorrow. The concluding 12 games will be rolled next weekend at Chicago.

Last year the Tavern Pales defeated E & B by 282 pins, overcoming a 592-pin lead which E & B had piled up at home.

E & B qualified for this year's shot at the Pales by leading a field of 36 teams in an elimination tourney at Battle Creek, Mich., three weeks ago.

Drop Ninth Game.

PROVO, Utah, Nov. 12 (UP)—Brigham Young's winless Cougars dropped their ninth game of the 1949 season here yesterday to Colorado A. & M., 16-14. Until the last 35 seconds, Brigham Young had an upset in its hands. Then, a desperation field goal by Aggie Quarterback Joe Folsom brought the Coloradoans victory.

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Owens, Former Umpire in A.L.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Clarence (Brick) Owens, 64, who started umpiring at 16 as result of a pistol accident and became a 22-season American League arbiter, died of a heart attack yesterday.

Big, strapping Owens collapsed at the office of a wholesale meat firm where he was a salesman. A fire department squad worked over him futilely for 20 minutes. Owens was born in Milwaukee on March 31, 1885.

Owens was retired on pension by the American League in 1937 after umpiring continuously from 1916 in the junior circuit. He left the profession because of a heart condition.

Brick, who picked up that nickname when he was pelted with a brickbat early in his career at Pittsburg, Kan., saw service in five world series—1918-22-25-28-34.

Legend had it that his umpiring profession developed in 1901 after he accidentally wounded himself in the hand with a revolver he had purchased in Chicago to celebrate the Fourth of July.

He was unable to play in a semi-pro game and when the officiating proved bad in the game, Owens was drafted to umpire. He got 50 cents for the job. He umpired the following two Sundays, also for 50 cents.

The following year, at 17, he was signed to umpire in the Northern League, where the loop president took one look at him and snorted: "Boy you better go back to school I want men umpiring in my league."

But Brick persuaded a full season trial and made the grade. Then followed umpiring stints in the Western League, Missouri Valley League, Eastern League and American Association before, at 23, Owens appeared in the National League in 1908.

The next three seasons, however, found him back in the American Association. In 1912 he made the National League again, but in 1913 he was with the International League and 1914-15 with the American Association.

Then he landed for keeps in the American League.

Owens for the past 13 years was a meat salesman and resided here with his wife, Helen. They had no children.

Maryville Romps Over Warrensburg, 40-12

MARYVILLE, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—The Maryville State Bearcats ran up 34 points in the first half then coasted to a 40-12 victory over the Warrensburg State Mules yesterday. The victory assured Maryville of at least a tie for second place in the M.I.A.A.

Warrensburg got two touchdowns in the fourth quarter against Maryville's reserves.

Two Warrensburg fumbles and an intercepted pass led to three Maryville touchdowns.

Marvin Weed, Maryville fullback, made three touchdowns, Noorman James two and Pal Tobin one. Don Hoffman kicked four extra points.

The Warrensburg counters were made by Ken Webster and E. Thompson.

Schifferdecker First But Bears Lose Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12—Charles Schifferdecker, Washington University's ace cross-country runner, finished first in a meet against Louisville U. here today ni the time of 16.27 minutes for the 3.4 miles distance.

The Bear team, however, was beaten by the Louisville team, 27 points to 30. Bill Rudolph and Herb Kebschul of Louisville ran second and third, respectively.

The loss gave Washington's cross-country team a two-four record for the completed season.

Martha Doyle Triumphs.

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Leading from wire to wire, Martha Doyle won the $14,250 Western Trot for three-year-olds yesterday at Hollywood Park race track. With Bi Shively in the sulky, the roan filly outstepped five others and picked up $7125 in the holiday grand circuit harness racing fixture.

Martha Doyle trotted the mile in 2:03 3-5 and returned $3.80, $2.50 and $2.10 across the board. Lady Jeritza finished second ahead of Bangaway.

Detroit Coach Warns Against Bills Being in Bag

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Nov. 12—"The quickest way to lose a football game is to win it on paper or by pre-kickoff counting of touchdowns before made. We should know."

Thus Charles Baer, head coach, University of Detroit, silences those followers who were certain two weeks ago that Detroit would smooth the trail toward the Missouri Valley Conference championship by using St. Louis University as a footbridge here tomorrow afternoon.

Baer referred to unexpected defeats Detroit received last month from University of San Francisco and Marquette in particular, the weak showing against Villanova and a close fit with Tulsa.

Detroit's players, reduced to respectfulness by St. Louis tying of conference unbeaten Wichita, 21-21, in the final 75 seconds and tearing away a two touchdown trammel, commit themselves to doing the best they can with what they have.

With no competition from the professionals, and the parochial high school schedules ended except for one or two games, St. Louis and Detroit have the local field to themselves. Attendance is apt to reach 10,000.

14 to Race in $50,000 Pace

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Fourteen of the nation's top pacers head postward today at Hollywood Park for the Western Harness Racing Association's $50,000 Golden West Pace.

The array of talent for the mile and one quarter attraction includes eight members of harness racing's two-minute mile speedsters. They are Jimmy Creed, Grattan McKlyo, Dr. Stanton, Alemite, Brother Harmony, Hayes Hanover, Jerry the First and Indian Land.

Jerry the First, fresh from setting a new world mark for the mile and one sixteenth at Hollywood Park two weeks ago at 2:07 3-5, will ramble as an entry with Eddie Cobb's Ohio Stable's Hodgen and Royal Man.

No fewer than 10 of the 14 have scored impressive wins at the current meeting. Picking a winner will be a real job. They are all that good.

The rest of the field includes Gene Abbe, Guest Star, Mr. Morris Scot and Lana Direct.

$1,182,225 Paid for 717 Harness Horses At Harrisburg Sale

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—The increase of night racing with its larger purses was given by horsemen as the chief reason for the record shattering four-day auction of trotters and pacers.

A total of 717 head of horses in training and yearlings were knocked down for $1,182,225, an average of $1648 a head, during the sale which ended yesterday.

The figures surpassed the previous high of $1,024,550 and an average of $1566 established a year ago.

The highlight of the sale this year was the record $72,000 paid for Imperial Hanover, a yearling from the consignment of the Hanover (Pa.) Shoe Farms. It was the highest price ever paid for either a yearling or proven racer at an auction sale.

The well-bred colt was knocked down to the syndicate of Sep Palin, Fred Egan and J. J. McIntyre. But yesterday, McIntyre, General Motors Corp. executive from Hollins, Va., announced he had purchased the interests of Palin and Egan, veteran trainer-drivers.

McIntyre has turned Imperial over to 29-year-old Johnny Simpson, and will be prepped for the races at Orlando, Fla., this winter.

Another high price paid yesterday was $12,500 by Arthur N. Nardin of the Nardin Co., New York, for the three-year-old pacing colt, Harrow.

Two Third Period Touchdowns Win For McKendree College

EUREKA, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—McKendree pushed over two touchdowns in the third quarter yesterday to defeat Eureka 13-7 in the final Pioneer Conference game of the season.

Bill Nagle passed to Cloy Burns for one score and Ron Herrin sprinted 48 yards for another.

Eureka tallied in the first period. George Ocwarz dashed 45 yards to set it up. Bob Houser scored from the four.

Missouri B Eleven Loses to Kirksville

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Kirksville State defeated the University of Missouri "B" football team 22-14 here yesterday.

The Missouri B team held a 14-13 lead at half time. Quarterback Huley of Missouri scored on the second running play of the game on a 56-yard sprint, and in the second period Welch ran 43 yards for another counter. Deneke kicked both extra points.

Joe Asperger went to six yards for a Kirksville touchdown in the first period, and Clyde Ranson scored from the nine in the second period.

Dale Albrecht kicked a field goal from the Missouri 18-yard line to put Kirksville out in front in the fourth period, and Darold Gourley passed 10 yards to Asperger for the final tally. Albrecht converted once in three attempts.

FIGHT RESULTS

By the Associated Press.

"Bring On Robinson" Says Fusari After Stopping Young

Right Hand Blows End The Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Charlie Fusari has moved front and center as the logical contender for welter king Sugar Ray Robinson's title.

"Bring on Robinson, we're ready now," said Manager Vic Marsillo last night. Fusari had just scored a convincing knockout in 1:13 of the eighth round over Terry Young at Madison Square Garden.

However, a title shot for Fusari remains a future book proposition. It is not likely that Sugar Ray will attempt to pare himself down to the 147-pound limit before summer.

In the meantime, Robinson, Fusari and Kid Gavilan, another top contender, have a busy schedule.

Robinson meets Vern Lester in New Orleans Sunday, his second fight in four days, and takes on George "Sugar" Coster in a non-title bout at Philadelphia Dec. 12.

Fusari goes against Tony Pellone at Detroit, Nov. 25, and Gavilan faces a rugged test in Laurent Dauthuille of France at Montreal, Nov. 21.

After the results of those three bouts are in, the welter picture may be cleared. Gavilan, beaten by Lester Felton on a disputed decision that prompted a wholesale investigation at Detroit, already had his shot at Robinson. Still Fusari may have to beat him to get the chance.

The crowd of 10,074 which paid $38,759 got its thrills out of the garden scrap that proved Fusari's career had suffered no serious setback in his September knockout loss to Rocky Graziano.

Fusari took charge in the early rounds, faded under Young's left hooks in the fourth and fifth but finished with a rush to drop tough Terry from New York's east side three times.

Saved by the bell in the sixth, Young survived a savage seventh round attack only to be dropped for another nine-count early in the eighth. Fusari drove helpless Terry around the ring, rocking him time and again with solid rights before Young slipped off the ropes to land face down on the canvas. Referee Eddie Joseph didn't bother to count. He took one look and waved both hands, palms down, to mark the end.

Fusari was at his best when he chose to box with Young, using his weight, height and reach advantage. He had seven pounds on Terry, 148 to 141, and speared him repeatedly with his long left jab. Young did his only effective work in close as he bobbed and weaved away from Charlie.

Missouri Valley Routs William Jewell 62-0; Captures MCAU Title

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP)—Missouri Valley walloped William Jewell College 62-0 yesterday and captured its sixth consecutive Missouri Collegiate Athletic Union football championship.

A crowd of 4500 homecoming fans saw the Valley break fast with three touchdowns in the first quarter and then roll on relentlessly. Coach Dolney Ashford used 45 men but even the subs punched over touchdowns.

High scorer in the point-a-minute tally was Marvin Sprig, who sliced around end for 20 yards and a touchdown in the second quarter and then galloped 75 yards for another six points with an intercepted pass in the third period.

The others to score touchdowns were Bill Lingenfelder, Larry Fields, Bill Mallory, Roy Preston, Bruce Webb, Allen Carroll and Kenneth Soxman. Jim Happy boosted six field goals.

This Run Was Short, but in Long Run It Was De Andreis

JERRY DWYER of De Andreis getting away for a good run the third quarter of the Prep League game with C.B.C. FRANK HIRBE is running interference for Dwyer. De Andreis scored its points in the fourth quarter for a 10-7 upset victory over the Christian Brothers boys.

Cleveland Seeks Second Title In Three Years in Game With Southwest's Eleven Tonight

By Harold Tuthill

An attraction fit for a king will be offered to high school fans in this area tonight when Cleveland, unbeaten by teams in this district, will oppose Southwest which has improved so fast in recent weeks that it now rates consideration for the City League championship. Kickoff time at the Public Schools Stadium on North Kingshighway near St. Louis will be 8 o'clock.

Cleveland has bashed the daylights out of three of the four league teams it has played, has smothered McBride 38-13, and Belleville 46-7, in outside competition. The only loss in seven games was to Memphis Tech 40-20.

Except for Beaumont, which Cleveland shaded 26-19, the Dutchmen of George Meinhardt have dominated the league. They beat Roosevelt 27-6, Central 33-0 and McKinley 38-0.

Southwest and its coach, Jim Kenny, were comparative football strangers at the start of the season. The diminutive coach has been busy winning baseball championships in two of the past three years. Moreover, during that time he had been content to assist Don Ashley with the football team, little dreaming he would be handed that head coaching assignment this fall.

Kenny, a Cleveland High graduate, started the Southwest team slowly—so much so that they lost five straight games. St. Louis U. High won 28-0, St. Mary's 13-7, Louisville Male High 33-0, Soldan-Blewett 25-12 and Central 19-7. The tide turned when a safety beat Roosevelt 2-0. Beaumont was an 18-13 victim and last week McKinley was bowled over 20-0. Now, a Southwest victory plus two Cleveland defeats would enable the Longhorns to tie for the title.

Cleveland, the heaviest team in the league with an average of more than 200 pounds per player when all the regulars are available, is determined to halt the rush of the Southwest Longhorns and, at the same time, clinch its second title in there years. Meinhardt piloted the Dutchmen to the 1947 championship.

If Cleveland wins, it automatically becomes the public high representative in the Accident Benefit game Nov. 26 against the Preparatory League representative. Beaumont beat St. Louis U. High 13-7 in last year's game.

Admission to tonight's game will be 75 cents.

Police Needed As Maplewood Tops St. Charles

A detail of St. Charles police accompanied the Maplewood football team to its busses after a game last night marred by scuffles between spectators and Maplewood players and bandsmen. Maplewood defeated St. Charles, 38 to 0.

The differences between the fans and players were believed to have originated after Maplewood halfback, Levin Gray, was removed from the game because the referee said he had kicked Rich Morgan, the St. Charles right end who had brought him down after a 10-yard gain. Morgan was also ejected.

The St. Charles captain, McCoy, protested the removal of Morgan, and he was also put out of the game by the officials.

According to Norville (Bud) Wallach, Maplewood coach, the spectators near the Maplewood bench annoyed his players during the game that was marked by 11 penalties for unnecessary roughness and clipping on Maplewood and five on St. Charles.

In the third quarter, according to Wallach, a Maplewood player and a St. Charles spectator engaged in a brief scuffle. Later, Wallach said, the spectator and the player shook hands.

After the game a large number of St. Charles spectators gathered near the Maplewood team's clubhouse, and police were called to escort the team to the busses. Wallach said that the Maplewood drum major, ~~Paul~~ Parham, was injured slightly during an argument with some fans.

A large number of parents of the Maplewood players attended the game, as well as the Maplewood band.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt as Maplewood scored in every quarter. Schroeder scored three times, and Sullivan, Combs and Buzzanga each went over once. Breitenbuecher and Combs kicked extra points.

DeAndreis Hands C. B. C. Eleven 10 to 7 Defeat

The accurate toe of DeAndreis Halfback Bob Stellern kicked C.B.C.'s Prep League title hopes yesterday as his field goal in the last minute of the game gave his team a 10-to-7 victory over the only squad conceded a chance to beat St. Louis U. High.

C.B.C. now has a 2-1-1 record, while the Junior Bills, who play McBride tomorrow, have 3-0. St. Louis and C.B.C. will meet a week from Sunday, but if St. Louis wins tomorrow it will clinch the championship.

Yesterday being Armistice day, parades were the thing, but the Cadets from C.B.C. weren't marching anywhere. Most of the game was played in their territory and they made few scoring threats against a DeAndreis eleven that was playing inspired ball. The lone Cadet touchdown came when Don Gallagher broke loose near the end of their first half and raced 56 yards to score.

DeAndreis was held scorless until the final quarter when after a determined drive Jerry Dwyer passed about 10 yards to Frank Hirbe on the 21. Hirbe eased through would-be C.B.C. tacklers to score. Stellern then hinted at the danger to his kicking foot by booting a placement for the point that tied the game.

The scored remained knotted until DeAndreis made a first down on the C.B.C. 14 with about 45 seconds remaining. The teams were near the middle of the field, so DeAndreis Coach George Hasser decided to give Stellern his chance. The field goal kick was through the uprights and Stellern was mobbed by his happy teammates, who captured their second league victory against an equal number of losses.

All America Plans To Enlarge Circuit At December Meeting

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12 (UP)—Arthur McBride, owner of the Cleveland Browns, revealed today that the All America Football Conference would meet in Houston, Tex., Dec. 14 to consider enlarging the league from seven to eight teams.

League officials, McBride said, would consider bids from Houston and Dallas. The Cleveland owner indicated Dallas would be given preference because it has the Cotton Bowl which seats 75,000.

"I'm going to Houston to keep the conference intact," McBride said. "I've always been in favor of two leagues. I think it's the healthiest thing for pro football."

Another Win for Utah.

BELOHORIZONTE, Brazil, Nov. 12 (UP)—The University of Utah basketball team chalked up another impressive victory on its tour of South America by humbling th local Minas five, 49to 32, last night.

Lincoln Tigers Ill.-Mo. Champs

The Lincoln High Tigers are kings in the Ill-Mo League and possessors of one of the best high school football records in the district. Their 12-0 victory over Douglas of Webster Groves yesterday was their fourth league triumph, and ninth victory in 10 games this year. The other game was a scoreless tie in September.

Roddie Johnson scored one of the Lincoln touchdowns, and Ted Bell passed to Paul King for the other.

In a game between the two Ill-Mo runner-ups, Sumner and Vashon tied 6-6 yesterday. Gene Roberts scored for Vashon and Travers Curry went over for Sumner.

Eleven Tallies 34 Points Without Aid Of One First Down

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 12 (UP)—St. John's High of Worcester scored 34 points against Classical High in the final three periods of yesterday's football game—without making a single first down.

Added to 14 points earned while racking up four first downs in the opening period, that made the final score: St. John's High 48, Classical 13. Intercepted passes and long runs helped the victors perform the feat.

Illinois Juniors Lose.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—Illinois's junior varsity football team suffered its first licking of the season yesterday. Ohio State's JV outfit scored a 21-7 victory.

Jack Wagner tallied twice for the Buckeyes and Bill Petersen passed to Dick Anderson for a third touchdown. Two of the touchdowns stemmed from Illinois fumbles.

Marshall Dusenberry's interception of a pass in the final period gave Illinois its touchdown. Bill Willis knifed five yards to score.

Races of Less Than $2000 on 'Boycott' List

SAN BRUNO, Calif., Nov. 12 (UP) — Tanforan Race Track's hope of continuing its 1949 season was hard hit yesterday when horse owners and jockeys agreed to boycott all races with less than $2000 purses.

Action by the California owners' and trainers' and the Jockey Guild was taken separately but virtually simultaneously in the wake of an announcement by the track that a new minimum purse of $1700 would go into effect next Monday to help the track escape financial ruin brought from plunging pari-mutuel handles.

John Beverly of the owners' association said owners will refuse to enter mounts at that figure. The Jockey Guild said it would refuse to ride any mounts entered.

The track had said it was not interested in a profit but was forced to cut the purses in order to break even in the cash register.

Apprentice Jockey Held.

SALEM, N. H., Nov. 12 (AP)—Nicholas Restivo, 21, an apprentice jockey from Brooklyn, N. Y., is scheduled for arraignment in district court today on charges of attempted malicious interference with a race horse.

Restivo was turned over to Derry police yesterday after a member of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau seized a man attempting to administer a pill to Mrs. Irving Gushen's King Eric in its stall at Rockingham Park.

King Eric started off last in a 10-horse field and finished fourth in the third race yesterday.

Arrest of the 21-year-old apprentice, who has ridden in 40 races, followed by a week seizure of an unemployed groom here and a racing sheet operator in California on tampering charges after six of nine horses had been "sponged" here Oct. 23.

Another Doping Case.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—The sixth "doping" case of the 1949 Chicago racing season was reported yesterday.

Stewards at Sportsman's Park reported that the urinalysis of Mysty Eight, winner of the sixth race last Wednesday, showed presence of procaine.

Misty Eight, ridden by Jockey Gene Pederson, paid $43.40 for a $2 win ticket.

D. J. Higgins, owner of the thoroughbred, and Trainer L. F. Warby, have been suspended and their case referred to the Illinois Racing Board.

Procaine, although a drug, is actually a freezing agent. It is used to "freeze" ailing legs of horses so they will not feel pain.

BEAR STEAKS TAKEN SO CONGRESSMAN SENDS HIS RECIPE

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 12 (UP)—Representative Frank Boykin (Dem.), Alabama, sent along his personal recipe yesterday for the bear steaks which will be eaten by charity patients instead of "those Washington officials who are sick with worry." City Hospital promptly invited Boykin to Sunday bear dinner. He said he was not sure whether he could come.

Boykin even offered his 225-pound Negro cook, Martha Smith, to do the honors on the 300-pound bear seized from his deep-freeze because it was killed illegally.

"Martha is the best cook in the world and is really wonderful on bear," said Boykin, who is famous for his Washington feeds. "Bear steak prepared by my recipe is almost the finest eating in the world."

The recipe he sent the hospital was as follows: "Take a 300-pound Alabama bear, cut in small steaks, soak with olive oil and wine for 24 hours, and then broil."

Reminded again that killing Alabama bear is illegal, Boykin explained that his cook's recipe is standard for bear of any state as well as "all wild game."

"I am happy to give the bear to the hospital," Boykin said. "I was going to serve it to sick people anyway—those Washington officials who are sick with worry."

The bear at City Hospital was killed by a bee-keeper on Boykin's vast preserve near here. The beekeeper, who faces prosecution, said the bear and others had eaten $1200 worth of his honey. Under Alabama law, illegally killed game shall be confiscated and turned over to a charitable instittuion.

PAIR HURT IN HEAD-ON AUTO CRASH; OTHER DRIVER GOES ON

Mrs. Millard Workman, 438 Marshall road, Valley Park, suffered a fractured pelvis yesterday when the automobile she was driving was struck by a motorist at Valley Park, who left the scene. Her husband, who was riding with her, suffered cuts of the head.

Mrs. Workman told police she was turning from Marshall road into State Highway 141 when a northbound automobile struck her machine head-on. The driver of the other automobile backed his machine up after the collision and drove away.

POURS GASOLINE ON HUSBAND, THEN SETS CLOTHING AFIRE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (UP)—After a dispute over $5, police said, Mrs. Christine Carr poured gasoline on her husband while he was asleep and set fire to his clothing.

He is hospitalized with first, second and third degree burns. She is under arrest on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

PROFESSOR ONCE NAZI IS FIRED IN MICHIGAN

Says His Former Propaganda Efforts 'Now Need No Explanation.'

HOUGHTON, Mich., Nov. 12 (UP)—A German professor, fired from his job at a Michigan college after he admitted serving the Nazis in World War II, said today he saw no cause for "animosity" toward him.

The professor, E. V. Sittler, said he did what "now needs no explanation" in propagandizing for Germany "as a cornerstone of European security against Communist imperialism." He was discharged from the Michigan College of Mining and Technology yesterday after Representative John B. Bennett (Rep.), Michigan, demanded that his case be investigated.

The college board of control learned that Sittler had been returned to Washington from Germany to testify in the trial of a former United States Embassy clerk in Berlin. At the trial he admitted that he had been a member of the Nazi party.

Sittler said he was a native of America, but went to Germany in 1939 and became a citizen there. He said he joined the Nazi party and during the war took part in German radio broadcasts. The War Department said he never had been given "clearance" to remain in the United States after the trial.

"I sacrificed my American citizenship to do what I thought was for the ultimate welfare of both Europe and America," Sittler argued. "I wrote and broadcast commentaries on the struggle between Soviet Russia and Germany to explain to the English-speaking world that which now needs no explanation."

He said that, before moving to Michigan last year, he was a language instructor at Northwestern University.

HUNTER IS FINED $50, ADMITS SHOOTING COOTS FROM BOAT

Dr. Walter J. Siebert, a physician, 3 Oakleigh lane, Ladue, was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Arthur Thatcher at Jerseyville, Ill., to a charge of violating the Illinois game code by shooting waterfowl from a boat, it was learned today.

The complaint was filed against Dr. Siebert by United States Game Warden Edward A. Davis, in charge of the wildlife refuge at Pere Marquette State Park, who on Thursday arrested Dr. Siebert with six coots, a species of duck, in his possession.

Dr. Siebert told the court he had salvaged the six coots from the water after they had been shot down by other hunters in the area. Four of them were dead when he found them in the water, he said, but he admitted having shot the other two, which he said had been crippled by shots of other hunters. He said he thought he was within his rights because a friend in the Coast Guard had told him it was permissable to shoot waterfowl from a boat.

28 ARE SENTENCED FOR CONTEMPT IN BELL PLANE STRIKE

All Fined, Some Jailed in Violations of Ruling on Pickets, Parade Through Plant.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Twenty-eight union members involved in the recent four-month strike at Bell Aircraft Corp. will appeal their conviction on charges of violating a temporary injunction limiting picketing.

Seventeen of the men were convicted of contempt of court yesterday and all but three of them were immediately given the maximum penalty of 30 days in jail and a $250 fine. State Supreme Court Justice William H. Munson fined the other three, but did not give them jail sentences.

The case stemmed from a mass parade of about 500 unionists through the Bell plant in the nearby town of Wheatfield last Aug. 19.

Some Convicted Earlier.

Identical jail terms and fines were given 10 of these men and 11 others who had been convicted earlier on similar charges growing out of other picket line incidents. The sentencing of these unionists had been deferred pending the outcome of the second trial.

The 10 men who received the double sentences were to serve them consecutively.

Local 501 of the CIO United Auto Workers, which was involved in the strike, was fined $500—$250 in each case.

The union and the individual defendants all were granted 60-day stays of execution pending appeal.

The strike was ended Oct. 17 through the offices of a state board of inquiry. The settlement provided for arbitration by the board of all the points at issue. The union sought a 10-cent hourly wage increase plus pensions paid for by the company.

Defense Attorney Charles J. McDonough of Buffalo charged in his summation yesterday that the company brought the action to lay the groundwork for a civil suit seeking damages.

Bell attorney Francis T. Findlay denied this. The issue, he declared, was whether the marchers had entered the plant and interfered with operations.

Union's Defense.

McDonough said the parade was an orderly tour of the plant which followed the company's refusal to grant an impartial inspection. The company, he declared, had claimed that a number of men had returned to work. In addition, he added, "it had been said that ammunition and tear gas weapons were in the plant."

Findlay declared that "the whole thing was an act of violence," and added: "It was one of the worst contempts—one of the most despicable acts that a crowd of union men could think of."

Edward F. Gray, UAW subregional director; Robert Siegler Jr., president of the local, and Donald Slaiman, a member of the local's bargaining committee, were among those convicted.

brief case and the money belt two weeks ago and left home."

Sweigert said he made no mention of his "find" to his mother, with whom he made his home. After leaving Los Angeles, he went to San Francisco, then to Oklahoma City by automobile. He took a plane to New York, and visited Chicago and returned west to Laramie, Wyo., before coming to St. Louis last Monday by bus.

Police communicated with New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Oklahoma City authorities, and meanwhile are holding Sweigert and the money. New York police requested a photograph and description of the prisoner, but Oklahoma police said they are not interested in him.

Has Criminal Record.

Sweigert, who said he is 21 years old, admitted he has a criminal record, which he said began with the theft of pennies and led to four arrests for stealing automobiles. In 1947 he was sentenced to six months in a federal reformatory from San Diego, Calif., for violation of the Dyer Act, he said. He is on probation from that sentence.

While detectives were questioning Sweigert at Hotel Lennox, a man appeared at the room to discuss a job. The man, who was not held, said he had advertised for work, and Sweigert telephoned him and made an appointment at the hotel. Sweigert explained today he was planning to organize an ice skating act, and replied to the man's ad in the hope of finding a skating partner.

FULTON HOSPITAL OFFICIAL KILLED IN ALABAMA CRASH

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., Nov. 12 (AP)—Dr. P. S. Tate, 71 years old, assistant superintendent of the state hospital at Fulton, Mo., died here yesterday from injuries received in an automobile accident. His body will be sent to St. Louis today where funeral services will be announced.

Highway Patrolman N. C. Gillespie said Dr. Tate apparently lost control of his automobile and that it left the road and overturned. He said Dr. Tate's chest was badly crushed and several ribs were broken.

DIES OF INJURY SUFFERED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR ALTON

John W. Ziegenbein, 19 years old, of Brighton, Ill., died today at Barnes Hospital of a skull fracture suffered Wednesday night in a collision of two automobiles on Illinois Highway 111, about 11 miles north of Alton.

Ziegenbein was riding in an automobile with Robert Downs, Brighton, who was injured. Elmer W. Dalton, Bethalto, Ill., a passenger in the other car, was killed and two other persons were injured.

In School Paddling Incident

BETTY COLAPIETRO, 17-year-old student of Hickory Township High School near Sharon, Pa., charges that she was bruised by a paddling given her by WALTER MacDONALD, a teacher, for talking in a hallway. MacDonald, an instructor at the school for 18 years, was suspended as senior class adviser after the incident but was reinstated by the school board yesterday after other teachers staged a protest "strike" and refused to supervise extra-curricular activities for which they receive no pay.

SELLER SAYS P-38 MAY HAVE LACKED CAA CERTIFICATE

and ownership of the P-38 are not pertinent to the hearing.

Previously Maj. Pol had testified that Rios Bridoux had three times refused to take the surplus P-38 into the air because of defects which showed up as he tested it on the ground. On the first ground test, Rios Bridoux found the carburetor out of adjustment and the battery so low that the radio could not send an effective signal. After those complaints were remedied by Universal, the second test showed that the radio again was defective and the hydraulic control system faulty. A new radio was installed and a hydraulic leak repaired.

On the third attempt Rios Bridoux found that the left engine was spilling oil and the brakes were out of adjustment.

Says One Engine Was Weak.

Rios Bridoux said, in explaining the crash, that one engine failed to deliver full power. He said this trouble developed in the air. He said he reported the engine trouble to the National Airport control tower and asked for permission to land, but that he got no acknowledgment on that request. The control tower said it did not hear Rios Bridoux's report of engine trouble.

Jones, in objecting to the Aubin statement, said the question of ownership of the P-38 may be "very important" in case of any claims for damages by relatives of those killed in the collision. (Legal experts had previously pointed out that probably Eastern Air Lines would be absolved of blame in the crash.)

Rescuer Testifies.

The first witness today was Sgt. Morris J. Flounlacker, a member of the crew of a crash boat based at Bolling Field, across the Potomac from the point of collision. Flounlacker told how he dived into the water to grab Rios Bridoux.

Before leaving the witness chair he was commended on behalf of the CAB "for your courageous act in saving the life of Mr. Rios." Bolivian representatives joined in thanking the sergeant.

Testimony heard in the inquiry so far has tended to cast doubt on some details of the recollections of Rios Bridoux.

Air Force Sgt. William S. Buckwalter, who was in charge of the control tower at Bolling Field, testified yesterday he heard, on the radio channel with which the National Airport control tower was communicating with Rios Bridoux, the words "Bolivia, Bolivia," just before the crash.

Buckwalter was busy with his own air traffic, he said, and paid no attention to any other messages which may have gone out on that channel, which was assigned to the National Airport, but the words "Bolivia, Bolivia," attracted his attention.

The CAA air controller in the National tower, Glenn Tigner, 21 years old, has testified that just before the crash he called to the P-38 over the radio: "Bolivia, Bolivia, turn to the left, turn to the left."

Rios Bridoux's recollection was that just before the crash he heard from the Washington tower: "Clear to the left, clear to the left." Rios Bridoux, who is 28, did not hear the words "Bolivia," he said, and assumed that the tower's message was not intended for him, but for some other airplane on the ground.

Says He Stayed Near Field.

Several witnesses have placed Rios Bridoux's plane several miles south of the airport, beyond Alexandria, Va., shortly before the crash, but his recollection is that he developed engine trouble as he was taking off, and flew in a circle around the airport until he got clearance to land.

W. T. Snead, a flying instructor at an outlying Alexandria private airport, told the inquiry board yesterday he saw a P-38 flying over Alexandria on the day of the crash, headed in the general direction of the Washington airport.

Soon after that, he said, he went to lunch and heard at that time that a P-38 had collided with an airliner over the Washington airport.

Three Air Force officers testified yesterday, placing their B-25 bomber over National Airport at 11:35 or 11:36 a.m. on the day of the crash. If that time is correct it would rule out the possibility that the B-25 was the "other" airplane seen by Rios Bridoux which he assumed was the one cleared to land ahead of him. At 11:46 a.m. his P-38 struck the DC-4.

The P-38 did not take off from the National Airport until 11:37—a minute or two after the Air Force officers say their B-25 swooped down on the airport for a simulated practice instrument landing.

Timed at 11:43 by Tower.

However, the testimony of tower controllers is that the B-25 practice "landing" was made at 11:43 a.m., or three minutes before the crash. The B-25 did not actually land, but swept down to within 200 feet of the runway, and then turned across the Potomac to return to its base at Bolling Field.

Lt. Roy H. Deems Jr., was pilot of the B-25; Capt. Stephen R. Wheaton co-pilot, and Lt. Col. James F. Brady had gone along to practice use of the bombsight.

The official log of the B-25 has it on the ground at Bolling Field at 11:48 a.m.

Working back from that fixed time of 11:48 a.m. as shown in the log book, the Air Force officers arrived at an estimate of the time they made their practice "landing" at National Airport.

All three testified they saw no other airplanes over the airport, and heard no radio messages addressed to other airplanes. Their radio was set for the same very high frequency channel used by the tower in talking to Rios Bridoux and by Rios Bridoux in talking to the tower.

As they left the National airport, Lt. Deems testified, he switched to a channel used by the Bolling Field tower. He flew south beyond Alexandria, and then turned north again and returned to Bolling Field, he said.

One other airplane mentioned in the testimony as possibly the one Rios Bridoux had seen and taken for the No. 1 plane to land was a Lockheed Lodestar. The CAA record however, has the Lockheed landing two minutes before Rios took off.

Pilot of Lockheed Found.

Yesterday the inquiry board found the pilot of that Lockheed and was told by him that he had landed before Rios Bridoux took off in the 9-38. Jones said the pilot was a Mr. Harteog of Buffalo, N.Y. Harteog will file a sworn statement that the P-38 was on the ground when he landed, Jones said.

Testimony of tower operators was that no other airplane landed on the Washington airport after Rios took off in the P-38 and before the crash.

The tower supervisor, Stanley Seltzer, told the panel that as the tower radio is set up, reception on any particular channel is cut off when that channel is being used by the tower for transmitting. This is done to avoid interference, he said.

MARYLAND COURT RULES RADIO RIGHTS DON'T INCLUDE TV

(Reprinted from yesterday's late edition.)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals ruled today a contract covering "broadcasting" rights does not necessarily cover television rights.

"We have been referred to no definition, and have found none, of 'broadcast' as meaning to transmit by television," the court said.

In a 6 to 0 opinion, the state's highest court rejected a claim by the Century Athletic Club of Baltimore that it has the right to televise boxing bouts from the Baltimore Coliseum.

Under a 10-year contract with Coliseum owners, expiring in 1951, the athletic club has "the privilege of broadcasting" weekly bouts.

"The privilege of broadcasting boxing bouts did not in 1941 or 1943—and does not now include television," Judge Charles Markell wrote for the court.

U.N. GROUP VOTES FUND TO GET EXILED GREEK CHILDREN HOME

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 12 (AP)—The United Nations budgetary committee voted unanimously yesterday to appropriate $50,000 to get exiled Greek children back to their homes. The Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia voted with other nations.

Greece contends the children were kidnaped and taken to other Balkan countries by Greek rebels, but the Soviet bloc maintains they were given refuge from the Greek civil war.

The committee also voted 35 to 6 to allot $850,000 to continue the work of the U.N. Special Committee on the Balkans. The Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia voted no.

WATCHMAN ADMITS TAKING $955 HE REPORTED STOLEN

Robert Spicker, watchman at the American Iron & Metal Co. in East St. Louis, has admitted he took $995 from a drawer in an office of the firm Thursday after first reporting the loss as a burglary, police announced today.

After giving several conflicting stories, Spicker finally led police to his home, 1319 Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis, where $540 was recovered from a sock hidden in a cabinet. Spicker refused to say what he did with the remainder of the money.

Albert Popek, 6941 Plymouth avenue, University City, a partner in the firm, which is at 2107 St. Clair avenue, discovered the theft when he arrived at the office Thursday morning.

CHAPMAN SAYS HE BACKS TRUMAN ON MVA, TIDELANDS

Krug's Successor as Secretary of Interior Favors Uniform Mine Safety Law.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Oscar L. Chapman, Under Secretary of the Interior who will become Secretary, indicated at a press conference late yesterday he would follow the Administration on the question of creating a Missouri Valley Authority, as well as in other matters.

Asked to give his views on MVA, Chapman said he did not think the department had adopted an official policy and that President Truman himself had stated the Administration position. He added he always had personally favored a Columbia Valley Authority.

Truman has said a number of times that he favors MVA, and once specifically indorsed the MVA bill sponsored by Senator Murray (Dem.), Montana, and others. Truman has also said, however, that he needs to be convinced the people of the valley want MVA.

Parries Many Questions.

Chapman, who was notified of his appointment shortly before noon yesterday by Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, obviously did not want to be drawn into a controversy and parried many of the questions fired at him at the crowded conference.

Asked for his views on federal versus state control of the tidelands, he said that his position had not changed since he entered the Interior Department as an assistant secretary in 1933. The Administration position is clear, he said. Truman has been a strong advocate of federal control.

Chapman also said, in connection with pending legislation to put teeth into federal coal mine safety regulations, that although he didn't want to step on anybody's toes he thought a uniform federal law to insure the safety of human beings is a very important step forward.

Asked whether he still regarded himself as a New Dealer, Chapman said the Roosevelt New Deal had its place, the Truman Fair Deal has its place and both are meeting the needs of the American people.

Praise for Krug.

He had some kind words for Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug, who resigned, saying that Krug will leave many friends in the department.

He discounted talk of friction between the Interior and Agriculture departments over the use of Western water and said he thought he could get along well with Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, especially since he and Brannan are from Denver, Colo.

Asked if he expected to help Truman as much in 1952 as he did in 1948, he laughed and said he hoped to do the best he could for the American people.

Chapman Expected to Take Charge Monday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Oscar L. Chapman, a mild-mannered man who likes to cook and to collect paper weights, is due to become Secretary of the Interior Monday in everything but name.

President Truman yesterday chose Chapman, the present Under Secretary, to become Secretary effective Dec. 1.

The present Secretary, Julius A. (Cap) Krug, 41 years old, suddenly announced Thursday that he is quitting effective the end of this month.

A top-ranking Interior official told a reporter it was understood in talks with the White House that Chapman would assume his new duties, in effect, at the start of next week. This would leave Krug free to depart as early as he wishes.

Krug's letter of resignation, made public yesterday, asked Truman to let him go "Dec. 1 or as of any earlier date you may name a successor."

At the same time Krug assured the President that "I want to help in every way to carry out your Western development program in the 1950 and 1952 campaigns."

Krug has not said why he is leaving the post he has held since February 1946. Several times in the last year he has indicated he would like to return to private life. He is understood to have an interest in a Tennessee textile mill.

In recent months there have been strong indications that Truman had been displeased with some of the administrative actions of his youngest Cabinet member. The exchange of Truman-Krug correspondence on the resignation did not reflect this.

Krug's successor, the 53-year-old Chapman, became Assistant Secretary of the Interior in May 1933 under Secretary Harold L. Ickes. He became Under Secretary in 1946 when Krug took office.

Chapman, five feet eight and a half inches tall and weighing 175 pounds, is a smiling, self-effacing man who talks little—with a somewhat Southern drawl dating back to his origin in Virginia—and neither smokes nor drinks.

He is a Methodist and a charter member of the American Legion. His first wife died in 1931 and in February 1940 he married his secretary he had hired three years earlier.

An aid told how Chapman likes to cook for his guests—"especially chile and Brunswick stew and things like that."

A biography mentions that Chapman "collects paper weights and enjoys movie thrillers." It adds that he admits one unsatisfied ambition—for years he has wanted to own the Rocky Mountain News in his former home town of Denver.

"Not to write," the sketch quotes Chapman as saying, "because I don't write well, but for the power it carries to influence people."

DISSIDENT G.O.P. GROUP DRAWS UP LIST OF 23 ISSUES

Roundup Committee to Present Statement of 'Fundamental Principles' to Gabrielson.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—An independent group of disgruntled Republicans hoping for G.O.P. election victories in 1950 and 1952 drafted a 23-point platform of campaign issues yesterday.

The National Republican Roundup Committee, formed to "revive" the party, set up a permanent organization with headquarters in Chicago.

At a two-day meeting attended by about 175 delegates from 35 states the committee designated these cities as regional headquarters:

Boston, New York, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Memphis, Atlanta and Baltimore.

The committee drew up a statement of "fundamental principles" for presentation to National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson and the Republican executive committee. H. Barry McCormick, head of a Chicago printing company, is the Roundup's national chairman.

These were the campaign issues the roundup drafted:

1. Early peace treaties with Germany and Japan.
2. Repeal of the War Powers Act.
3. A return to the states of rights and duties "usurped" by the Federal Government.
4. State control of housing and education aid.
5. Opposition to government competition with private enterprise.
6. Opposition to government confiscation of private property.
7. Reduction of federal spending and federal payrolls.
8. A "drastic" reduction of taxes.
9. Opposition of Communism and Socialism.
10. Indorsement "in principle" of the Taft-Hartley Act.
11. Application of anti-trust laws to all monopolies—government, business, labor and agriculture alike.
12. Renewed efforts to maintain world peace.
13. Constitutional amendment limiting federal taxing power to 25 per cent on income, estates and gifts.
14. Opposition to socialized medicine.
15. Repeal of war excise taxes except those on liquor and tobacco.
16. Simplification and reduction of income taxes.
17. Adoption by the G.O.P. of its own foreign policy.
18. Businesslike administration of social security funds.
19. Resumption of diplomatic relations with Spain.
20. Establishment of a national monetary commission.
21. An "independent" judiciary.
22. Passage of the tidelands oil bill.
23. Opposition to government-owned water control "valley administrations."

Yugoslav Charge Barred in U.N., but Gets Across in Press.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—A Yugoslav delegate was prevented yesterday by a technicality from telling the United Nations about what he said were Russian troop movements in Soviet satellite countries bordering his country, but his story emerged anyway.

When Vladimir Dedijer, the delegate, tried to reply to a statement by A. S. Panyushkin, Russian Ambassador to Washington, the committee chairman ruled him out of order. Later, however, Dedijer released to reporters the portion of his speech he was not allowed to make.

"I am glad the Soviet delegate was obliged to deny the fact of the concentration of Soviet troops on the borders of Yugoslavia," it said. "Thus, he admitted that the presence of Soviet troops on the borders of Yugoslavia represents an act of pressure and a threat against Yugoslavia.

"Soviet troops began large concentrations in the direction of Yugoslavia in the month of August. These concentrations were commented on at length by world public opinion, and the denial has arrived, at last, after a delay of three months.

"Why was this long silence necessary? It was necessary because the movement of troops, the diplomatic notes (between Moscow and the Tito Government) having the character of ultimatums . . . were only part of the cold war for the overthrow of the legal government fo Yugoslavia."

Russian Atomic Energy Claims Are in Field Dismissed by U.S.

TNT Regarded as Usually Better for Blasting — Nuclear Material Harder to Control, More Expensive—Reds May Be Ahead of Us.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The uses and handicaps of atomic energy for blasting canals and mountains, the peaceful work attributed to Russia by Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky in a speech to the United Nations, are well known to American atomic scientists.

They were discussed by engineers immediately after the war. They were dismissed, not as useless, but as limited to very special purposes.

For blowing up mountains and uniting the channels of two rivers, an equal amount of TNT would usually be better than the best atomic explosive.

The facts, as made public in the United States, cover recent Russian claims, so far as published.

Explosion Must Be Big.

First — No atomic explosive which is smaller than our first atom bombs will explode at all. It takes as much of any kind of atom-splitting stuff as was in those bombs to get any explosion. There is no way of slowing down an atomic explosion. It is either big, or none at all.

Second — There is no way of splitting an atom bomb, or any atomic explosive, into small parts. This is one of the real handicaps from atomic blasting for construction work. Military authorities repeatedly have said that atom bombs would be more effective for many purposes if they could be split into smaller parcels, little A-bombs. When split they would cover a wider area. They would actually do more damage.

Third—One atom bomb, or its equivalent in atomic explosive, cannot make more than a little dent in a mountain. How many it would take to blow up a mountain, or even to blast a channel through a low mountain spur, is unknown.

Clue in First U. S. Bomb.

However, there is a clue in the first atom bomb, which was exploded in 1945 in New Mexico. That bomb was detonated 100 feet above the ground. The blast pushed the earth down in the shape of a shallow saucer, 1200 feet wide and 12 feet deep at the center. It was no crater with steep sides. The perimeter sloped gently downward.

The blasted ground was mainly sand and pebbles, closely packed, and wet from rain the morning of the explosion. For mountain and canal blasting the atomic explosives would be buried in the earth. They would blow wide craters, and the depth of the crater would be about the depth the explosive was buried. It would not be greater. This atomic explosive would not do much if any more ripping open than exploding 20,000 tons of buried TNT. This tonnage is the official equivalent of the smallest possible A-bomb.

Fourth—There is the precious nature of atomic explosive which might sharply limit use for blasting. It would be like using gold instead of powder for digging ditches. Atomic explosives, in the United States, cost more than gold. However, the cost, so far as is known, is not a factor in Russia.

Radioactivity a Factor.

Fifth — In the special circumstances where an atomic explosive might be preferable, there is an added handicap of making the ground radioactive. The New Mexico crater is still radioactive, after four years. This radioactivity would not necessarily prevent atomic blasting. Soon after a blast, men could work in the crater for short periods—perhaps not more than 10 minutes once each 24 hours. Later this time could be greatly lengthened. But the radioactivity would hang on for years, always presenting some hazards.

A river diverted through such an atomic channel would carry away large quantities of radioactive atoms and spread them wherever it was used for irrigation. The water would neither quench the radioactivity nor shorten its life. How much risk such spreading would cause is still unknown in the United States, and is the subject of one of the Atomic Energy Commission's major studies.

A few bulldozers pushing away the surface of an atomic blast excavation could greatly reduce the amount of radioactivity, by burying the hot atoms under a few inches of earth.

If the Russians are doing atomic blasting on a large scale they have solved some problems which still trouble the United States. One of these is discovering how to use small amounts of atomic explosives to make blasts.

If they have produced atomic explosives cheaply enough to use on large scales, as intimated by Vishinsky, they have made discoveries in production methods which are unknown in the United States.

If they have enough atomic explosives to expend on blasting, they have discovered sources of uranium far exceeding anything they had before the war, and possibly exceeding anything else in the world.

BLUE CROSS OFFICIALS MOVE TO SUE EAST SIDE HOSPITALS

Officials of the St. Louis Blue Cross hospitalization plan today authorized court action against several of the southern Illinois hospitals which voted Wednesday to sever connections with the group.

Basis of the action, officials of the plan said, was the alleged failure of the hospitals to give required notice a year in advance of actual termination of their contracts.

Involved in the dispute are the following hospitals: St. Mary's and Christian Welfare, East St. Louis; St. Joseph's of Breese; St. Mary's of Centralia and Herrin Hospital. Three other hospitals which joined this group in voting against further affiliation with St. Louis Blue Cross may not be affected by the court action, Blue Cross officials said, because their contracts provide for automatic expiration dates.

LEGION COMMITTEE TO HELP FIGHT CRIME IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12 (UP)—The American Legion has formed a crime prevention committee to help reduce the rising crime rate in Kansas City.

Formation of the committee was announced by Charles C. Shafer Jr., chairman of the city central executive committee of the Legion.

Shafer said a 50-member committee was named ot assist police. The action was taken after a discussion with Police Chief Henry W. Johnson.

WARNS OF ATOM WEAPON CAPABLE OF KILLING RACE

Navy Secretary Matthews Asserts Such an Annihilating Force Is 'Perilously Possible.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (UP)—Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews believes development of an atomic weapon that could destroy the human race is "perilously possible."

Speaking before the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States last night, Matthews said, "the setting is perfect for the end of society—perhaps even for the end of human life."

"The danger is undeniable," he said. "Total annihilation is not inconceivable. In fact, it is perilously possible."

Then he made it clear that he thought the devastating force which could blow man off the earth would be an atomic weapon.

Two Nations Possess Force.

"The force for the potential end of human society is within the possession of two nations—the United States and Russia," he declared. "Each has the secret of atomic energy. Each is building a stockpile of atomic bombs."

Matthews said "the right spark, ignited at the right moment in international relations, could launch the struggle for man's ultimate survival."

The damage inflicted by the atomic explosions at Nagasaki, Hiroshima and Bikini shows that "the magic of scientific genius has in its grasp the formulae and mechanisms which can create an annihilating force," Matthews said.

The chief ray of hope that this force will not be loosed, he said, was the decision of the western democracies to band together under the Atlantic Pact. The alliance, he said, is the beginning of "what can become the death knell of the international bully and racketeer. It can become the mighty force that will stop totalitarianism in its tracks."

Gordon Dean's View.

Atomic Energy Commissioner Gordon Dean said, meanwhile, that the only chance for world peace lies in breaching the iron curtain.

Now that Russia has the atom bomb, Dean said, "the largest single task facing the United States is the very difficult one of piercing the iron curtain with words. If that is done, then the chances for peace take an upward spiral."

Speaking before the Bridgeport (Conn.) Community Forum, Dean said it is a mistake to think that the United States "has the power to decide whether there shall be peace or war."

He said the peoples of Russia and the satellite states cannot work effectively for peace because their dictators keep them ignorant of world issues and deny them power to form policy.

"The only real hope, therefore," Dean said, "lies in the unrestricted flow of goods and people and ideas across international boundaries."

He said the fact that Russia is going all out to jam the Voice of America broadcasts indicates "that the messages we beam are registering."

Surgeons Honor Austrian.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 12 (UP)—An Austrain surgeon, Dr. Hans Finsterer, today held the highest honor given by the International College of Surgeons. He received the society's master of surgery degree at closing sessions of the United States chapter assembly. Only four other surgeons in the world have been so honored.

GOLD STOCK PRICES SHOW WEAKNESS AGAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP) — Gold stocks took another beating in today's market.

Golds weakened abruptly on Thursday following President Truman's decisive statement that the price of gold would not be raised above $35 an ounce as long as he is President. Losses today ran to more than a point, with Homestake and McIntyre Porcupine off around a point each at one time. Some declined fractionally.

The balance of the market puttered along more or less aimlessly. Steels and motors showed a tendency to rise for a while but the attempt didn't amount to much. Numerous leaders see-sawed between the plus and minus columns.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 67.9.

Number of shares traded was 470,000, compared with 464,650 last Saturday.

Of the 789 issues traded, 266 were higher, 266 lower and 257 unchanged.

United States Steel's settlement with the CIO Steel Workers, which all but ended the stel strike, had no visible effect on price trends.

Unchanged to a bit higher most of the time were United States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Admiral Corp., Safeway Stores and American Telephone. Balky spots included United States Rubber, Lockheed, Radio Corp., North American Co., Anaconda Copper, Dow Chemical and du Pont.

Lower in the curb were Niagara, Hudson Power, Imperial Oil, Cities Service, Bunker Hill Mining, American Natural Gas, Waltham Watch and United Shoe Machinery. Nudged up were Electric Bond & Share, Long Island Lighting, Standard Power & Light, and United Light & Railways.

WHEAT HIGHER, CORN LOWER AT THE CLOSE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—The value of corn on the Board of Trade today, marking the first reaction to the Agriculture Department's crop report issued late Thursday. Wheat, soybeans and oats held to a steady keel.

The Agriculture Department dropped its estimate on corn production 119,000,000 bushels between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1, forecasting a crop outlook on the latter date of 3,357,618,000 bushels. Some traders had expected a larger loss from corn borer damage.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅜c higher, corn off ⅝@¾, oats unchanged to ½ higher, rye ½ higher to ½ lower, and soybeans unchanged to 1¼ higher.

WEEK'S HOG PRICES HIT LOW SINCE OPA DAYS

ST. LOUIS LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE, Nov. 12—Hog receipts 1000; a liberal Saturday offerings; barrows and gilts, 25@35c lower than Friday's average; top $17 on some 210 to 220 pound weights; bulk of 170s to 180s sold at $16.75; bulk of 190s to 280s, $16.65; packing sows 25c lower; top, $16.

Cattle receipts none.
Sheep receipts none.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 12—Hog prices sagged during the first three days of the week and Wednesday's top of $16.50 cwt. represented a new low since OPA controls were removed in October, 1946, the Producers Live Stock Marketing Association reports. The market rallied late, however, and an exceedingly small Armistice day run pushed the top to $17.25 early, although best kinds late had to go at $16.75.

Slaughter steers and light heifers and mixed yearlings closed generally 50c@$1 lower and in some instances medium grade steers were off to a greater extent. Cows figured steady to 25c reduced and bulls were off 50c. Strictly choice beeves were generally lacking although a short load of 818-lb. mixed steers and heifers reached $33. Good steers bulked at $24.75 to $28.50@30 was received for good 987-lb. yearlings. Veal calves were steady to $1 higher closing peak $36.

Lambs finished 75c@$1 lower, top, $25.50.

NEW YORK COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Cotton futures were under pressure of hedging and liquidation with prices moving downward today. Most of the selling centered in March and May contracts.

Dealers reported that there was additional evening up in nearby December contracts prior to first notice day Nov. 25. Textile mill buying was evident but demand was limited to scale down orders.

Futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

On Location

Hollywood Invades Darkest Africa

By George Weller

Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch. Special Radio.
Copyright, 1949.

ON LOCATION NEAR NAIROBI, Kenya, Nov. 12.

A STRANGE new race of migrants has appeared in the Rift, that great folded valley that splits Africa from Palestine's Dead Sea to Cape Town.

DEBORAH KERR . . . NOW IN AFRICA.

Their color is deep tan, and they wear sunglasses. They travel in trucks, and wear clothing of the last century. Their weapons are cameras and checkbooks. Instead of foraging off the country, they live from lunchbaskets and thermos bottles. They hire, but do not intermarry with the local blacks.

In other words, Hollywood has come back to Africa, for the first time since "Trader Horn" 25 years ago. And, as the ethnologists say, the men of the tribe are stalwart and manly, and the women are pale but beautiful.

★ ★ ★

"KING SOLOMON'S MINES," the thriller of H. Rider Haggard, is the picture that M.-G.-M. hopes will result. All East Africa hopes that this country of sharp sunlight and vast panoramas —and reasonable expenses—will take Italy's place as backstop for California's film industry.

Today I watched Deborah Kerr in a "voortrekkers" oxcart bumping along a dry wash in the Rift valley west of Nairobi, patting her powdered brow. The temperature at this 6000-foot altitude is actually cool and dry, but the British actress was portraying the hotter country east of here where the truck caravan will eventually go.

Richard Carlson, playwright-actor who just finished a Chicago run as the lead in "Mr. Roberts," and Stuart Granger, tall lead from the West End theaters of London, are wearing the double felt hats—two brims, two crowns—affected by Africa's pioneers. Sir Philip Mitchell, Kenya's governor, gave the stars freedom to shoot game free of license.

★ ★ ★

A SYSTEMATIC EFFORT to prevent East Africa from going dollar-crazy like Rome is paying off here. Anthony Bartley, Miss Kerr's husband, a Los Angeles television executive, predicts that the vast landscapes and good highway facilities may result in a whole cycle of African pictures, followed perhaps by permanent studios here.

"Many African pioneer stories can be done here that will offer release from the outdoor formula of the Western," Bartley suggests.

★ ★ ★

THE MASAIS AND WAKUMBAS are definitely ready to underbid the Navajos and Sioux as primitives. A country with 6,000,000 extras at 28 cents a day, all of them camera-crazy and natural actors, looks fine to the budgeteers from Beverly Hills.

Once you get the tribesmen wound up, however, they dislike to stop. For a big dance at Machakos near here, director Bob Compton-Burnett arranged 300 dancers. But 1500 turned up and danced for the fun of it. Two days afterward they were still dancing their way home along the Reddish roads that lead to their villages of dome-shaped huts.

★ ★ ★

COLOR COMES OUT HERE unbelievably bright, the blue of the jacaranda trees vying with the orange garments of the native women.

Africa's handicap is the high cost of handling colored film. Every night footage is rushed to Nairobi in a refrigerator truck. Then it is packed in ice in an ice plant. Tuesday and Fridays South African planes carry the film to Johannesburg, where it is re-iced and shoved on a Pan American plane for Roberts Field, Liberia.

At Roberts Field it is re-iced and flown to New York. Since each package weighs about 200 pounds, it costs nearly $600 weekly simply to fly the film home, plus the chargs for cold hands en route.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A NEWS magazine correspondent (they get around) accompanied a pompous and overdressed British dignitary to a Burmese cocktail party in Rangoon. "The Burmese girls have a funny custom," the reporter started to explain, but the British stuffed-shirt cut him short with, "I am conversant with the customs of this country, my dear fellow."

They arrived at the party, and some ravishing Burmese maidens, carrying bowls of water, murmured a query to the Englishman in their native tongue. The Englishman nodded politely, whereupon every one of the maidens hauled off and deluged him with the water from head to foot. The reporter—when he could stop laughing—spluttered, "That's the custom I was trying to tell you about!"

★ ★ ★

Diplomat Averill Harriman's comment on the situation abroad: "Europe is a jig-saw puzzle with a peace missing." An editor proposed that Harriman write a book about it all, to be named, "Up and Atom."

THE MAN WHO—

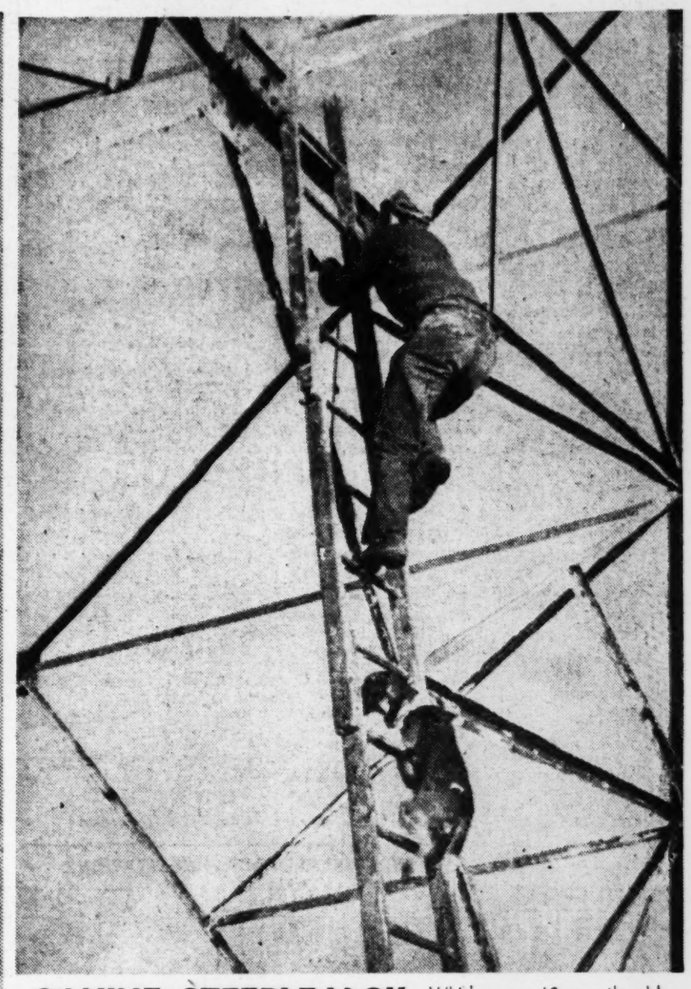
—IS A BIT BATTY.

PARADE HIGHLIGHTS ARMISTICE DAY

Members of the 138th Infantry Regiment, Missouri National Guard—nearly 1000 strong—march westward on Olive street past Eleventh in the colorful downtown parade that highlighted St. Louis's observance of Armistice day. Approximately 12,000 veterans of three wars and members of military, fraternal and civic organizations joined in the procession under sunny skies. The temperature reached 80 degrees, highest ever recorded here for the date.

These drummers, veterans of the Spanish-American war, drew cheers as they and a contingent of fellow comrades-in-arms of '98 neared the end of the long march at Chestnut and Fifteenth streets. Some of the Spanish-American group rode in automobiles, but a majority insisted on marching afoot.

Members of the Beaumont High School Band moving past Soldiers' Memorial, where civil and military officials reviewed the parade. In foreground are members of the United States Marine Band. Thousands of school children, enjoying a holiday, augmented the throngs that lined the route.



CANINE STEEPLEJACK Whisky, an 18-month-old beagle hound-collie, patiently follows its master, steeplejack Robert Greer, up a 300-foot radio tower which is being dismantled at Toronto, Ontario. The dog likes high altitudes and struggles upward whenever a ladder is handy—and Greer leads the way.

MOVES FROM JUNIOR LEANING TOWER

Robert A. Ilg (at left), 70 years old, watches as his household furnishings are removed from a half-size replica of the Leaning Tower of Pisa at Niles, a Chicago suburb, where he has made his home for the last 17 summers. Ilg, a former executive of a ventilating company, built the tower in 1932 because "I wanted Chicago to have something really unusual." He plans to return to his permanent home in San Francisco. The future of the tower still is to be determined.
—Associated Press Wirephoto.

David (left), 3 years old, and Jimmy, 5, sons of Mrs. Harriet Thomason, 838 McLaran avenue, were on hand with flags to wave as the parade units passed. Their vantage point was on Chestnut, near the reviewing stand.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Overconfident.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Police Sgt. Charles Bush went to a bar to check a $10 bill offered by a stranger to pay for his drinks. The bartender thought the bill was counterfeit and called police.

"Bosh," said Bush. "This bill is good. I'll take 1000 of them."

The bartender shook his head.

"Tell you what," he said, "if you think the bill is good, why don't you change it?"

Bush gave the stranger two five-dollar bills.

Bush went to his bank to deposit some money. The teller told him the 10-spot was phony.

They Bring House Down.

TULSA, Okla.—Grady Stringer almost had a house in his hair today.

He and son Richard were digging a basement under the five-room structure when it dropped. Luckily, the house wedged in the excavation just above their heads. Neither was injured.

"It sounded like an earthquake," commented a next-door neighbor.

Confusing and Costly.

ATLANTA, Ga. — The fire wagons went Booker to Booker to Booker, but the hooker got to Booker too late and so did the pumpers.

The telephone alarm was for Booker street, but which one, northwest or southwest. They tried both. No fire.

Assistant Chief H. G. Pierce, meanwhile, found the fire at Booker avenue, southwest. By the time the hook and ladder truck and the pumper arrived, two houses had been destroyed.

JIMMY SWINNERTON IS 75; 'MONTH TO LIVE' 50 YEARS AGO

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP) — Artists and newspaper friends will help Jimmy Swinnerton, veteran cartoonist and painter of desert scenes, celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary tomorrow night.

Preparing for the party, Swinnerton, creator of "Little Jimmy" and "Canyon Kiddies," recalled that nearly a half-century ago he was sent to Palm Springs, suffering from tuberculosis. Doctors gave him a month to live.

"The three doctors are all dead," Swinnerton observed.

CORRECTION ON ADDRESS

Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Bell, 3203 Sullivan avenue, have informed the Post-Dispatch that Roland C. Ertl, convicted Wednesday of peace disturbance in the molestation of an 8-year-old boy, does not live at that address, as reported in Thursday's editions.

When arrested in September, Ertl told police he lived at the Sullivan avenue address.

11,000 AT FIREMEN'S CIRCUS; LATE ARRIVALS TURNED AWAY

Several hundred late arrivals were turned away from last night's performance of the annual Firemen's Thrill Circus at Kiel Auditorium as a capacity crowd, estimated at 11,000 witnessed the show.

Hugh F. Lyon, battalion chief, said seats were available to the five remaining performances, today and tomorrow, but warned those who have not already purchased tickets to come early.

Today's performances are at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. and the show will conclude tomorrow with three shows—at 1:30, 4 and 8:30 p.m. About 70,000 persons have seen the circus, staged for the benefit of the firemen's pension fund, since last Saturday's opening.

ENGEL'S ACCUSER TO SHOW ON STAGE HOW HE MADE LOVE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (UP)—Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, whose charge of swindling led to the imprisonment of Sigmund (Sam) Engel, 74 years old, said today that she would go on the stage to show how Engel made love to her.

She said also she would marry Al Turk, bandsman and booking agent, whom she met two years ago. Turk confirmed the engagement. Turk said that before the wedding he and Mrs. Corrigan would work out a vaudeville routine in which she will pantomime her experiences with Engel.

SADDLE HORSE SALE CLOSING TODAY AT MISSOURI STABLES

The last auction session of the annual Missouri fall saddle horse sale was being held today at Missouri Stables' Arena, 5200 Berthold avenue. Ninety-three show horses remained to be sold.

A total of 8300 persons attended the sale during the first two days. Buyers and sellers from 30 states, Canada, Panama and Nova Scotia are in attendance.

The highest price paid for a horse yesterday was $10,100 for a five-gaited chestnut gelding, Dr. Montgomery, owned by the Maypine Farm, Gates Mills, O. It was bought by William Hutson of Little Rock, Ark. Among the types being sold are three- and five-gaited horses, Tennessee walkers and fine harness and roadster horses.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I MARRIED very young and my husband and I never managed to get along together. His people had not approved of our marriage to begin with and that just made more trouble. Finally I got a divorce, before our baby was born. I met another man soon after my divorce. He loved me and was willing to take me, care for the child and help me raise it. I didn't love him but I needed a place for my baby. I was not wanted at home and my former husband was doing nothing for me or the coming child. So I married this man. He has taken care of me and my child and in return I have made a pleasant home for him. Lately I have found a man I really love and who cares for me. He is willing to take my child and raise her and I can't decide what to do. My husband and I fight all the time and it seems like the baby is getting more an more upset because of our quarreling. What do you think I should do? UPSET.

Just what do you plan to do—give that child a succession of step-fathers until she is so bewildered she ends up with all kinds of complexes and a so-often-divorced mother that her little mind will be completely muddled and her sense of security nil? Where is your gratitude? Your present husband took over at a time when you and your baby needed him most. He has apparently been devoted and kind and given you no reason for your discontent. Keep that roving eye of yours at home, concentrate on making the right kind of home for your baby and for that man who has been so kind to you, even though he may not be exactly a Romeo or someone to set the world on fire. You have your child to answer to, your husband and your own self-respect. It takes two to make those quarrels you talk about. Analyze what is causing them, try to right conditions, refuse to quarrel with your husband and do your part toward making home a peaceful place. That is your job. Stick to it.

IN ANSWER TO "Wondering": If you don't start going out with the boys how are you going to learn how to act when you are around them? As to what to talk about, there are more topics than one can cover in an evening what with school doings and the movies and what's going on in this big world of ours. Go out with this boy you like so much by all means. He probably wonders how to behave and what to say on his own part. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my "Popularity Hints" and "Sub-deb" leaflets which will be helpful to you.

IN ANSWER TO "Just Lonesome": I am sure you would enjoy the "YAKS" or Young Adult's Klub of Centenary Methodist Church, 1611 Pine street. For full information regarding this group phone the church, GArfield 3136. If you like to hike get in touch with GArfield 6542 regarding Missouri walk-ways. This organization has interesting social activities as well as hikes, and men and women of any age are eligible for membership.

Idea for Oldsters

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

THE people at the table next to me were talking about Bert and his wife. I had never heard of Bert before but it was evident that he was having a lot of trouble. His wife was under treatment by a psychiatrist.

"She just hasn't anything to do since she got her daughter married off," said one of the diners. "She's bored to death. It makes her feel important to be treated by a psychiatrist."

"Pretty expensive way to entertain herself," a third commented.

"Bert will end the same way if he doesn't look out," the second went on. "I saw him the other day—was shocked to see how he's aging. He hasn't a thing on his mind since he retired in 1946. Why doesn't he find something to do?"

★ ★ ★

I DIDN'T GET any more of the conversation, but the difficulties of "Bert" and his wife are all too common. Much of the depression, the melancholy, the unrest, the irritability of elderly people comes from the fact that they no longer have any "excuse for existence." It is absolutely necessary for such people to have occupation of some sort, appropriate to their strength, which will enable them to feel that they are still contributing something in the world, and still are entitled to respect themselves and be respected by others.

IN ADDITION, OF COURSE, they need recreation. Pitching horseshoes and playing Canasta aren't enough. There is need for great variety to suit all tastes, and one form of self-expression that has been strangely overlooked is the drama. Alice Gerstenberg has recently called attention to the possibilities here. There are Junior drama groups for children. There are Little Theater Groups which have been found fascinating by so many adults. Let's have a Senior Little Theater organization, too, she urges.

It's a good idea—and not copyrighted. You can start one in your neighborhood. Many people have unfulfilled ambitions to act. This is their chance. There's a place for everybody. Those who can't act can plan stage settings, make costumes, or help in advertising and box office.

Get two or three of your friends to join you in such an enterprise—and try it out.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A SECRETARY asks: "Isn't it up to the boss to say "Good morning" and "Good night" first? My employer is a man of many moods and I try to fit myself into the mood of the day. However, I think he at least should have the courtesy to say good morning when he arrives and good night when he leaves. Half the time he doesn't. Should I?

I'm afraid that adapting yourself to his mood is exactly what you are not doing. Whether he says good morning or good night should be of no importance to you.

DEAR MRS. POST: I'm not engaged but have been going "steady" with the same man for over a year. For a long time he has expressed a wish to have a black onyx ring with his initials. I was all set to buy this for him for his birthday when someone told me it was in very bad taste for me to give him a ring. Before I give up the idea and get him something he wants much less, I'd like your final word.

Answer: When a girl is not engaged, a ring from her to a man could easily be misinterpreted. In other words, the first ring should be from him to you.

DEAR MRS. POST: Was it amiss to send flowers to the funeral of a member of our bridge club with a card reading "In memory of a loved member from the X Bridge Club?" I sent the flowers for the group and enclosed a card with the above wording. Some of the ladies think it was not proper.

Answer: I see no impropriety in this wording and certainly not in the sentiment it was obviously meant to convey.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

I SPENT a very pleasant evening at the Women's International Exposition of Arts and Industries in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory the other night. There are booths of many kinds, but the most interesting ones to me were those that exhibited the work of foreign countries, displaying beautiful embroideries and handwork of all kinds. India and Pakistan had lovely silver work and carving. There also was work done by refugees, by veterans in the hospitals and by many organizations.

I was impressed by the program put on by the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, Inc., which is helping to settle displaced persons in this country. Prof. Joseph P. Chamberlain, chairman of the council, presided. The Welfare Department chorus sang charmingly and Reuben Varga, a young violinist who recently graduated from Julliard School and already is beginning to make his mark, played several violin selections with piano accompaniment.

Mr. Varga told me of his desire to stay in this country, though he had come as a student on a Palestinian passport. One could not help but sympathize with him, for he was blinded by the Nazis and, in spite of that handicap, he has made a name for himself. But there is nothing I can do unless the law will permit him to remain!

OUR MEETING WAS at Lake Success on Thursday morning and I arrived somewhat late at the lunch given by the Youth Consultation Service. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Charles K. Gilbert opened the after-luncheon speeches with a very short explanation of the work and a reminder that the Episcopalians did not give any too open-handedly to their church charities. This particular service seems most appealing, since it offers advice and guidance to younger women who come to New York City, often from small places, and who find themselves very lonely, beset by temptations and with no friends or family to whom they can turn.

It was explained that the service functions with an interracial staff and board, and that they give their advice free, regardless of race, creed or color. This is a wise stand for a church group to take. I hope that we Episcopalians will make it possible for some of the groups that are affiliated with the Church to function more adequately because of the support given by the Church itself.

IN THE EVENING I was honored by having Gen. and Mrs. Carlos Romulo, Secretary General and Mrs. Trygve Lie, Gen. and Mrs. Henri Laugier and my cousin, Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, at dinner at my small apartment. After dinner Reuben Vargo played three selections and we also heard a record composed by Celius Daugherty and sung by Mme Bidu Sayao. It was based on letters written by school children to Ambassador Warren Austin, and it voiced their desire for peace.

They'll Do It Every Time

Respect for Property of Others Needed

By Angelo Patri

PEOPLE have a strange way of destroying things they love. Most people love the peace, the cleanliness and the beauty of a country road. I live on that sort of road among the hills of New England. During week ends cars roll along the valley road, full of city-worn people enjoying the fields and woods, the brook that goes gaily winding through them.

Every Monday morning we go out along the way and gather the candy wrappers, the picnic refuse, tin cans and whisky bottles strewn along the way.

That is not the worst of it. People who camp over the week end carry their garbage in paper sacks and toss it over the fence into the fields. The woodchucks and the skunks investigate the cans and every so often we must go to the rescue of some unfortunate creature whose head is caught in one of those cans.

If we do not see the dumped load in time it will be there in winter, rusty cans, broken glass, rags, scraps of paper, anything that was not wanted at the time of closing camp, defacing the landscape, creating a mess that would, if allowed to remain day after day, make a slum area of a lovely valley.

★ ★ ★

THE PEOPLE WHO do this are nice people. They have good cars, they visit good houses, live in good camps. They enjoy the beauty of the country yet they destroy it. One hates to post land to exclude the country-hungry people, the fisherman and the picnickers but when a group camps for a day in the field next to the brook and on leaving cleans out the car of the stored rubbish in the trunk—old matting, seat covers, cleaning rags, bits of wire and rope, oil tins, broken baskets, old shoes, old tire scraps—what is one to do?

It is thoughtlessness. If the Garden Clubs would campaign for roadside beauty, for the care and protection of country roads, for clean, well kept roadsides and for respect for the property of other people whether in the city or the country, suburb or park, it might help.

Education will do what police can never do. If people understand, if they are conscious of what they do when they toss papers, bottles and whatnot into the streets, along the highway, on floors of public places, they will use the containers placed for their convenience. We should begin with children and teach them this notion of cleanliness and beauty, of good civic manners. The children have a way of carrying the word to their elders and that would help, too.

Litter destroys beauty, health and real estate values. Are these important enough to the community to force them to do something about it?

New Stocking Styles

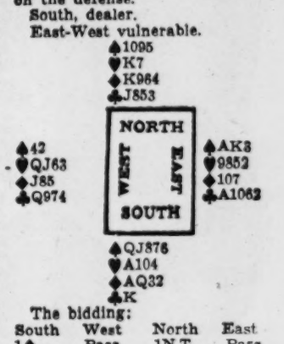
Stockings with "measured" stitches are among the new styles for winter. Such a stitch is said to give the stockings greater clearness and make them look very sheer. Devoid of seams, these stockings are designed for shorter skirts and have been given the name "Lucida."

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IN today's deal West sent his side off to an excellent start, but East took the wrong slant on the defense.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	1N.T.	Pass
2♦	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

West hesitated a long time over his opening lead. His first impulse was to choose the heart queen, but he changed his mind in favor of his fourth-highest club. (This was a lucky decision, since a heart lead would have made matters extremely easy for South.)

East took the first trick with the club ace, saw South's king drop, and concluded that there was no sense in continuing with the club suit. So, no doubt with the thought of preventing heart ruffs in dummy, in case South needed them, East laid down the king, ace and another trump.

This did indeed stop South from ruffing his third heart, but it did not keep him from fulfilling the contract! He ran off every trump and his four diamonds, until his own hand was reduced to the original three hearts, and dummy to the K-7 of hearts and the club jack.

West had done all right until he was forced to reduce to three cards, but then he had the sorry choice of blanking his Q-J of hearts, or, failing that, of giving up the club queen. Since the latter would patently be fatal, West discarded another heart, and South then led the heart four to the king and the heart seven back to the ace, dropping West's queen and jack, and promoting the heart ten.

East did not analyze the defense very shrewdly! If he had returned a club at the second trick, and had kept on returning clubs when in with the king and ace of trumps, he would have ended up with one trump more than declarer had!

Cookie "Dream House"

Dad and Mother may have housing problems, but you can give little sister her dream house for Christmas, filled with nine packages of delicious cookies. It is the holiday feature of a cooky manufacturer, and a present guaranteed to delight any small girl. The house is much more than a package. It is a real toy, with a large square opening in the back so that it can be furnished. The cookies stay fresh for months if the packages are not opened, so that the "dream house" may be purchased now if you want to assemble furniture, make curtains and have it completed by Christmas day.

Secrets of Charm

Intensifying Eye Beauty

By John Robert Powers

I HAVE often wondered what would have happened to Little Red Riding Hood, if when she said, "What big eyes you have Grandma!" the wolf had answered, "Yours aren't so bad, either, my dear." I'm sure her eyes must have been somewhat larger than flying saucers at the time.

Certainly many another woman's life has been altered by the look in her eyes. In the realm of enchantment, what the eyes say is often more potent than any spoken words. It's no wonder most women would like to turn theirs in for a slightly larger, more luminous and lucid model.

However, it's so easy to intensify the natural beauty of your eyes that there is no real reason for not being satisfied with your own. You can give your eyes the illusion of increased size by following the same technique used regularly by the Powers Girls in preparing to pose before the camera. They're so expert that not even the camera's accurate eye can detect their stratagem.

Here's how it's done:

When you are applying your regular foundation to your face, on the puff of your upper lid use the most sparing amount possible of a slightly darker shade of foundation. (Don't let it creep down to your lower lid under any circumstances.) Next, blend the foundation on your upper lid out and into your regular base. This method of dual application will serve to minimize the overhang of your upper lid and, therefore, increase the importance of the eye itself.

Now forget about your eyes until the rest of your cosmetic grooming is complete. Then apply your eyeshadow to your lower lid from a line above the center of your pupil to the outer tip of your brow and blend it outward and upward. Add to the shadow a soft pencilled line drawn along the very edge of the lid from the center to a quarter of an inch past the outer end. Blur, smooth and blend this line with your finger tips until it is as imaginary as the boundary line of your home state. If you do it right, it will make your eyes look larger, more alluring.

Lastly, give an upward whisk of mascara to your lashes and a quick stroke of a brush to your brows. Now take a good look at what big eyes you have!
